INTRODUCTION

By craftsmen and mean men, these pageants are played,
And to commons and countrymen accustomably before:
If better men and finer heads now come, what can be said?

THE pageants of the old English town-guilds, and the other mysteries and interludes that follow, have still an uncommon reality about them if we take them in the spirit in which they were originally acted. Their office as the begetters of the greater literary drama to come, and their value as early records, have, since Sharp wrote his Dissertation on the Coventry Mysteries in 1816, been fully illustrated. But they have hardly yet reached the outside reader who looks for life and not for literary origins and relations in what he reads. This is a pity, for these old plays hide under their archaic dress the human interest that all dramatic art, no matter how crude, can claim when it is touched with our real emotions and sensations. They are not only a primitive religious drama, born of the church and its feasts; they are the genuine expression of the town life of the English people when it was still lived with some exuberance of spirits and communal pleasure. As we read them, indeed, though it be in cold blood, we are carried out of our book, and set in the street or market-square by the side of the "commons and countrymen," as in the day when Whitsuntide, or Corpus Christi, brought round the annual pageantry to Chester, Coventry, York, and other towns.

Of the plays that follow, six come from the old town pageants, reflecting in their variety the range of subject and the contemporary effect of the cycles from which they are taken. They are all typical, and show us how the scenes and characters of the east were mingled with the real life of the English craftsmen and townsfolk who acted them, and for whose pleasure they were written. Yet they give us only a small notion of the whole interest and extent of these plays. We gain an idea of their popularity both from the number of them given in one town and the number of places at which regular cycles, or single pageants, were represented from year to year. The York plays alone that remain are forty-eight in all; the Chester, twenty-four or five; the Wakefield, thirty-two or three. Even these do not represent anything like the full list. Mr. E. K. Chambers, in an appendix to his Mediæval Stage, gives a list of eighty-nine different episodes treated in one set or another of the English and Cornish cycles. Then as to the gazette of the many scattered places where they had a traditional hold: Beverley had a cycle of thirty-six; Newcastle-on-Tyne and Norwich, each one of twelve; while the village and parochial plays were almost numberless. In Essex alone the list includes twenty-one towns and villages, though it is fair to add that this was a specially enterprising shire. At Lydd and New Romney, companies of players from fourteen neighbouring towns and villages can be traced in the local records that stretch from a year or so before, to eight years after, the fifteenth century.

Mrs. J. R. Green, in her history of Town Life in that century, shows us how the townspeople mixed their workday and holiday pursuits, their serious duties with an apparent "incessant round of gaieties." Hardly a town but had its own particular play, acted in the town hall or the parish churchyard, "the mayor and his brethren sitting in state." In 1411 there was a great play, From the Beginning of the World, played in London at the Skinner's Well. It lasted seven days continually, and there were the most part of the lords and gentles of England. No copy of this play exists, but of its character we have a pretty sensible idea from various other plays of the Creation handed down from the north-country cycles. In the best of them the predestined Adam is created after a fashion both to suggest his treatment by Giotto in the medallion at Florence, and his lineaments as an English mediæval prototype:—

But now this man that I have made,
With the ghost of life, I make him glad,
Rise up, Adam, rise up rade,¹
A man full of soul and life!"

But to surprise the English mediæval smith or carpenter, cobbler or bowyer, when he turns playgoer at Whitsuntide, assisting at a play which expressed himself as well as its scriptural folk, we must go on to later episodes. The Deluge in the Chester pageant, that opens the present volume, has among its many Noah's Ark sensations, some of them difficult enough to mimic on the pageant-wagon, a typical recall of the shipwright and ark-builder. God says to Noah:—

A ship soon thou shalt make thee of trees, dry and light.

Little chambers therein thou make,
And binding pitch also thou take,
Within and out, thou ne slake
To anoint it thro' all thy might.

In the York Noah's Ark pageant, which seems to be the parent-play in England of all its kind, we have this craftsman's episode much enlarged. "Make it of boards," God says, "and wands between!"

Thus thriftily and not over thin,
Look that thy seams be subtly seen
And nailéd well, that they not twin:
Thus I devised it should have been;
Therefore do forth, and leave thy din

Then, after further instructions, Noah begins to work before the spectators, first rough-hewing a plank, then trying it with a line, and joining it with a gynn or gin. He says:—

More subtilely can no man sew;¹
It shall be clinched each ilk and deal,
With nails that are both noble and new,
Thus shall I fix it to the keel:
Take here a rivet, and there a screw,
With there bow,² there now, work I well,
This work, I warrant both good and true.

To complete the pedigree of this scene we must turn to the old poem, the "Cursor Mundi," which, written in the fourteenth century, the time when the northern miracle-plays were taking decisive shape, appears to have served their writers as a stock-book. The following passage is own brother to that in the York miracle-play:—

A ship must thou needs dight,
Myself shall be the master-wright.
I shall thee tell how broad and long,
Of what measure and how strong.

² "Bow"—the arched frame on which the ship is built.

When the timber is fastened well,
 Wind the sides ever each and deal.
 Bind it first with balk and band,
 And wind it then too with good wand.
 With pitch, look, it be not thin!
 Plaster it well without and in!

The likeness we see is startling: so near to the other indeed as to suggest almost a common authorship.

As for the pastoral plays in the same towns, we find the shepherds and countrymen were just as well furnished with rough cuts from the life. The most real and frankly illustrative, and by no means the least idyllic of them is perhaps the Chester play of the three shepherds. It was not played by countrymen but by townsmen, like the other plays in the town cycles, being in this case the "Paynters and Glasiors" play. The first shepherd who opens it talks of the "bower" or cote he would build, his "sheep to shield," his "seemly wethers to save:—"

From comely Conway unto Clyde
 Under tyldes¹ them to hide:
 A better shepherd on no side
 No earthly man may have.
 For with walking weary I have methought
 Beside thee such my sheep I sought
 My long-tail'd tups are in my thought
 Them to save and heal. . . .

In the Death of Abel, another Chester play, Cain comes in with a plough, and says:—

A tiller I am, and so will I be,
 As my daddy hath taught it me
 I will fulfil his lore.

In the subsequent incident of the corn that Cain is to offer for his sacrifice, we hear the plain echo of the English farmer's voice in the corn-market mixing with the scriptural verse: "This standing corn that was eaten by beasts," will do:

God, thou gettest no better of me,
 Be thou never so grim.

So throughout the plays the folk-life of their day, their customs and customary speech, are for ever emerging from the biblical scene.

In trying to realise how the miracle-plays were mounted and acted, we shall find the best witness at Chester. This was a rather late one. Archdeacon Rogers, who saw them in 1594, when they had been going on for something like three centuries in all. From his account (in the Harleian Miscellany) it appears the Chester plays were given on Whit-Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

"The manner of these plays were, every company had his pageant or part, a high scaffold with two rooms, a higher and a lower, upon four wheels. In the lower they apparelled themselves, and in the higher room they played, being all open on the top, that all beholders might hear and see them." They were played, he goes on to say, in every street:

"They began first at the abbey gates, and when the first pageant was played, it was wheeled to the high cross before the mayor, and so to every street. So every street had a pageant playing before it at one time, till all the pageants for the day appointed were played. When one pageant was near ended, word was brought from street to street, that so they might come in place thereof, exceeding orderly, and all the streets have their pageants before them, all at one time playing together; to see which plays was great resort and also scaffolds and stages made in the streets in those places where they determined to play their pageants."

The same writer explains elsewhere that these plays were divided into twenty-four pageants, according to the number of the city companies, and that each company brought out its own pageant.

At York, whose plays Miss L. Toulmin Smith edited in 1887, we can turn to Davies's two books¹ and the local records, to complete the Chester description. Those who travel to York by rail to-day, and there dismount, as most of us have often done, to walk through the city to the cathedral, will be interested to find that the railway station now stands where once was Pageant Green. Near it was formerly another kind of station, where stood the houses hired to keep the pageants stored and put away from one year's show to another. The word "pageant," (pagina, or plank), we ought to recall, was used for the stage, or wheeled car of two stories, before it was used for the show set forth upon it. Davies helps us, as we perambulate York to-day, to mark where the old pageants were performed in 1399, at twelve stations, which were fixed and stated beforehand. The first station was at the gates of the Priory of the Holy Trinity in Mickle Gate, and the pageants were moved on them in turn to places at Skelder Gate end, North Street, Conyng Strete, Stane Gate and the gates of the Minster, so to the end of Girdler Gate; while the last of all was "upon the pavement." But the stations were subject to change, and there was much competition among wealthy householders (one of whom may have been the Robert Harpham mentioned in a 1417 list) to have the pageant played before their windows. The highest bidder gained the coveted right.

Before the actual day came, a town-crier was sent round the city to proclaim the "banes" or banns.¹ Arms were forbidden: "We command that no man go armed in this city with swords ne with carlill-axes, in disturbance of the king's peace and the play, or hindering of the procession of Corpus Christi, and that they leave their harness in their inns, saving knights and squires of worship that ought to have swords borne after them!" The plays began betimes. We read that at York the players were to be ready "at the mid-hour betwixt the IVth and Vth of the clock in the morning." Finally, for the players themselves, care was taken to secure good ones for the several parts. Sometimes a player doubled or trebled the characters in a particular play.

All through the XIVth and XVth centuries miracle-plays went on being performed regularly, or irregularly, in most of the English towns and larger villages. One of the smaller cycles was that of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, played at Corpus Christi, from 1426 onwards. The Three Kings of Cologne is mentioned in 1536, which the goldsmiths, plumbers, glaziers, and others were to play. Here the pageants were not movable ones, but were given at fixed points. No doubt some of the spots associated with the Whitsuntide "shuggy-shows" (as I remember them in my time) were originally show-grounds of the town pageants too. Only one play of the Newcastle series has survived, and that fitly enough, having regard to the Tyneside shipbuilding, is a shipwrights' play. Unluckily it has been so modernised that not a vestige of the local colour or Tyneside dialect remains.

We come now to the date and origin of these town pageants. Of the three chief cycles earliest mention is to be found at Chester, and it carries us doubtfully back to 1268. Sir John Arnway was mayor in that year, according to one account: but the name recurs pretty positively in 1327-8, and about that time Randall Higgenet, a monk of Chester Abbey, wrote the plays. But in the text handed down they are of a much later style of diction, and no doubt later in date than the Towneley or York series.

About the real origin of these plays there can be no question. They began in the churches as liturgy plays, which were given at the Christmas, Easter, and other festivals, illustrating in chief the birth, life, death and passion of Christ. We owe to Professor Skeat the recovery of some fragments of liturgical plays in Latin, which have been reprinted by Professor Manly, in his Specimens of the Pre-Shaksperean Drama. The earliest example there is may be dated as early as 967, an important landmark for us, as it is often assumed that we have no dramatic record of any kind in these islands earlier than the Norman Conquest. Another generation or two of research, such as the pioneer work of Dr. Furnivall and the Early English Text Society has made possible, and we shall distinguish clearly the two lines of growth, French and Norman, English and Saxon, by which the town-pageants and folk-plays of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries came to a head. Then the grafting of the English pastoral on the church-play, after it had been carried out into the open town or market-place, may become clear. Then, too, one will know how charged with potential dramatic life was the mind of him who wrote that interlude in four lines of the "Three Queens and the Three Dead Men," which contains in it the essence of a thousand moralities.

1st Queen. I am afeard.

2nd Queen. Lo, what I see?

3rd Queen. Me thinketh it be devils three!

1st Dead Body. I was well fair

2nd Dead Body. Such shalt thou be.

3rd Dead Body. For Godes love, be-ware by me!

These breathe, not a Norman, but an Anglo-Saxon fantasy, and they speak for themselves. But many tell-tale documents exist to mark the concurrent Norman and English development that went on in the English mediæval literature, and was seen and felt in the church and guild plays, just as it went on in the towns themselves. It finds at last its typical expression in an interlude like the Coventry Nativity-play, reprinted in this volume. Long before the miracle-play was written in the form it finally took, and about the time when William of Rouen, after much trouble with his son Robert culminating at the battle of Gerberoi, was about to return to England, the new opening in the church in this country became one to tempt poor foreign students of some parts and some ambition. Among these was a graduate of the University of Paris, one Geoffrey, known to us now as Geoffrey of St. Albans. He had been offered the post of master of the abbey school at that place, but when he arrived after some delay—due perhaps to his going to see a mystery play at Paris—he found the post filled up. He then made his way to Dunstable, and while there proved his spirit by getting up a miracle-play of “Sancta Katarina.” He borrowed copies from St. Albans in which to dress the actors; unluckily a fire took place, and the costumes were burnt. Thereupon he seems to have rendered himself up as it were in pious pledge for their loss, for he became a monk. In 1119 he was elected abbot, and if we give him about twenty-one years in which to rise to that dignity, we can date the St. Katherine play at 1098 or 9. This passage in a life of that time is a clue to the further history of the religious play in England. Geoffrey’s attempt to present one at Dunstable, no doubt a reproduction of one he had seen in France, is an instance of the naturalisation process that slowly went on.

The distinct break in the history of the miracle-play that made it from a church into a town pageant occurred about the close of the thirteenth century. From a performance within the church building it went on then into the church-yard, or the adjoining close or street, and so into the town at large. The clerics still kept a hand in its purveyance; but the rise of the town guilds gave it a new character, a new relation to the current life, and a larger equipment. The friendly rivalry between the guilds, and the craftsmen’s pride in not being outdone by other crafts, helped to stimulate the town play, till at length the elaborate cycle was formed that began with sunrise on a June morning, and lasted until the torch-bearers were called out at dusk to stand at the foot of the pageant.

The earliest miracle-plays that we can trace in the town cycles date back to the early years of Edward III. The last to be performed in London, according to Prynne, was Christ's Passion, which was given in James I.'s reign. It was produced "at Ely House, Holborn, when Gundomar lay there on Good Friday at night, at which there were thousands present." This was a late survivor, however, called to life by a last flicker of court sunshine on the occasion of the state visit of a Spanish ambassador. Here is an extreme range of over three centuries; and the old religious drama was still being performed in a more and more uncertain and intermittent fashion all through the dramatic reign of Shakspeare.

The ten plays that follow in this volume represent in brief the late remnant of this early drama, rescued at the point where it was ending its primitive growth, soon to give way to plays written with a consciously artistic sense of the stage. They are headed by the great and simple tragic masterpiece, in which they say their last word: the morality of Everyman, the noblest interlude of death the religious imagination of the middle ages has given to the stage. The two following Old Testament plays, The Deluge and the Sacrifice of Isaac, are the third and fourth pageants in the Chester series; played respectively by the Water-Leaders and Drawers of the river Dee, and by the Barbers and Wax-Chandlers. The next is from Coventry, a Nativity play, played by the Shearmen and Tailors. From the Wakefield series, preserved in the Towneley collection, we have three plays, the famous second shepherds' play, with the Crucifixion and the Harrowing of Hell, or extraction of souls from Hell (Extractio Animarum ab Inferno). Two Cornish mysteries of the Resurrection are included: The Three Maries at the Tomb, and Mary Magdalen bringing the News to the Apostles. Then follows Bishop Bale's oracular play of God's Promises, which is in effect a series of seven interludes strung on one thread, united by one leading idea, and one protagonist, the Pater Cœlestis.

In these religious and moral interludes, the dramatic colouring, however crude, is real and sincere. The humours of a broad folk-comedy break through the scriptural web continually in the guild plays like those in which Noah the shipbuilder, or the proverbial three shepherds, appear in the pageant. Noah's unwilling wife in the Chester Deluge, and Mak's canny wife in the Wakefield shepherd's play, where the sheep-stealing scenes reveal a born Yorkshire humorist, offer a pair of gossips not easy to match for rude comedy. Mak's wife, like the shepherd's in the same pastoral, utters proverbs with every other breath: "A woman's avyse helpys at the last!" "So long goys the pott to the water, at last comys it home broken!"

Now in hot, now in cold,
Full woeful is the household,
That wants a woman!

And her play upon the old north-country asseveration, "I'll eat my bairn,"—

If ever I you beguiled,
That I eat this child
That lies in this cradle,

(the child being the stolen sheep), must have caused towns-folk and country-folk outrageous laughter. Mak's wife is indeed memorable in her way as the Wife of Bath, Dame Quickly, or Mrs. Gamp.

There is nothing so boldly drawn in the Coventry Nativity. But there you have a startlingly realistic treatment joined to an emotional lyricism of the simplest charm:

Neither in halls, nor yet in bowers,
Born would he not be
Neither in castles, nor yet in towers
That seemly were to see.

and—

As I outrode this enderes night
Of three jolly shepherds, I saw a sight;
And all about their fold a star shone bright,
They sang "Terli, terlow!"
So merrily the shepherds their pipes can blow.

In this Coventry play we have nearly all the ingredients—foreign, liturgical, or homely English—of the composite miracle play brought together. It bears traces of many hands; and betrays in the dialogue of the formal characters the rubricated lines of the church play on which it was based. The chief characters live, move and act their recognised parts with the certainty of the folk in a nursery tale. Herod out-Herods himself with a Blunderbore extravagance:—

I am the cause of this great light and thunder;
It is through my fury that they such noise do make.
My fearful countenance, the clouds so doth incumber
That oftentimes for dread thereof, the very earth doth quake.

“Fee, fi, fo, fum!” might be the refrain of this giant’s litany. The other types are as plainly stamped. The shepherd’s are from the life, and contrast well with the stilted and rather tiresome prophets. The scenes at the babe’s crib when the offerings are made of the shepherds’ pipe, old hat, and mittens, are both droll and tender.

The tragic counterparts of these scenes are those where the Three Executioners work their pitiless task to an end at the Crucifixion, or where the Three Maries go to the grave afterwards in the Cornish mystery, or where Isaac bids his father bind his eyes that he shall not see the sword. It was for long the fashion to say, as Sir Walter Scott did, that these plays had little poetic life, or human interest in them. But they are, at their best, truly touched with essential emotions, with humour, terror, sorrow, pity, as the case may be. Dramatically they are far more alive at this moment, than the English drama of the mid-nineteenth century.

In the Cornish mysteries we lose much by having to use a translation. But something of the spirit and life survive in spite of it, and one detached passage from another of the plays, that of the Crucifixion, is printed in the appendix, which loses nothing by being compared with the treatment in other miracle-plays. Also in the Appendix will be found an interesting note from Norris’s Ancient Cornish Drama, on the mode in which the Cornish mysteries were played; and a brief account by Mr. Jenner of the trilogy contained in that work.

There remains John Bayle’s play of God’s Promises. Its author was born at the sea-doomed city of Dunwich in Suffolk, in 1495. Destined for the church, he showed his obstinacy early by marrying in defiance of his cloth. He was lucky and unlucky in being a protégé of Thomas Cromwell, and had to fly the country on that dangerous agent's death. He returned when the new order was established, and became Bishop of Ossory, had to suffer and turn exile for his tenets again in Mary's reign; but found safe harbourage for his latter years at Canterbury, where he died. He wrote, on his own evidence, more than twenty plays, of which God's Promises, the Life of John the Baptist, and King John, a history play of interest as a pioneer, are best known. He himself called God's Promises a tragedy, but unless the sense of Sodom hanging in the balance, while Abraham works down to its lowest point the diminishing ratio of the just to be found there, or of David's appearing before the Pater Cœlestis as the great judge, of dramatic or tragic emotion there is little indeed. But Bale's rhetoric easily ran to the edge of suspense, as in the opening of his seventh act, where he puts the dramatic question in the last line:—

I have with fearcenesse mankynde oft tymes corrected,
And agayne I have allured hym by swete promes.
I have sent sore plages, when he hath me neglected,
And then by and by, most confortable swetnes.
To wynne hym to grace, bothe mercye and ryghteousnes
I have exercysed, yet wyl he not amende.
Shall I now lose hym, or shall I hym defende?

And what could be finer than the setting he gives to the antiphon, O Oriens Splendor, at the end of the second act?

To turn from Bayle's play to the heart-breaking realities of Everyman is like turning from a volume of all too edifying sermons to the last chapters of one of the gospels. Into the full history of this play, opening a difficult question about the early relations between Dutch and English writers and printers, there is no room here to go. The Dutch Everyman—Elckerlijk—was in all probability the original of the English, and it was certainly printed a few years earlier. Richard Pynson, who first imprinted the English play at the Sign of the George in Fleet Street, was printing at his press there from the early years of the sixteenth century. The play itself may have been written, and first performed, in English, as in Dutch, a generation or more before.

It was written, no doubt, like most of the plays in this volume, by a churchman; and he must have been a man of profound imagination, and of the tenderest human soul conceivable. His ecclesiastical habit becomes clear enough before the end of the play, where he bids Everyman go and confess his sins. Like many of the more poignant scenes and passages in the miracle-plays that follow it, this morality too leaves one exclaiming on how good a thing was the plain English of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries.

The relation of the several miracle-plays here printed to the town-cycles from which they come will be seen at a glance on reference to the tables of pageants that appear in the Appendix. We may take it that all these town and country plays represent continually used and frequently tinkered texts, that must in some cases have passed through many piecemeal changes. In making them easy to the average reader of to-day, who takes the place of the mediæval playgoer at a Corpus Christi festival, their latest copyists have but followed in the wake of a series of Tudor scribes who renewed the prompt-books from time to time. In this process, apart from the change of spelling, the smallest possible alteration has been made consistent with the bringing of the text to a fair modern level of intelligibility. Old words that have been familiarised in Malory or Shakespeare, or the Bible, or in the Border Ballads and north-country books, or in Walter Scott, or the modern dialect of Yorkshire, are usually allowed to stand, and words needed to keep the rhyme, are left intact. But really hard words, likely to delay the reader, are glossed. One Towneley play, the Extractio Animarum, another and a most spirited example of the "Harrowing of Hell," mysteries that thrilled the people long ago, is given in the original spelling, as some test of the change effected in the others. Further, in the Appendix will be found a late example of a St. George and the Dragon doggerel Christmas play, which comes from Cornwall, and which in a slightly varying form has been played in many shires, from Wessex to Tyneside, within living memory. This shows us the last state of the traditional mystery, and the English folk-play as it became when it was left to the village wits and playwrights to produce it, without any co-operation from the trained eye and hand of a parson or a learned clerk. Of some other forms of our earlier drama, not omitting the Welsh interludes of Twm o'r Nant, it may be possible to give illustrations in a later book, companion to this. Only so much is given here as may interest the reader, who is a playgoer first of all, and asks for entertainment and a light in these darker passages of the old British drama.

Finally the amplest acknowledgments are due to those who have worked upon these present plays, including Mrs. C. Richardson, M.A., Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Roberts, Miss Hawkins, G. R., and Mr. Ezra Pound; and to the various editors of the "Early English Text Society," who have made this book possible. Especially should tribute be paid to Dr. Furnivall for his permission to make use of the Society's texts, and his interest in this uncertain attempt to capture the outer public too, and attract it to that ever-living literature to which he has devoted so many days of his young old-age.

EVERYMAN

HERE BEGINNETH A TREATISE HOW THE HIGH FATHER OF HEAVEN SENDETH DEATH TO SUMMON EVERY CREATURE TO COME AND GIVE ACCOUNT OF THEIR LIVES IN THIS WORLD AND IS IN MANNER OF A MORAL PLAY.

Messenger. I pray you all give your audience,
And hear this matter with reverence,

By figure a moral play—

The Summoning of Everyman called it is,
That of our lives and ending shows
How transitory we be all day.

This matter is wondrous precious,
But the intent of it is more gracious,
And sweet to bear away.

The story saith,—Man, in the beginning,
Look well, and take good heed to the ending,
Be you never so gay!

Ye think sin in the beginning full sweet,
Which in the end causeth thy soul to weep,
When the body lieth in clay.

Here shall you see how Fellowship and Jollity,
Both Strength, Pleasure, and Beauty,
Will fade from thee as flower in May.

For ye shall hear, how our heaven king
Calleth Everyman to a general reckoning:
Give audience, and hear what he doth say.

God. I perceive here in my majesty,
How that all creatures be to me unkind,
Living without dread in worldly prosperity:
Of ghostly sight the people be so blind,
Drowned in sin, they know me not for their God;
In worldly riches is all their mind,
They fear not my rightwiseness, the sharp rod;
My law that I shewed, when I for them died,
They forget clean, and shedding of my blood red;

I hanged between two, it cannot be denied;
 To get them life I suffered to be dead;
 I healed their feet, with thorns hurt was my head:
 I could do no more than I did truly,
 And now I see the people do clean forsake me.
 They use the seven deadly sins damnable;
 As pride, covetise, wrath, and lechery,
 Now in the world be made commendable;
 And thus they leave of angels the heavenly company;
 Everyman liveth so after his own pleasure,
 And yet of their life they be nothing sure:
 I see the more that I them forbear
 The worse they be from year to year;
 All that liveth appaireth ¹ fast,
 Therefore I will in all the haste
 Have a reckoning of Everyman's person
 For and I leave the people thus alone
 In their life and wicked tempests,
 Verily they will become much worse than beasts;
 For now one would by envy another up eat;
 Charity they all do clean forget.
 I hoped well that Everyman
 In my glory should make his mansion,
 And thereto I had them all elect;
 But now I see, like traitors deject,
 They thank me not for the pleasure that I to them meant,
 Nor yet for their being that I them have lent;
 I proffered the people great multitude of mercy,
 And few there be that asketh it heartily;
 They be so cumbered with worldly riches,
 That needs on them I must do justice,
 On Everyman living without fear.
 Where art thou, Death, thou mighty messenger?
Death. Almighty God, I am here at your will,
 Your commandment to fulfil.
God. Go thou to Everyman,
 And show him in my name
 A pilgrimage he must on him take,
 Which he in no wise may escape;
 And that he bring with him a sure reckoning
 Without delay or any tarrying.

Death. Lord, I will in the world go run over all,
 And cruelly outsearch both great and small; .
 Every man will I beset that liveth beastly
 Out of God's laws, and dreadeth not folly:
 He that loveth riches I will strike with my dart,
 His sight to blind, and from heaven to depart,
 Except that alms be his good friend,
 In hell for to dwell, world without end.
 Lo, yonder I see Everyman walking;
 Full little he thinketh on my coming;
 His mind is on fleshly lusts and his treasure,
 And great pain it shall cause him to endure
 Before the Lord Heaven King.
Everyman, stand still; whither art thou going
 Thus gaily? Hast thou thy Maker forgot?

Everyman. Why askst thou?
 Wouldest thou wete? ¹

Death. Yea, sir, I will show you;
 In great haste I am sent to thee
 From God out of his majesty.

Everyman. What, sent to me?

Death. Yea, certainly.

Though thou have forgot him here,
 He thinketh on thee in the heavenly sphere,
 As, or we depart, thou shalt know.

Everyman. What desireth God of me?

Death. That shall I show thee;
 A reckoning he will needs have
 Without any longer respite.

Everyman. To give a reckoning longer leisure I crave;
 This blind matter troubleth my wit.

Death. On thee thou must take a long journey:
 Therefore thy book of count with thee thou bring;
 For turn again thou can not by no way,
 And look thou be sure of thy reckoning:
 For before God thou shalt answer, and show
 Thy many bad deeds and good but a few;
 How thou hast spent thy life, and in what wise,
 Before the chief lord of paradise.
 Have ado that we were in that way,
 For, wete thou well, thou shalt make none attournay.²

² mediator.

Everyman. Full unready I am such reckoning to give,
I know thee not: what messenger art thou?

Death. I am Death, that no man dreadeth.

For every man I rest and no man spareth;
For it is God's commandment
That all to me should be obedient.

Everyman. O Death, thou comest when I had thee least in mind;

In thy power it lieth me to save,
Yet of my good will I give thee, if ye will be kind,
Yea, a thousand pound shalt thou have,
And defer this matter till another day.

Death. Everyman, it may not be by no way;

I set not by gold, silver, nor riches,
Ne by pope, emperor, king, duke, ne princes.
For and I would receive gifts great,
All the world I might get;
But my custom is clean contrary.

I give thee no respite: come hence, and not tarry.

Everyman. Alas, shall I have no longer respite?

I may say Death giveth no warning:
To think on thee, it maketh my heart sick,
For all unready is my book of reckoning.
But twelve year and I might have abiding,
My counting book I would make so clear,
That my reckoning I should not need to fear.
Wherefore, Death, I pray thee, for God's mercy,
Spare me till I be provided of remedy.

Death. Thee availeth not to cry, weep, and pray:

But haste thee lightly that you were gone the journey,
And prove thy friends if thou can.
For, wete thou well, the tide abideth no man,
And in the world each living creature
For Adam's sin must die of nature.

Everyman. Death, if I should this pilgrimage take,
And my reckoning surely make,
Show me, for saint charity,
Should I not come again shortly?

Death. No, Everyman; and thou be once there,
Thou mayst never more come here,
Trust me verily.

Everyman. O gracious God, in the high seat celestial,

Have mercy on me in this most need;
 Shall I have no company from this vale terrestrial
 Of mine acquaintance that way me to lead?

Death. Yea, if any be so hardy,
 That would go with thee and bear thee company.
 Hie thee that you were gone to God's magnificence,
 Thy reckoning to give before his presence.
 What, weenest thou thy life is given thee,
 And thy worldly goods also?

Everyman. I had wend so, verily.

Death. Nay, nay; it was but lent thee;
 For as soon as thou art go,
 Another awhile shall have it, and then go therefro
 Even as thou hast done.
 Everyman, thou art mad; thou hast thy wits five,
 And here on earth will not amend thy life,
 For suddenly I do come.

Everyman. O wretched caitiff, whither shall I flee,
 That I might scape this endless sorrow!
 Now, gentle Death, spare me till to-morrow,
 That I may amend me
 With good advisement.

Death. Nay, thereto I will not consent,
 Nor no man will I respite,
 But to the heart suddenly I shall smite
 Without any advisement.
 And now out of thy sight I will me hie;
 See thou make thee ready shortly,
 For thou mayst say this is the day
 That no man living may scape away.

Everyman. Alas, I may well weep with sighs deep;
 Now have I no manner of company
 To help me in my journey, and me to keep;
 And also my writing is full unready.
 How shall I do now for to excuse me?
 I would to God I had never be gete!¹
 To my soul a full great profit it had be;
 For now I fear pains huge and great.
 The time passeth; Lord, help that all wrought;
 For though I mourn it availeth nought.
 The day passeth, and is almost a-go;

I wot not well what for to do.
 To whom were I best my complaint to make?
 What, and I to Fellowship thereof spake,
 And showed him of this sudden chance?
 For in him is all mine affiance;
 We have in the world so many a day
 Be on good friends in sport and play.
 I see him yonder, certainly;
 I trust that he will bear me company;
 Therefore to him will I speak to ease my sorrow.
 Well met, good Fellowship, and good morrow!
Fellowship speaketh. Everyman, good morrow by this day.
 Sir, why lookest thou so piteously?
 If any thing be amiss, I pray thee, me say,
 That I may help to remedy.

Everyman. Yea, good Fellowship, yea,
 I am in great jeopardy.

Fellowship. My true friend, show to me your mind;
 I will not forsake thee, unto my life's end,
 In the way of good company.

Everyman. That was well spoken, and lovingly.

Fellowship. Sir, I must needs know your heaviness;
 I have pity to see you in any distress;
 If any have you wronged ye shall revenged be,
 Though I on the ground be slain for thee,—
 Though that I know before that I should die.

Everyman. Verily, Fellowship, gramercy.

Fellowship. Tush! by thy thanks I set not a straw.
 Show me your grief, and say no more.

Everyman. If I my heart should to you break,
 And then you to turn your mind from me,
 And would not me comfort, when you hear me speak,
 Then should I ten times sorrier be.

Fellowship. Sir, I say as I will do in deed.

Everyman. Then be you a good friend at need:
 I have found you true here before.

Fellowship. And so ye shall evermore;
 For, in faith, and thou go to Hell,
 I will not forsake thee by the way!

Everyman. Ye speak like a good friend; I believe you well;
 I shall deserve it, and I may.

Fellowship. I speak of no deserving, by this day.

For he that will say and nothing do
 Is not worthy with good company to go;
 Therefore show me the grief of your mind,
 As to your friend most loving and kind.

Everyman. I shall show you how it is;
 Commanded I am to go a journey,
 A long way, hard and dangerous,
 And give a strait count without delay
 Before the high judge Adonai.¹
 Wherefore I pray you, bear me company,
 As ye have promised, in this journey.

Fellowship. That is matter indeed! Promise is duty,
 But, and I should take such a voyage on me,
 I know it well, it should be to my pain:
 Also it make me afeard, certain.
 But let us take counsel here as well as we can,
 For your words would fear a strong man.

Everyman. Why, ye said, If I had need,
 Ye would me never forsake, quick nor dead,
 Though it were to hell truly.

Fellowship. So I said, certainly,
 But such pleasures be set aside, thee sooth to say:
 And also, if we took such a journey,
 When should we come again?

Everyman. Nay, never again till the day of doom.

Fellowship. In faith, then will not I come there!
 Who hath you these tidings brought?

Everyman. Indeed, Death was with me here.

Fellowship. Now, by God that all hath bought,
 If Death were the messenger,
 For no man that is living to-day
 I will not go that loath journey—
 Not for the father that begat me!

Everyman. Ye promised other wise, pardie.

Fellowship. I wot well I say so truly;
 And yet if thou wilt eat, and drink, and make good cheer,
 Or haunt to women, the lusty company,
 I would not forsake you, while the day is clear,
 Trust me verily!

Everyman. Yea, thereto ye would be ready;
 To go to mirth, solace, and play,

¹ God.

Your mind will sooner apply

Than to bear me company in my long journey.

Fellowship. Now, in good faith, I will not that way.

But and thou wilt murder, or any man kill,

In that I will help thee with a good will!

Everyman. O that is a simple advice indeed!

Gentle fellow, help me in my necessity;

We have loved long, and now I need,

And now, gentle Fellowship, remember me.

Fellowship. Whether ye have loved me or no,

By Saint John, I will not with thee go.

Everyman. Yet I pray thee, take the labour, and do so much for me

To bring me forward, for saint charity,

And comfort me till I come without the town.

Fellowship. Nay, and thou would give me a new gown,

I will not a foot with thee go;

But and you had tarried I would not have left thee so.

And as now, God speed thee in thy journey,

For from thee I will depart as fast as I may.

Everyman. Whither away, Fellowship? will you forsake me?

Fellowship. Yea, by my fay, to God I betake thee.

Everyman. Farewell, good Fellowship; for this my heart is sore;

Adieu for ever, I shall see thee no more.

Fellowship. In faith, Everyman, farewell now at the end;

For you I will remember that parting is mourning.

Everyman. Alack! shall we thus depart indeed?

Our Lady, help, without any more comfort,

Lo, Fellowship forsaketh me in my most need:

For help in this world whither shall I resort?

Fellowship herebefore with me woulde merry make;

And now little sorrow for me doth he take.

It is said, in prosperity men friends may find,

Which in adversity be full unkind.

Now whither for succour shall I flee,

Sith that Fellowship hath forsaken me?

To my kinsmen I will truly,

Praying them to help me in my necessity;

I believe that they will do so,

For kind will creep where it may not go.

I will go say, for yonder I see them go.

Where be ye now, my friends and kinsmen?
Kindred. Here be we now at your commandment.

Cousin, I pray you show us your intent
In any wise, and not spare.

Cousin. Yea, Everyman, and to us declare
If ye be disposed to go any whither,
For wete you well, we will live and die together.

Kindred. In wealth and woe we will with you hold,
For over his kin a man may be bold.

Everyman. Gramercy, my friends and kinsmen kind.
Now shall I show you the grief of my mind:
I was commanded by a messenger,
That is an high king's chief officer;
He bade me go a pilgrimage to my pain,
And I know well I shall never come again;
Also I must give a reckoning straight,
For I have a great enemy, that hath me in wait,
Which intendeth me for to hinder.

Kindred. What account is that which ye must render?
That would I know.

Everyman. Of all my works I must show
How I have lived and my days spent;
Also of ill deeds, that I have used
In my time, sith life was me lent;
And of all virtues that I have refused.
Therefore I pray you go thither with me,
To help to make mine account, for saint charity.

Cousin. What, to go thither? Is that the matter?
Nay, Everyman, I had liefer fast bread and water
All this five year and more.

Everyman. Alas, that ever I was bore!¹
For now shall I never be merry
If that you forsake me.

Kindred. Ah, sir; what, ye be a merry man!
Take good heart to you, and make no moan.
But one thing I warn you, by Saint Anne,
As for me, ye shall go alone.

Everyman. My Cousin, will you not with me go?

Cousin. No, by our Lady; I have the cramp in my toe.
Trust not to me, for, so God me speed,
I will deceive you in your most need.

¹ born.

Kindred. It availeth not us to tice.

Ye shall have my maid with all my heart;
 She loveth to go to feasts, there to be nice,
 And to dance, and abroad to start:
 I will give her leave to help you in that journey,
 If that you and she may agree.

Everyman. Now show me the very effect of your mind.
 Will you go with me, or abide behind?

Kindred. Abide behind? yea, that I will and I may!
 Therefore farewell until another day.

Everyman. How should I be merry or glad?

For fair promises to me make,
 But when I have most need, they me forsake.
 I am deceived; that maketh me sad.

Cousin. Cousin Everyman, farewell now,
 For verily I will not go with you;
 Also of mine own an unready reckoning
 I have to account; therefore I make tarrying.
 Now, God keep thee, for now I go.

Everyman. Ah, Jesus, is all come hereto?

Lo, fair words maketh fools feign;
 They promise and nothing will do certain.
 My kinsmen promised me faithfully
 For to abide with me steadfastly,
 And now fast away do they flee:
 Even so Fellowship promised me.

What friend were best me of to provide?
 I lose my time here longer to abide.
 Yet in my mind a thing there is;—
 All my life I have loved riches;
 If that my good now help me might,
 He would make my heart full light.
 I will speak to him in this distress.—
 Where art thou, my Goods and riches?

Goods. Who calleth me? Everyman? what haste thou hast!
 I lie here in corners, trussed and piled so high,
 And in chests I am locked so fast,
 Also sacked in bags, thou mayst see with thine eye,
 I cannot stir; in packs low I lie.
 What would ye have, lightly me say.

Everyman. Come hither, Good, in all the haste thou may,
 For of counsel I must desire thee.

Goods. Sir, and ye in the world have trouble or adversity,
That can I help you to remedy shortly.

Everyman. It is another disease that grieveth me;
In this world it is not, I tell thee so.
I am sent for another way to go,
To give a straight account general
Before the highest Jupiter of all;
And all my life I have had joy and pleasure in thee.
Therefore I pray thee go with me,
For, peradventure, thou mayst before God Almighty
My reckoning help to clean and purify;
For it is said ever among,
That money maketh all right that is wrong.

Goods. Nay, Everyman, I sing another song,
I follow no man in such voyages;
For and I went with thee
Thou shouldst fare much the worse for me;
For because on me thou did set thy mind,
Thy reckoning I have made blotted and blind,
That thine account thou cannot make truly;
And that hast thou for the love of me.

Everyman. That would grieve me full sore,
When I should come to that fearful answer.
Up, let us go thither together.

Goods. Nay, not so, I am too brittle, I may not endure;
I will follow no man one foot, be ye sure.

Everyman. Alas, I have thee loved, and had great pleasure
All my life-days on good and treasure.

Goods. That is to thy damnation without lesing,
For my love is contrary to the love everlasting
But if thou had me loved moderately during,
As, to the poor give part of me,
Then shouldst thou not in this dolour be,
Nor in this great sorrow and care.

Everyman. Lo, now was I deceived or I was ware,
And all I may wyte¹ my spending of time.

Goods. What, weenest thou that I am thine?

Everyman. I had wend so.

Goods. Nay, Everyman, I say no;
As for a while I was lent thee,
A season thou hast had me in prosperity;

¹ blame.

My condition is man's soul to kill;
 If I save one, a thousand I do spill;
 Weenest thou that I will follow thee?
 Nay, from this world, not verily.

Everyman. I had wend otherwise.

Goods. Therefore to thy soul Good is a thief;
 For when thou art dead, this is my guise
 Another to deceive in the same wise
 As I have done thee, and all to his soul's reprimand.

Everyman. O false Good, cursed thou be!

Thou traitor to God, that hast deceived me,
 And caught me in thy snare.

Goods. Marry, thou brought thyself in care,
 Whereof I am glad,
 I must needs laugh, I cannot be sad.

Everyman. Ah, Good, thou hast had long my heartly love;
 I gave thee that which should be the Lord's above.
 But wilt thou not go with me in deed?
 I pray thee truth to say.

Goods. No, so God me speed,
 Therefore farewell, and have good day.

Everyman. O, to whom shall I make my moan
 For to go with me in that heavy journey?
 First Fellowship said he would with me gone;
 His words were very pleasant and gay,
 But afterward he left me alone.

Then spake I to my kinsmen all in despair,
 And also they gave me words fair,
 They lacked no fair speaking,
 But all forsake me in the ending.

Then went I to my Goods that I loved best,
 In hope to have comfort, but there had I least;
 For my Goods sharply did me tell
 That he bringeth many into hell.
 Then of myself I was ashamed,
 And so I am worthy to be blamed;
 Thus may I well myself hate.

Of whom shall I now counsel take?
 I think that I shall never speed
 Till that I go to my Good-Deed,
 But alas, she is so weak,
 That she can neither go nor speak;

Yet will I venture on her now.—

My Good-Deeds, where be you?

Good-Deeds. Here I lie cold in the ground;

Thy sins hath me sore bound,

That I cannot stir.

Everyman. O, Good-Deeds, I stand in fear;

I must you pray of counsel,

For help now should come right well.

Good-Deeds. Everyman, I have understanding

That ye be summoned account to make

Before Messias, of Jerusalem King;

And you do by me¹ that journey what² you will I take.

Everyman. Therefore I come to you, my moan to make;

I pray you, that ye will go with me.

Good-Deeds. I would full fain, but I cannot stand verily.

Everyman. Why, is there anything on you fall?

Good-Deeds. Yea, sir, I may thank you of all;

If ye had perfectly cheered me,

Your book of account now full ready had be.

Look, the books of your works and deeds eke;

Oh, see how they lie under the feet,

To your soul's heaviness.

Everyman. Our Lord Jesus, help me!

For one letter here I can not see.

Good-Deeds. There is a blind reckoning in time of distress!

Everyman. Good-Deeds, I pray you, help me in this need,

Or else I am for ever damned indeed;

Therefore help me to make reckoning

Before the redeemer of all thing,

That king is, and was, and ever shall.

Good-Deeds. Everyman, I am sorry of your fall,

And fain would I help you, and I were able.

Everyman. Good-Deeds, your counsel I pray you give me.

Good-Deeds. That shall I do verily;

Though that on my feet I may not go,

I have a sister, that shall with you also,

Called Knowledge, which shall with you abide,

To help you to make that dreadful reckoning.

Knowledge. Everyman, I will go with thee, and be thy guide,

In thy most need to go by thy side.

Everyman. In good condition I am now in every thing,

And am wholly content with this good thing;

¹ If you go by me.

² with.

Thanked be God my Creator.

Good-Deeds. And when he hath brought thee there,

Where thou shalt heal thee of thy smart,

Then go you with your reckoning and your Good-Deeds together

For to make you joyful at heart

Before the blessed Trinity.

Everyman. My Good-Deeds, gramercy;

I am well content, certainly,

With your words sweet.

Knowledge. Now go we together lovingly,

To Confession, that cleansing river.

Everyman. For joy I weep; I would we were there;

But, I pray you, give me cognition

Where dwelleth that holy man, Confession.

Knowledge. In the house of salvation:

We shall find him in that place,

That shall us comfort by God's grace.

Lo, this is Confession; kneel down and ask mercy,

For he is in good conceit with God almighty.

Everyman. O glorious fountain that all uncleanness doth clarify,

Wash from me the spots of vices unclean,

That on me no sin may be seen;

I come with Knowledge for my redemption,

Repent with hearty and full contrition;

For I am commanded a pilgrimage to take,

And great accounts before God to make.

Now, I pray you, Shrift, mother of salvation,

Help my good deeds for my piteous exclamation,

Confession. I know your sorrow well, Everyman;

Because with Knowledge ye come to me,

I will you comfort as well as I can,

And a precious jewel I will give thee,

Called penance, wise voider of adversity;

Therewith shall your body chastised be,

With abstinence and perseverance in God's service:

Here shall you receive that scourge of me,

Which is penance strong, that ye must endure,

To remember thy Saviour was scourged for thee

With sharp scourges, and suffered it patiently;

So must thou, or thou scape that painful pilgrimage;

Knowledge, keep him in this voyage,
And by that time Good-Deeds will be with thee.
But in any wise, be sure of mercy,
For your time draweth fast, and ye will saved be;
Ask God mercy, and He will grant truly,
When with the scourge of penance man doth him bind,
The oil of forgiveness then shall he find.

Everyman. Thanked be God for his gracious work!
For now I will my penance begin;
This hath rejoiced and lighted my heart,
Though the knots be painful and hard within.

Knowledge. Everyman, look your penance that ye fulfil,
What pain that ever it to you be,
And Knowledge shall give you counsel at will,
How your accounts ye shall make clearly.

Everyman. O eternal God, O heavenly figure,
O way of rightwiseness, O goodly vision,
Which descended down in a virgin pure
Because he would Everyman redeem,
Which Adam forfeited by his disobedience:
O blessed Godhead, elect and high-divine,
Forgive my grievous offence;
Here I cry thee mercy in this presence.
O ghostly treasure, O ransomer and redeemer
Of all the world, hope and conductor,
Mirror of joy, and founder of mercy,
Which illumineth heaven and earth thereby,
Hear my clamorous complaint, though it late be;
Receive my prayers; unworthy in this heavy life,
Though I be, a sinner most abominable,
Yet let my name be written in Moses' table;
O Mary, pray to the Maker of all thing,
Me for to help at my ending,
And save me from the power of my enemy,
For Death assaileth me strongly;
And, Lady, that I may by means of thy prayer
Of your Son's glory to be partaker,
By the means of his passion I it crave,
I beseech you, help my soul to save.—
Knowledge, give me the scourge of penance;
My flesh therewith shall give a quittance:
I will now begin, if God give me grace.

Knowledge. Everyman, God give you time and space:
 Thus I bequeath you in the hands of our Saviour,
 Thus may you make your reckoning sure.

Everyman. In the name of the Holy Trinity,
 My body sore punished shall be:
 Take this body for the sin of the flesh;
 Also thou delightest to go gay and fresh,
 And in the way of damnation thou did me bring;
 Therefore suffer now strokes and punishing.
 Now of penance I will wade the water clear,
 To save me from purgatory, that sharp fire.

Good-Deeds. I thank God, now I can walk and go;
 And am delivered of my sickness and woe.
 Therefore with Everyman I will go, and not spare;
 His good works I will help him to declare.

Knowledge. Now, Everyman, be merry and glad;
 Your Good-Deeds cometh now; ye may not be sad;
 Now is your Good-Deeds whole and sound,
 Going upright upon the ground.

Everyman. My heart is light, and shall be evermore;
 Now will I smite faster than I did before.

Good-Deeds. Everyman, pilgrim, my special friend,
 Blessed be thou without end;
 For thee is prepared the eternal glory.
 Ye have me made whole and sound,
 Therefore I will bide by thee in every stound.¹

Everyman. Welcome, my Good-Deeds; now I hear thy voice,
 I weep for very sweetness of love.

Knowledge. Be no more sad, but ever rejoice,
 God seeth thy living in his throne above;
 Put on this garment to thy behove,
 Which is wet with your tears,
 Or else before God you may it miss,
 When you to your journey's end come shall.

Everyman. Gentle Knowledge, what do you it call?

Knowledge. It is a garment of sorrow:
 From pain it will you borrow;
 Contrition it is,
 That getteth forgiveness;
 It pleaseth God passing well.

Good-Deeds. Everyman, will you wear it for your heal?

¹ season

Everyman. Now blessed be Jesu, Mary's Son!

For now have I on true contrition.

And let us go now without tarrying;

Good-Deeds, have we clear our reckoning?

Good-Deeds. Yea, indeed I have it here.

Everyman. Then I trust we need not fear;

Now, friends, let us not part in twain.

Knowledge. Nay, Everyman, that will we not, certain.

Good-Deeds. Yet must thou lead with thee

Three persons of great might.

Everyman. Who should they be?

Good-Deeds. Discretion and Strength they hight,

And thy Beauty may not abide behind.

Knowledge. Also ye must call to mind

Your Five-wits as for your counsellors.

Good-Deeds. You must have them ready at all hours.

Everyman. How shall I get them hither?

Knowledge. You must call them all together,

And they will hear you incontinent.

Everyman. My friends, come hither and be present,

Discretion, Strength, my Five-wits, and Beauty.

Beauty. Here at your will we be all ready.

What will ye that we should do?

Good-Deeds. That ye would with Everyman go,

And help him in his pilgrimage,

Advise you, will ye with him or not in that voyage?

Strength. We will bring him all thither,

To his help and comfort, ye may believe me.

Discretion. So will we go with him all together.

Everyman. Almighty God, loved thou be,

I give thee laud that I have hither brought

Strength, Discretion, Beauty, and Five-wits; lack I nought;

And my Good-Deeds, with Knowledge clear,

All be in my company at my will here;

I desire no more to my business.

Strength. And I, Strength, will by you stand in distress,

Though thou would in battle fight on the ground.

Five-wits. And though it were through the world round,

We will not depart for sweet nor sour.

Beauty. No more will I unto death's hour,

Whatsoever thereof befall.

Discretion. Everyman, advise you first of all;

Go with a good advisement and deliberation;
We all give you virtuous monition
That all shall be well.

Everyman. My friends, hearken what I will tell:

I pray God reward you in his heavenly sphere.
Now hearken, all that be here,
For I will make my testament
Here before you all present.

In alms half my good I will give with my hands twain
In the way of charity, with good intent,
And the other half still shall remain
In quiet to be returned there it ought to be.
This I do in despite of the fiend of hell
To go quite out of his peril
Ever after and this day.

Knowledge. Everyman, hearken what I say;

Go to priesthood, I you advise,
And receive of him in any wise
The holy sacrament and ointment together;
Then shortly see ye turn again hither;
We will all abide you here.

Five-Wits. Yea, Everyman, hie you that ye ready were,

There is no emperor, king, duke, ne baron,
That of God hath commission,
As hath the least priest in the world being;
For of the blessed sacraments pure and benign,
He beareth the keys and thereof hath the cure
For man's redemption, it is ever sure;
Which God for our soul's medicine
Gave us out of his heart with great pine;
Here in this transitory life, for thee and me
The blessed sacraments seven there be,
Baptism, confirmation, with priesthood good,
And the sacrament of God's precious flesh and blood,
Marriage, the holy extreme unction, and penance;
These seven be good to have in remembrance,
Gracious sacraments of high divinity.

Everyman. Fain would I receive that holy body

And meekly to my ghostly father I will go.

Five-wits. Everyman, that is the best that ye can do:

God will you to salvation bring,

For priesthood exceedeth all other thing;
 To us Holy Scripture they do teach,
 And converteth man from sin heaven to reach,
 God hath to them more power given,
 Than to any angel that is in heaven;
 With five words he may consecrate
 God's body in flesh and blood to make,
 And handleth his maker between his hands;
 The priest bindeth and unbindeth all bands,
 Both in earth and in heaven;
 Thou ministers all the sacraments seven;
 Though we kissed thy feet thou were worthy;
 Thou art surgeon that cureth sin deadly:
 No remedy we find under God
 But all only priesthood.

Everyman, God gave priests that dignity,
 And setteth them in his stead among us to be;
 Thus be they above angels in degree.

Knowledge. If priests be good it is so surely;
 But when Jesus hanged on the cross with great smart
 There he gave, out of his blessed heart,
 The same sacrament in great torment:
 He sold them not to us, that Lord Omnipotent.
 Therefore Saint Peter the apostle doth say
 That Jesu's curse hath all they
 Which God their Saviour do buy or sell,
 Or they for any money do take or tell.
 Sinful priests giveth the sinners example bad;
 Their children sitteth by other men's fires, I have heard;
 And some haunteth women's company,
 With unclean life, as lusts of lechery:
 These be with sin made blind.

Five-wits. I trust to God no such may we find;
 Therefore let us priesthood honour,
 And follow their doctrine for our souls' succour;
 We be their sheep, and they shepherds be
 By whom we all be kept in surety.
 Peace, for yonder I see Everyman come,
 Which hath made true satisfaction.

Good-Deeds. Methinketh it is he indeed.

Everyman. Now Jesu be our alder speed.¹

¹ speed in help of all.

I have received the sacrament for my redemption,
And then mine extreme unction:

Blessed be all they that counselled me to take it!
And now, friends, let us go without longer respite;
I thank God that ye have tarried so long.

Now set each of you on this rod your hand,
And shortly follow me:

I go before, there I would be; God be our guide.

Strength. Everyman, we will not from you go,
Till ye have gone this voyage long.

Discretion. I, Discretion, will bide by you also.

Knowledge. And though this pilgrimage be never so strong,
I will never part you fro:

Everyman, I will be as sure by thee
As ever I did by Judas Maccabee.

Everyman. Alas, I am so faint I may not stand,
My limbs under me do fold;
Friends, let us not turn again to this land,
Not for all the world's gold,
For into this cave must I creep
And turn to the earth and there to sleep.

Beauty. What, into this grave? alas!

Everyman. Yea, there shall you consume more and less.

Beauty. And what, should I smother here?

Everyman. Yea, by my faith, and never more appear.
In this world live no more we shall,
But in heaven before the highest Lord of all.

Beauty. I cross out all this; adieu by Saint John;
I take my cap in my lap and am gone.

Everyman. What, Beauty, whither will ye?

Beauty. Peace, I am deaf; I look not behind me,
Not and thou would give me all the gold in thy chest.

Everyman. Alas, whereto may I trust?
Beauty goeth fast away hie;

She promised with me to live and die.

Strength. Everyman, I will thee also forsake and deny;
Thy game liketh me not at all.

Everyman. Why, then ye will forsake me all.
Sweet Strength, tarry a little space.

Strength. Nay, sir, by the rood of grace
I will hie me from thee fast,
Though thou weep till thy heart brast.

Everyman. Ye would ever bide by me, ye said.

Strength. Yea, I have you far enough conveyed;

Ye be old enough, I understand,

Your pilgrimage to take on hand;

I repent me that I hither came.

Everyman. Strength, you to displease I am to blame;

Will you break promise that is debt?

Strength. In faith, I care not;

Thou art but a fool to complain,

You spend your speech and waste your brain;

Go thrust thee into the ground.

Everyman. I had wend surer I should you have found.

He that trusteth in his Strength

She him deceiveth at the length.

Both Strength and Beauty forsaketh me,

Yet they promised me fair and lovingly.

Discretion. Everyman, I will after Strength be gone,

As for me I will leave you alone.

Everyman. Why, Discretion, will ye forsake me?

Discretion. Yea, in faith, I will go from thee,

For when Strength goeth before

I follow after evermore.

Everyman. Yet, I pray thee, for the love of the Trinity,

Look in my grave once piteously.

Discretion. Nay, so nigh will I not come.

Farewell, every one!

Everyman. O all thing faileth, save God alone;

Beauty, Strength, and Discretion;

For when Death bloweth his blast,

They all run from me full fast.

Five-wits. Everyman, my leave now of thee I take;

I will follow the other, for here I thee forsake.

Everyman. Alas! then may I wail and weep,

For I took you for my best friend.

Five-wits. I will no longer thee keep;

Now farewell, and there an end.

Everyman. O Jesu, help, all hath forsaken me!

Good-Deeds. Nay, Everyman, I will bide with thee,

I will not forsake thee indeed;

Thou shalt find me a good friend at need.

Everyman. Gramercy, Good-Deeds; now may I true friends

see;

227120

ALBRIGHT COLLEGE LIBRARY

They have forsaken me every one;
 I loved them better than my Good-Deeds alone.
 Knowledge, will ye forsake me also?

Knowledge. Yea, Everyman, when ye to death do go:
 But not yet for no manner of danger.

Everyman. Gramercy, Knowledge, with all my heart.

Knowledge. Nay, yet I will not from hence depart,
 Till I see where ye shall be come.

Everyman. Methinketh, alas, that I must be gone,
 To make my reckoning and my debts pay,
 For I see my time is nigh spent away.

Take example, all ye that this do hear or see,
 How they that I loved best do forsake me,
 Except my Good-Deeds that bideth truly.

Good-Deeds. All earthly things is but vanity:

Beauty, Strength, and Discretion, do man forsake,
 Foolish friends and kinsmen, that fair spake,
 All feeth save Good-Deeds, and that am I.

Everyman. Have mercy on me, God most mighty;
 And stand by me, thou Mother and Maid, holy Mary.

Good-Deeds. Fear not, I will speak for thee.

Everyman. Here I cry God mercy.

Good-Deeds. Short our end, and diminish our pain;
 Let us go and never come again.

Everyman. Into thy hands, Lord, my soul I commend;
 Receive it, Lord, that it be not lost;
 As thou me boughtest, so me defend,
 And save me from the fiend's boast,
 That I may appear with that blessed host
 That shall be saved at the day of doom.
In manus tuas—of might's most
 For ever—commendo spiritum meum.

Knowledge. Now hath he suffered that we all shall endure;
 The Good-Deeds shall make all sure.
 Now hath he made ending;
 Methinketh that I hear angels sing
 And make great joy and melody,
 Where Everyman's soul received shall be.

Angel. Come, excellent elect spouse to Jesu:
 Hereabove thou shalt go
 Because of thy singular virtue:
 Now the soul is taken the body fro;

Thy reckoning is crystal-clear.
Now shalt thou into the heavenly sphere,
Unto the which all ye shall come
That liveth well before the day of doom.

Doctor. This moral men may have in mind;
Ye hearers, take it of worth, old and young,
And forsake pride, for he deceiveth you in the end,
And remember Beauty, Five-wits, Strength, and Discretion,

They all at the last do Everyman forsake,
Save his Good-Deeds, there doth he take.
But beware, and they be small
Before God, he hath no help at all.

None excuse may be there for Everyman :

Alas, how shall he do then?

For after death amends may no man make,
For then mercy and pity do him forsake.

If his reckoning be not clear when he do come,
God will say—ite maledicti in ignem æternum.

And he that hath his account whole and sound,
High in heaven he shall be crowned;
Unto which place God bring us all thither
That we may live body and soul together.
Thereto help the Trinity,
Amen, say ye, for saint Charity.

THUS ENDETH THIS MORALL PLAY OF EVERYMAN.

God. I, God, that all the world have wrought
Heaven and Earth, and all of nought,
I see my people, in deed and thought,
Are foully set in sin.

My ghost shall not lodge in any man
That through fleshly liking is my fone,¹
But till six score years be gone
To look if they will blynne.²

Man that I made I will destroy,
Beast, worm, and fowl to fly,
For on earth they me annoy,
The folk that is thereon.

For it harms me so hurtfully
The malice now that can multiply,
That sore it grieveth me inwardly,
That ever I made man.

Therefore Noah, my servant free,
That righteous man art, as I see,
A ship soon thou shalt make thee,
Of trees dry and light.

Little chambers therein thou make
And binding slich³ also thou take
Within and out, thou not slake
To anoint it through all thy might.

Three hundred cubits it shall be long,
And so of breadth to make it strong,
Of height so, then must thou fonge,⁴
Thus measure it about.

One window work though thy might;
One cubit of length and breadth make it,
Upon the side a door shall fit

¹ foe.

² cease.

³ slime, or pitch.

⁴ take.

For to come in and out.

Eating-places thou make also,
Three roofed chambers, one or two:
For with water I think to stow ¹
Man that I can make.

Destroyed all the world shall be,
Save thou, thy wife, and sons three,
And all their wives, also, with thee,
Shall saved be for thy sake.

Noah. Ah, Lord! I thank thee, loud and still,
That to me art in such will,
And spares me and my house to spill
As now I soothly find.

Thy bidding, Lord, I shall fulfil,
And never more thee grieve nor grill ²
That such grace has sent me till
Among all mankind.

Have done you men and women all;
Help, for aught that may befall,
To work this ship, chamber, and hall,
As God hath bidden us do.

Shem. Father, I am already bowne,³
An axe I have, by my crown!
As sharp as any in all this town
For to go thereto.

Ham. I have a hatchet, wonder keen,
To bite well, as may be seen,
A better ground one, as I ween,
Is not in all this town.

Japhet. And I can well make a pin,
And with this hammer knock it in;
Go and work without more din;
And I am ready bowne.³

Noah's Wife. And we shall bring timber too,
For women nothing else to do;
Women be weak to undergo
Any great travail.

Shem's Wife. Here is a good hackstock;
On this you must hew and knock:
Shall none be idle in this flock,
Nor now may no man fail.

² vex.

³ prepared.

Ham's Wife. And I will go to gather slich,¹
 The ship for to clean and pitch;
 Anointed it must be, every stitch,
 Board, tree, and pin.

Japhet's Wife. And I will gather chips here
 To make a fire for you, in fear,
 And for to dight² your dinner,
 Against you come in.

[Here they make signs as though they were working with divers instruments.

Noah. Now in the name of God I will begin,
 To make the ship that we shall in,
 That we be ready for to swim,
 At the coming of the flood.

These boards I join together,
 To keep us safe from the weather
 That we may roam both hither and thither
 And safe be from this flood.

Of this tree will I have the mast,
 Tied with gables that will last
 With a sail yard for each blast
 And each thing in its kind.

With topmast high and bowsprit,
 With cords and ropes, I hold all fit
 To sail forth at the next weete³
 This ship is at an end.

Wife in this castle we shall be kept:
 My children and thou I would in leaped!

Noah's Wife. In faith, Noe, I had as lief thou had slept, for all thy frankishfare,⁴

For I will not do after thy rede.⁵

Noah. Good wife, do as I thee bid.

Noah's Wife. By Christ not, or I see more need,
 Though thou stand all the day and rave.

Noah. Lord, that women be crabbed aye!
 And never are meek, that I dare say.
 This is well seen of me to-day
 In witness of you each one.

Good wife, let be all this beere⁶
 That thou makest in this place here,

² nonsense.

³ prepare.

⁴ advice.

⁵ tide.

⁶ noise.

For they all ween thou art master;
And so thou art, by St. John!

God. Noah, take thou thy company
And in the ship hie that you be,
For none so righteous man to me
Is now on earth living.

Of clean beasts with thee thou take
Seven and seven, or thou seake,
He and she make to make
Quickly in that thou bring.

Of beasts unclean two and two,
Male and female, without more;
Of clean fowls seven also,
The he and she together.

Of fowles unclean two, and no more;
Of beasts as I said before:
That shall be saved through my lore
Against I send the weather.

Of all meats that must be eaten
Into the ship look there be gotten,
For that no way may be forgotten
And do all this by deene.¹

To sustain man and beasts therein,
Aye, till the waters cease and blyn.²
This world is filled full of sin
And that is now well seen.

Seven days be yet coming,
You shall have space them in to bring;
After that it is my liking
Mankind for to annoy.

Forty days and forty nights,
Rain shall fall for their unrights;
And that I have made through my might,
Now think I to destroy.

Noah. Lord, at your bidding I am bayne,³
Since none other grace will gain,
It will I fulfil fain,
For gracious I thee find.

A hundred winters and twenty
This ship making tarried have I:
If, through amendment, any mercy

¹ immediately.

² stop.

³ ready.

Would fall unto mankind.

Have done, you men and women all.
Hie you, lest this water fall,
That each beast were in his stall
And into ship brought.

Of clean beasts seven shall be;
Of unclean two, this God bade me;
This flood is nigh, well may we see,
Therefore tarry you nought.

Shem. Sir, here are lions, leopards in,
Horses, mares, oxen, and swine,
Goats, calves, sheep, and kine,
Here sitten ¹ may you see.

Ham. Camels, asses, men may find;
Buck, doe, hart and hind,
And beasts of all manner kind.
Here be, as thinks me.

Japhet. Take here cats and dogs too,
Otter, fox, fulmart also;
Hares, hopping gaily, can ye
Have kail here for to eat.

Noah's Wife. And here are bears, wolves set,
Apes, owls, marmoset;
Weasels, squirrels, and ferret
Here they eat their meat.

Shem's Wife. Yet more beasts are in this house!
Here cats come in full crowse,²
Here a rat and here a mouse;
They stand nigh together.

Ham's Wife. And here are fowls less and more,
Herons, cranes and bittern;
Swans, peacocks, have them before!
Meat for this weather.

Japhet's Wife. Here are cocks, kites, crows,
Rooks, ravens, many rows;
Cuckoos, curlews, whoso knows,
Each one in his kind.

And here are doves, ducks, drakes,
Redshanks, running through the lakes,
And each fowl that language makes
In this ship men may find.

¹ settled.

² comfortable.

[In the stage direction the sons of Noah are enjoined to mention aloud the names of the animals which enter; a representation of which, painted on parchment, is to be carried by the actors.]

Noah. Wife, come in, why standest thou there?

Thou art ever forward, that I dare swear:

Come on God's half, time it were,

For fear lest that we drown.

Noah's Wife. Yea, sir, set up your sail

And row forth with evil heale,

For, without any fail,

I will not out of this town.

But I have my gossips every one,

One foot further I will not go;

They shall not drown, by St. John!

If I may save their life.

They loved me full well, by Christ!

But thou wilt let them in thy chest,

Else row forth, Noah, whither thou list,

And get thee a new wife.

Noah. Shem, some love thy mother, 'tis true;

Forsooth, such another I do not know!

Shem. Father, I shall set her in, I trow,

Without any fail.

Mother, my father after thee sends,

And bids thee unto yonder ship wend,¹

Look up and see the wind,

For we be ready to sail.

Noah's Wife. Son, go again to him and say

I will not come therein to-day!

Noah. Come in, wife, in twenty devils' way,

Or else stand without.

Ham. Shall we all fetch her in?

Noah. Yea, sons, in Christ's blessing and mine,

I would you hied you betime,

For of this flood I am in doubt.

Japhet. Mother, we pray you altogether,

For we are here, your children;

Come into the ship for fear of the weather,

For his love that you bought!

Noah's Wife. That I will not for your call,

¹ go.

But if I have my gossips all.

Gossip. The flood comes in full fleeting fast,
On every side it broadens in haste;
For fear of drowning I am aghast:
Good gossip, let me come in!

Or let us drink ere we depart,
For oftentimes we have done so;
For at a time thou drinkst a quart,
And so will I ere that I go.

Shem. In faith, mother, yet you shall,
Whether you will or not!

[She goes.]

Noah. Welcome, wife, into this boat!

Noah's Wife. And have them that for thy note!¹

[*Et dat alapam victa.*²]

Noah. Aha! marry, this is hot!

It is good to be still.

My children! methinks this boat removes!

Our tarrying here hugely me grieves!

Over the land the water spreads!

God do as he will!

Ah, great God, thou art so good!

Now all this world is in a flood

As I see well in sight.

This window will I close anon,

And into my chamber will I gone

Till this water, so great one,

Be slakèd through thy might.

[Noah, according to stage directions, is now to shut the windows of the ark and retire for a short time. He is then to chant the psalm, Salva me, Domine! and afterwards to open them and look out.]

Now forty days are fully gone.

Send a raven I will anon;

If aught were earth, tree, or stone,

Be dry in any place.

And if this fowl come not again

It is a sign, sooth to say,

That dry it is on hill or plain,

And God hath done some grace.

[A raven is now despatched.]

Ah, Lord! wherever this raven lie,

² And being conquered she deals a slap.

Somewhere is dry well I see;
But yet a dove, by my lewtye ¹
After I will send.

Thou wilt turn again to me
For of all fowls that may fly
Thou art most meek and hend.²

[The stage direction enjoins here that another dove shall be ready with an olive branch in its mouth, which is to be dropped by means of a cord into Noah's hand.]

Ah Lord! blessed be thou aye,
That me hast comforted thus to-day!
By this sight, I may well say
This flood begins to cease.

My sweet dove to me brought has
A branch of olive from some place;
This betokeneth God has done us some grace,
And is a sign of peace.

Ah, Lord! honoured must thou be!
All earth dries now I see;
But yet, till thou command me,
Hence will I not hie.

All this water is away,
Therefore as soon as I may Sacrifice I shall do in faye ³
To thee devoutly.

God. Noah, take thy wife anon,
And thy children every one,
Out of the ship thou shalt gone,
And they all with thee.

Beasts and all that can flie,
Out anon they shall hie,
On earth to grow and multiply:
I will that it be so.

Noah. Lord, I thank thee, through thy might,
Thy bidding shall be done in hight,⁴
And, as fast as I may dight ⁵
I will do thee honour.

And to thee offer sacrifice,
Therefore comes in all wise,
For of these beasts that be his

³ haste.

⁴ faith.

⁵ prepare.

Offer I will this stower.¹

[Then leaving the ark with his whole family, he shall take the animals and birds, make an offering of them, and set out on his way.

Lord God, in majesty,
That such grace has granted me,
When all was borne safe to be,
Therefore now I am boune.²

My wife, my children, my company,
With sacrifice to honour thee,
With beasts, fowls, as thou may see,
I offer here right soon.

God. Noah, to me thou art full able,
And thy sacrifice acceptable,
For I have found thee true and stable,
On thee now must I myn.³
Curse earth will I no more
That man's sin it grieves sore,
For of youth man full of yore
Has been inclined to sin.

You shall now grow and multiply
And earth you edify,
Each beast and fowl that may flie
Shall be afraid for you.

And fish in sea that may flitt
Shall sustain you—I you behite⁴
To eat of them you not lett⁵
That clean be you may know.

There as you have eaten before
Grasses and roots, since you were born,
Of clean beasts, less and more,
I give you leave to eat.

Save blood and fish both in fear
Of wrong dead carrion that is here,
Eat not of that in no manner,
For that aye you shall lett.⁶

Manslaughter also you shall flee,
For that is not pleasant to me
That sheds blood, he or she

¹ steer.

² Thee now must I have in mind.

³ cease.

⁴ ready.

⁵ promise.

⁶ leave.

Ought where among mankind.

That sheds blood, his blood shall be
And vengeance have, that men shall see;
Therefore now beware now all ye
You fall not in that sin.

And forward now with you I make
And all thy seed, for thy sake,
Of such vengeance for to slake,
For now I have my will.

Here I promise thee a behest,¹
That man, woman, fowl, nor beast
With water while the world shall last,
I will no more spill.

My bow between you and me
In the firmament shall be,
By very tokens, that you may see
That such vengeance shall cease.

That man, nor woman, shall never more
Be wasted by water, as is before,
But for sin that grieveth sore,
Therefore this vengeance was.

Where clouds in the welkin
That each bow shall be seen,
In token that my wrath or tene²
Should never this wroken be.

The string is turned toward you,
And toward me bent is the bow,
That such weather shall never show,
And this do I grant to thee.

My blessing now I give thee here,
To thee Noah, my servant dear;
For vengeance shall no more appear;
And now farewell, my darling dear!

ABRAHAM, newly returned from the slaughter of the four kings, meets MELCHISEDEC riding.

PRELUDE

Messenger. All peace, Lordings, that be present,
And hearken now with good intent,
How Noah away from us he went
With all his company;
And Abraham, through God's grace,
He is come forth into this place,
And you will give him room and space
To tell you his storye.

This play, forsooth, begin shall he,
In worship of the Trinity,
That you may all hear and see
What shall be done to-day.

My name is Gobbet-on-the-Green,
No longer here I may be seen,
Farewell, my Lordings, all by dene¹
For letting² of your play.

[Exit.]

[Enter Abraham.]

Abraham. Ah! thou high God, granter of grace
That ending nor beginning has,
I thank thee, Lord, that to me has
To-day given victory.
Lot, my brother, that taken was,
I have restored him in this case,
And brought him home into his place
Through thy might and mastery.

² hindering.

To worship thee I will not wond,¹
 That four kings of uncouth land
 To-day hast sent into my hand,
 And of riches great array.

Therefore of all that I can win
 To give thee tithe I will begin,
 When I the city soon come in,
 And share with thee my prey.

Melchisedec, that here king is
 And God's priest also, I wis,
 The tithe I will give him of this,

As just is, what I do.

God who has sent me victory
 O'er four kings graciously,
 With him my spoil share will I,

The city, when I come to.

Lot. Abraham, brother, I thank it thee,
 Who this day hast delivered me
 From enemies' hands, and their postye,²
 And saved me from woe!
 Therefore I will give tithing
 Of my goods while I am living,
 And now also of his sending,
 Tithe I will give also.

[Then comes a knight to Melchisedec.]

Knight. My lord, the king's tidings aright
 Your heart for to gladden and light:
 Abraham hath slain in fight
 Four kings, since he went.
 Here he will be this same night,
 And riches with him enough dight.
 I heard him thank God Almighty
 For grace he had him sent.

Melchisedec (stretching his hand to heaven). Ah! blessed be
 God that is but one!
 Against Abraham I will be gone
 Worshipfully, and then anon,
 My office to fulfil,
 Will present him with bread and wine,
 For, grace of God is him within;

¹ fail.

² might.

Speeds fast for love mine!

For this is God's will.

Knight (with a cup). Sir, here is wine withouten were,¹
And thereto bread, both white and clear,
To present him in good manere
That so us helped has.

Melchisedec. To God, I know he is full dear,
For of all things his prayer
He hath, without danger,
And specially great grace.

Melchisedec (coming to Abraham and offering him a cup of wine and bread on a plate). Abraham, welcome must thou be,

God's grace is fully in thee,
Blessed ever must thou be
That enemies so can make.

I have brought, as thou may'st see,
Bread and wine for thy degree;
Receive this present now from me,
And that I thee beseeke.²

Abraham. Sir king, welcome in good say,
Thy present is welcome to my pay.
God has help'd me to-day
Unworthy though I were.
He shall have part of my prey
That I won since I went away.
Therefore to thee thou take it may
The tenth I offer here.

[He delivers to the King a laden horse.]

Melchisedec. And your present, sir, take I,
And honour it devoutly,
For much good it may signify
In time that is coming.

Therefore horse, harness, and peryé,³
As falls to my dignity,
The tithe of it I take of thee,
And receive thy off'ring.

[Abraham receives the bread and wine, and Melchisedec the laden horse as tithe from Lot.]

Lot. And I will offer with good intent
Of such goods as God hath me sent

² beseech.

³ precious stones.

To Melchisedec here present,
 As God's will is to be.
 Abraham, my brother, offered has;
 And so will I with God's grace:
 This royal cup before your face,
 Receive it now of me.

[Lot offers the wine and bread, which Melchisedec receives.

Melchisedec. Sir, your off'ring welcome is,
 And well I know forsooth, I wis,
 That fully God's will it is

That is now done to-day.

Go we together to my city,
 And now God heartily thank we
 That helps us aye through his postye,¹
 For so we full well may.

Expositor (riding). Lordings, what may this signify,

I will expound openly
 That all, standing hereby,
 May know what this may be.
 This off'ring, I say verament,²
 Signifieth the new Testament,
 That now is used with good intent

Throughout all Christianity.
 In the old law without leasing,³
 When these two good men were living,
 Of beasts was all their off'ring
 And eke their sacrament.

But since Christ died on the rood-tree,
 With bread and wine him worship we,
 And on Shrove Thursday in his maundy⁴

Was his commandment.
 But for this thing used should be
 Afterward as now done we,
 In signification, believe you me,

Melchisedec did so;
 And tithes-making, as you see here,
 Of Abraham beginning were.
 Therefore he was to God full dear,

And so were they both too.
 By Abraham understand I may

¹ might.

² verily.

³ leasing.

⁴ bequest: "Maundy" really meant "command."

The father of heaven in good fay,¹
 Melchisedec a priest to his pay
 To minister that sacrament
 That Christ ordained on Shrove Thursday
 In bread and wine to honour him aye;
 This signifieth, the truth to say,
 Melchisedec's present.

God. Abraham, my servant, I say to thee,
 Thy help and succour I will be,
 For thy good deed much pleaseth me,
 I tell thee surely.

Abraham. Lord, one thing that thou wilt see,
 That I pray after with heart free,
 Grant me, Lord, through thy postye:²
 Some fruit of my body!
 I have no child, foul nor fair,
 Save my Nurry³ to be my heir,
 That makes me greatly to apayre.⁴
 On me, Lord, have mercy!

God. My friend, Abraham, leave thou me:
 Thy Nurry thine heir shall not be,
 But one son I shall send thee,
 Begotten of thy body.

Abraham, do as I thee say:
 Look up and tell,⁵ and if thou may,
 Stars standing on the stray;
 That impossible were.

No more shalt thou, for no need,
 Number of thy body the ~~seed~~
 That thou shalt have withouten dreed,
 Thou art to me so dear.

Wherefore, Abraham, servant free,
 Look that thou be true to me,
 And fore-word here I make with thee
 Thy seed to multiply.

So much more further shalt thou be,
 Kings of thy seed men shall see,
 And one child of great degree
 All mankind shall forby.⁶

I will that from henceforth alway

¹ faith.

² lament.

³ might.

⁴ count.

⁵ nursing, foster-child

⁶ fore-buy (pre-purchase with his blood).

Each knave's child on the eighth day
 Be circumcised, as I say,
 And thou thyself full soon;
 And who circumcised not is
 Forsaken shall be by me, I wis;
 For disobedient that man is,

Therefore look that this be done.

Abraham. Lord, already in good fay¹

Blessed be thou, ever and aye;
 For that men truly know may
 Thy folk from other men,
 Circumcised they shall be all
 Anon for aught that may befall.
 I thank thee, Lord, thy own thrall,
 Kneeling on my knee'n.

Expositor. Lordings all take good intent

What betokens this commandment:
 This was some time a sacrament

In th' old law truly ta'en.

As followeth now verament,²
 So was this in the old Testament;
 But when Christ, away it went,

And baptism then began,

Also God promises here
 To Abraham, his servant dear,
 So much seed that in no manere
 Number'd it might be.

And one seed, mankind to forby,
 That was Jesus Christ witterlye³
 For of his kind was our Lady,

And so also was he.

God. Abraham, my servant Abraham.

Abraham. Lo, Lord, already here I am.

God. Take Isaac, thy son by name

That thou lovest best of all
 And in sacrifice offer him to me
 Upon that hill, beside thee.
 Abraham, I will that it so be
 For aught that may befall.

Abraham. My lord, to thee is my intent

Ever to be obedient,

¹ faith.

² verily.

³ truly.

That son that thou to me hast sent,
Offer I will to thee.

And fulfil thy commandment
With hearty will, as I am kent
High God, Lord Omnipotent,
Thy bidding done shall be.

My menye¹ and my children each one
Lingers at home, both all and one,
Save Isaac shall with me gone
To a hill here beside.

[Enter Isaac.

Abraham. Make thee ready, my darling,
For we must do a little thing.
This wood upon thy back thou bring,
We must not long abide.
A sword and fire I will take,
For sacrifice I must make;
God's bidding will I not forsake,
But aye obedient be.

Isaac. Father, I am all ready
To do your bidding meekly,
To bear this wood full bound am I,
As you command me.

Abraham. O Isaac, Isaac, my darling dear,
My blessing now I give thee here.
Take up this faggot with good cheer,
And on thy back it bring,
And fire with me I will take.

Isaac. Your bidding I will not forsake,
Father, I will never slake²
To fulfil your bidding.

[Isaac takes the wood on his back, and they set out for the hill.

Abraham. Now Isaac, son, go we our way
To yonder mountain, if that we may.

Isaac. My dear father, I will essay
To follow you full fain.

Abraham. Oh! my heart will break in three,
To hear thy words I have pity.
As thou wilt, Lord, so must it be:

¹ household.

² be slack, or slow.

To thee I will be bane.

Lay down thy faggot my own son dear!

Isaac. All ready, father, lo, it is here.

But why make you so heavy cheer?

Are you anything adread?

Father, if it be your will,

Where is the beast that we shall kill?

Abraham. There is none, son, upon this hill
That I see here in this stead.

Isaac. Father, I am full sore afraid

To see you bare this naked sword.

I hope for all middle-yard¹

You will not slay your child.

Abraham. Dread thee not, my child, I read
Our Lord will send of his godhead
Some kind of beast in thy stead,
Either tame or wild.

Isaac. Father, tell me, or I go,

Whether I shall have harm or no.

Abraham. Ah, dear God, that me is woe!

Thou bursts my heart in sunder,

Isaac. Father, tell me of this case,

Why you your drawn sword has,

And bare it naked in this place;

Thereof I have great wonder.

Abraham. Isaac, son, peace! I pray thee,

Thou breaks my heart even in three.

Isaac. I pray you, father, leave nothing from me,
But tell me what you think.

Abraham. O Isaac, Isaac, I must thee kill.

Isaac. Alas! father, is that your will,

Your own child here for to spill,

Upon this hill's brink?

If I have trespassed in any degree,

With a rod you may beat me;

Put up your sword, if your will be,

For I am but a child.

Abraham. Oh, my son! I am sorry

To do to thee this great annoy,

God's commandment do must I,

¹ "middle-yard,"—farm-yard: i.e. instead of all creatures from the farm-yard.

His works are aye full mild.

Isaac. Would God, my mother were here with me!
She would kneel upon her knee,
Praying you, father, if it might be,
For to save my life.

Abraham. Oh, comely creature, but I thee kill,
I grieve my God, and that full ill:
I may not work against his will
But ever obedient be.
O Isaac, son, to thee I say:
God has commanded me this day
Sacrifice—this is no nay—
To make of thy body.

Isaac. Is it God's will I should be slain?

Abraham. Yea, son, it is not for to layne;¹
To his bidding I will be bane,²
Ever to his pleasing.

But that I do this doleful deed,
My Lord will not quit ³ me my meed.⁴

Isaac. Marry! father, God forbid
But you do your off'ring.
Father, at home your sons you shall find
That you must love by course of kind.
Be I once out of your mind,
Your sorrow may soon cease,
But you must do God's bidding.
Father, tell my mother of nothing.

Abraham. For sorrow I may my hands wring,
Thy mother I cannot please.
O Isaac, blessed may'st thou be!
Almost my wit I lose for thee,
The blood of thy body so free
I feel full loth to shed.

Isaac. Father, since you must needs do so,
Let it pass lightly and overgo;
Kneeling on my knees two,
Your blessing on me spread!

Abraham. My blessing, dear son, give I thee
And thy mother's with heart so free;
The blessing of the Trinity,
My dear son, on thee light!

¹ hesitate.

² obedient.

³ deny.

⁴ reward.

Isaac. Father, I pray you hide mine een
 That I see not your sword so keen;
 Your stroke, father, I would not seen,
 Lest I against it thrill.

Abraham. My dear son Isaac, speak no more,
 Thy words make my heart full sore.

Isaac. O dear father, wherefore, wherefore?
 Since I must needs be dead,
 One thing I would you pray:
 Since I must die the death this day,
 As few strokes as you may,
 When you smite off my head.

Abraham. Thy meekness, child, makes me afraid;¹
 My song may be " Well away! "

Isaac. O, dear father, do away
 Your making so mickle moan!
 Now truly, father, this talking
 Doth but make long tarrying.
 I pray you come and make ending
 And let me hence gone!

Abraham. Come hither, my child, that art so sweet:
 Thou must be bound now, hand and feet.

[Binding Isaac.]

Isaac. Ah, father! we must no more meet
 By aught that I can see,
 But do with me just as you will,
 I must obey, and that is skill,
 God's commandment to fulfil,
 For needs so must it be.

Upon the purpose that have set you,
 Forsooth, father, I will not let you,
 But evermore unto you bow,
 While that I may.

Father, greet well my brethren young,
 And pray my mother for her blessing,
 I come no more under her wing:
 Farewell for ever and aye!
 But, father, I cry you mercy,
 Of that I have trespassed to thee,
 Forgiven, father, that it may be
 Until doom's day.

Abraham. My dear son, let be thy moans;
My child, thou grievedst me but once,
Blessed be thou body and bones,
And I forgive thee here.

Lo, my dear son, here shalt thou lie;
Unto my work now must I hie,
I had as lief myself to die
As thou, my darling dear.

Isaac. Father, if you be to me kind,
About my head a kercher¹ bind,
And let me lightly out of your mind,
And soon that I were sped.

Abraham. Farewell, my sweet son of grace!

Isaac. I pray you, father, turn down my face
A little while, while you have space,
For I am full sore adread.

Abraham. To do this deed I am sorry.

Isaac. Yea, Lord, to thee I call and cry:
On my soul may thou have mercy,
Heartily I thee pray.

Abraham. Lord, I would fain work thy will.
This young innocent that lies so still
Full loth were I him to kill
By any manner of way.

Isaac. My dear father, I you pray,
Let me take my clothes away,
For shedding blood on them to-day,
At my last ending.

Abraham. Heart! if thou would'st break in three,
Thou shalt never master me,
I will no longer let² for thee,
My God I may not grieve.

Isaac. Ah, mercy, father! why tarry you so?
Smite off my head, and let me go!
I pray you, rid me of my woe;
For now I take my leave.

Abraham. Ah, son! my heart will break in three
To hear thee speak such words to me.
Jesus, on me thou have pity
That I have most in mind!

Isaac. Now, father, I see that I shall die,

¹ kerchief.

² hesitate, delay.

Almighty God in majesty,
My soul I offer unto thee:
Lord, to it be kind.

[Abraham takes the sword, as if to kill his son, when two angels appear. One of them seizes the point of the sword, and says,

1st Angel. Abraham, my servant dear!

Abraham. Lo, Lord! I am already here.

1st Angel. Lay not thy sword in any manner

On Isaac, thy dear darling!

Nay! do thou him no annoy!

For thou dreadest God; well, see I,

That of thy son hast no mercy

To fulfil his bidding.

2nd Angel. And for his bidding thou doest aye,

And spares neither, for fear nor fray,

To do thy son to death to-day,

Isaac to thee full dear,

Therefore God has sent by me in fay,¹

A lamb that is both good and gay

Into this place as thou see may,

Lo! it is right here.

Abraham. Ah, Lord of heaven and king of bliss!

Thy bidding I shall do, I wis.

Sacrifice here to me sent is

And all, Lord, through thy grace.

A horned wether here I see,

Among the briars tied is he,

To thee offered it shall be

Anon, right in this place.

[Let Abraham sacrifice the ram.

God. Abraham, by myself I swear,

For thou hast been obedient ever,

And spared not thy son so dear,

To fulfil my bidding,

Thou shalt be blessed, thou art worthy,

Thy seed I shall multiply,

As stars and sand so many het I,²

Of thy body coming.

Of enemies thou shalt have power,

And thy blood also in fear,

² promised I.

For thou has been meek and boneer¹
 To do as I thee bade.
 And all nations leave thou me,
 Blessed evermore shall be
 Through fruit that shall come of thee,
 And saved through thy seed.

THE EPILOGUE

Expositor. Lordings, the signification
 Of this deed of devotion,
 An you will, it is shewn,
 May turn you to much good.
 This deed you see done in this place,
 In example of Jesus done it was,
 That for to win mankind grace
 Was sacrificed on the rood.
 By Abraham you may understand
 The Father of heaven that can fand²
 With his son's blood to break that band
 The devil had brought us to.
 By Isaac understand I may
 Jesus who was obedient aye,
 His father's will to work alway,
 His death to undergo.

THE WAKEFIELD SECOND NATIVITY PLAY

1st Shepherd. Lord! what, these weathers are cold, and I am ill happed;

I am near hand-dold,¹ so long have I napped;
My legs bend and fold, my fingers are chapped,
It is not as I would, for I am all lapped

In sorrow.

In storms and tempest,
Now in the east, now in the west,
Woe is him has never rest,
Mid day nor morrow.

But we silly shepherds, that walk upon the moor,
In faith, we are near hands out of the door;
No wonder, as it stands, if we be poor,
For the tilth of our lands lies fallow as the floor,
We are so lamed,
So taxed and shamed,
We are made hand-tamed,

With these gentlery-men.

Thus they rieve us of rest, Our Lady them wary,
These men that are lord-fest,² they cause the plough tarry.

That men say is for the best, we find it contrary,
Thus are husbands³ opprest, in point to miscarry,
In life.

Thus hold they us under,
Thus they bring us in blunder,
It were great wonder,
And ever should we thrive.

For may he get a paint sleeve,⁴ or a brooch now on days,

² fast tied (to a lord, as a public-house to a brewer).

³ husbandmen.

⁴ a painted sleeve.

Woe is he that shall grieve, or once again says,
Dare no man him reprieve, what mast'ry he has,
And yet may none believe one word that he says—

No letter.

He can make purveyance,
With boast and bragance,¹
And all through maintenance,
Of men that are greater.

There shall come a swain, as proud as a po,²
He must borrow my wain, my plough also,
Then I am full fain to grant or he go.
Thus live we in pain, anger, and woe,

By night and day;
He must have if he longéd
If I should forgang ³ it,
I were better be hangéd

Than once say him nay.

It does me good, as I walk thus by mine own,
Of this world for to talk in manner of moan
To my sheep will I stalk and hearken anon
There abide on a balk, or sit on a stone

Full soon.

For I trow, pardie!
True men if they be,
We get more company
Or it be noon.

2nd Shepherd. “ Beniste ”⁴ and “ Dominus! ” what may this bemean?

Why fares this world thus, oft have we not seen.
Lord, these weathers are spiteous,⁵ and the weather full keen;
And the frost so hideous they water mine een,
No lie.

Now in dry, now in wet,
Now in snow, now in sleet,
When my shoon freeze to my feet

It is not all easy.

But as far as I ken, or yet as I go,
We silly wed-men dree mickle woe;⁶
We have sorrow then and then, it falls often so,

⁵ spiteful. ⁶ we silly wedded men endure much woe.

Silly capyl, our hen, both to and fro
 She cackles,
 But begin she to croak,
 To groan or to cluck,
 Woe is him, say of our cock,
 For he is in the shackles.

These men that are wed, have not all their will,
 When they are full hard sted,¹ they sigh full still;
 God wait they are led full hard and full ill,
 In bower nor in bed they say not there till
 This tide.

My part have I found,
 My lesson is learn'd,
 Woe is him that is bound,
 For he must abide.

But now late in our lives, a marvel to me,
 That I think my heart rives,² such wonders to see,
 What that destiny drives it should so be,
 Some men will have two wives, and some men three,
 In store.

Some are woe that have any;
 But so far ken I,
 Woe is he who has many,
 For he feels it sore.

But young men of wooing, for God that you bought,
 Be well ware of wedding, and think in your thought
 " Had I wist " is a thing it serves ye of nought;
 Mickle still mourning has wedding home brought,
 And grieves,
 With many a sharp shower,
 For thou may catch in an hour
 That shall serve thee full sour
 As long as thou lives.

For as read I epistle, I have one to my fear
 As sharp as a thistle, as rough as a brere.³
 She is browed like a bristle with a sour lenten cheer;
 Had she once wet her whistle she could sing full clear
 Her pater-noster.

She is as great as a whale,
 She has a gallon of gall;

² briar.

³ is riven asunder.

By him that died for us all!

I would I had run till I lost her,

1st Shepherd. God look over the row, full deafly ye stand.

2nd Shepherd. Yea, the devil in thy maw!—so tariand,¹

Saw thou aught now of Daw?

1st Shepherd. Yea, on a lea land

Heard I him blow, he comes here at hand,

Not far;

Stand still.

2nd Shepherd. Why?

1st Shepherd. For he comes here, hope I.

2nd Shepherd. He will make us both a lie,

But if we beware.

3rd Shepherd. Christ's cross me speed, and Saint Nicholas!

Thereof had I need, it is worse than it was.

Whoso could take heed, and let the world pass,

It is ever in dread and brittle as glass,

And slithers,²

This world fared never so,

With marvels mo and mo,³

Now in weal, now in woe,

And all things withers.

Was never since Noah's flood such floods seen,

Winds and rains so rude, and storms so keen,

Some stammered, some stood in doubt, as I ween,

Now God turn all to good, I say as I mean,

For ponder.

These floods so they drown

Both in fields and in town,

They bear all down,

And that is a wonder.

We that walk in the nights, our cattle to keep,

We see sudden sights, when other men sleep:

Yet methinks my heart lights, I see shrews peep,

Ye are two, all wights,⁴ I will give my sheep

A turn.

But full ill have I meant,

As I walk on this bent,⁵

I may lightly repent,

My toes if I spurn.

¹ tarrying.

² slithers, slides away.

³ more and more.

⁴ You are two who wit, or know, all.

⁵ field.

Ah, sir, God you save, and master mine!

A drink fain would I have and somewhat to dine.

1st Shepherd. Christ's curs, my knave, thou art a lazy hyne.¹
2nd Shepherd. What, the boy list rave. Abide until syne²

We have made it.

I'll thrift on thy pate!

Though the shrew came late

Yet is he in state

To dine if he had it.

3rd Shepherd. Such servants as I, that sweats and swinks,
 Eats our bread full dry, and that me forthinks;
 We are oft wet and weary when master men winks,
 Yet comes full lately both dinners and drinks,

But neatly.

Both our dame and our sire,
 When we have run in the mire,
 They can nip at our hire,³

And pay us full lately.

But hear my truth, master, for the fare that ye make
 I shall do thereafter work, as I take;
 I shall do a little, sir, and strive and still lack,
 For yet lay my supper never on my stomach

In fields.

Whereto should I threap?⁴
 With my staff can I leap,
 And men say "light cheap
 Letherly for yields."⁵

1st Shepherd. Thou wert an ill lad, to ride on wooing
 With a man that had but little of spending.

2nd Shepherd. Peace, boy!—I bade: no more jangling,
 Or I shall make thee afraid, by the heaven's king!
 With thy gawds;

Where are our sheep, boy, we scorn?

3rd Shepherd. Sir, this same day at morn,
 I them left in the corn,
 When they rang lauds;

They have pasture good, they cannot go wrong.

2st Shepherd. That is right by the rood, these nights are long,
 Yet I would, or we yode,⁶ one gave us a song.

¹ hind.

² stint our wages.

³ a light bargain yields badly.

⁴ till such time as we have made it.

⁵ argue.

⁶ went.

2nd Shepherd. So I thought as I stood, to mirth us among.¹
 3rd Shepherd. I grant.

1st Shepherd. Let me sing the tenory.

2nd Shepherd. And I the treble so high.

3rd Shepherd. Then the mean falls to me;
 Let see how ye chaunt.

[Mac enters, with a cloak thrown over his smock.

Mac. Now, Lord, for thy names seven, that made both moon and starns ²

Well more than I can even: thy will, Lord, of my thorns;
 I am all uneven, that moves oft my horns,³

Now would God I were in heaven, for there weep no bairns

So still.

1st Shepherd. Who is that pipes so poor?

Mac. Would God ye knew how I fare!

Lo, a man that walks on the moor,
 And has not all his will.

2nd Shepherd. Mac, where hast thou gone? Tell us tidings.

3rd Shepherd. Is he come? Then each one take heed to his things. [Takes his cloak from him.

Mac. What, I am a yeoman, I tell you, of the king;
 The self and the same, sent from a great lording,
 And sich.⁴

Fy on you, get thee hence,
 Out of my presence,
 I must have reverence,
 Why, who be ich?⁵

1st Shepherd. Why make ye it so quaint? Mac, ye do wrong.

2nd Shepherd. But, Mac, list, ye saint? I trow that ye sang.

3rd Shepherd. I trow the shrew can paint, the devil might him hang!

Mac. I shall make complaint, and make you all to thwang.⁶
 At a word,

And tell even how ye doth.

1st Shepherd. But, Mac, is that sooth?

Now take out that southern tooth,
 And set in a tord.

¹ to make mirth among us.

² stars.

³ "harnes" in original, which may mean "harness."

⁴ such (of such).

⁵ I.

⁶ be thwacked, or flogged.

2nd Shepherd. Mac, the devil in your ee,¹ a stroke would I lend you.

3rd Shepherd. Mac, know ye not me? By God, I could tell you.
Mac. God look you all three, methought I had seen you.

Ye are a fair company.

1st Shepherd. Can ye now moan you?

2nd Shepherd. Shrew, jape!²

Thus late as thou goes,
What will men suppose?
And thou hast an ill noise³

Of stealing of sheep.

Mac. And I am true as steel all men wait,
But a sickness I feel, that holds me full haytt,⁴
My belly fares not well, it is out of its state.

3rd Shepherd. Seldom lies the devil dead by the gate.

Mac. Therefore

Full sore am I and ill,
If I stand stock still;
I eat not a nedyll⁵

This month and more.

1st Shepherd. How fares thy wife? By my hood, how fares she?

Mac. Lies weltering! by the rood! by the fire, lo!
And a house full of brood,⁶ she drinks well too,
Ill speed other good that she will do;

But so

Eats as fast as she can,
And each year that comes to man,
She brings forth a lakan,⁷

And some years two.

But were I not more gracious, and richer by far,
I were eaten out of house, and of harbour,
Yet is she a foul dowsse, if ye come near.

There is none that trows, nor knows, a war⁸

Than ken I.

Now will ye see what I proffer,
To give all in my coffer
To-morrow next to offer,
Her head mass-penny.

¹ eye.

² jest.

³ hot.

⁴ needle—not a little bit.

⁵ plaything.

⁶ rumour (ill repute).

⁷ brood, children.

⁸ worse.

2nd Shepherd. I wot so forwaked¹ is none in this shire:

I would sleep if I taked less to my hire.

3rd Shepherd. I am cold and naked, and would have a fire.

1st Shepherd. I am weary for-raked,² and run in the mire.

Wake thou!

2nd Shepherd. Nay, I will lie down-by,

For I must sleep truly.

3rd Shepherd. As good a man's son was I

As any of you.

But, Mac, come hither, between us shalt thou lie.

Mac. Then might I stay you bedene³: of that ye would say,—
No dread.

From my head to my toe

Manus tuas commendō,

*Pontio Pilato.*⁴

Christ's cross me speed,

[He rises, the shepherds sleeping, and says :

Now were time for a man, that lacks what he wold,

To stalk privately then into a fold,

And namely to work then, and be not too bold,

He might abide the bargain, if it were told

At the ending.

Now were time for to revel;

But he needs good counsel

That fain would fare well,

And has but little spending.

[Mac works a spell on them.

But about you a circle, as round as a moon,

Till I have done that I will, till that it be noon,

That ye lie stone-still, till that I have done,

And I shall say there till of good words a foyn⁵

On height;

Over your heads my hand I lift,

Out go your eyes, fore to do your sight,

But yet I must make better shift,

And it be right.

What, Lord? they sleep hard! that may ye all hear;

Was I never a shepherd, but now will I leer⁶

² over-walked.

³ at once.

⁴ Into thy hands I commend (them), Pontius Pilate.

⁵ few.

⁶ learn.

If the flock be scared, yet shall I nap near,
Who draws hitherward, now mends our cheer,

From sorrow:

A fat sheep I dare say,
A good fleece dare I lay,
Eft white when I may,
But this will I borrow.

[He steals a sheep and goes home.

Mac (at his own door). How, Gill, art thou in? Get us some light.

His Wife. Who makes such din this time of night?
I am set for to spin: I hope not I might Rise a penny to win: I shrew them on height.

So fares

A housewife that has been
To be raised thus between:
There may no note be seen
For such small chares.¹

Mac. Good wife, open the hek.² See'st thou not what I bring?

Wife. I may let thee draw the sneck. Ah! come in, my sweeting.

Mac. Yea, thou dost not reck of my long standing.

Wife. By thy naked neck, thou art like for to hang.

Mac. Go away:

I am worthy of my meat,
For in a strait can I get
More than they that swinck³ and sweat
All the long day,

Thus it fell to my lot, Gill, I had such grace.

Wife. It were a foul blot to be hanged for the case.

Mac. I have scaped, Jelott, oft as hard as glass.

Wife. "But so long goes the pot to the water," men says,
"At last comes it home broken."

Mac. Well know I the token,
But let it never be spoken;
But come and help fast.

I would he were flayn;⁴ I list we'll eat:

This twelvemonth was I not so fain of one sheep-meat.

Wife. Come they if he be slain, and hear the sheep bleat?

¹ chare,—job, as in charwoman.

² toil.

³ wicket.

⁴ flayed.

Mac. Then might I be ta'en: that were a cold sweat.

Go bar

The gate door.

Wife.

Yes, Mac,

For and they come at thy back.

Mac. Then might I pay for all the pack:

The devil of them war!¹

Wife. A good bowrde² have I spied, since thou can none:

Here shall we him hide, till they be gone;

In my cradle abide. Let me alone,

And I shall lie beside in childbed and groan.

Mac.

Thou red?³

And I shall say thou wast light

Of a knave child this night.

Wife. Now well is my day bright,

That ever I was bred.

This is a good guise and a far cast;

Yet a woman's advice helps at the last.

I care never who spies: again go thou fast.

Mac. But I come or they rise; else blows a cold blast—

I will go sleep.

[Mac goes back to the field.

Yet sleep all this menye,⁴

And I shall go stalk privily,

As it had never been I

That carried their sheep.

1st Shepherd. Resurrex à mortrius: have hold my hand.

Judas carnas dominus, I may not well stand:

My foot sleeps, by Jesus, and I water fastand!

I thought that we laid us full near England.

2nd Shepherd.

Ah ye!

Lord, how I have slept weel!

As fresh as an eel,

As light I me feel

As leaf on a tree.

3rd Shepherd. Benste!⁵ be herein! So my head quakes

My heart is out of skin, what so it makes.

Who makes all this din? So my brow aches,

To the door will I win. Hark fellows, wakes!

We were four:

See ye anything of Mac now?

² Advisest, sayest so?

³ company.

⁴ jest.

⁵ Benedicite.

1st Shepherd. We were up ere thou,

2nd Shepherd. Man, I give God a vow,
Yet heed he nowhere.

3rd Shepherd. Methought he was wrapped in a wolf's-skin.

1st Shepherd. So are many happed, now namely within,

2nd Shepherd. When we had long napped; methought with a gin

A fat sheep he trapped, but he made no din,

3rd Shepherd. Be still:

Thy dream makes thee wood:¹

It is but phantom, by the rood.

1st Shepherd. Now God turn all to good,
If it be his will.

2nd Shepherd. Rise, Mac, for shame! thou ly'st right long.

Mac. Now Christ, his holy name be us amang,
What is this? for Saint James!—I may not well gang.

I trust I be the same. Ah! my neck has lain wrang
Enough

Mickle thank, since yester-even

Now, by Saint Stephen!

I was flayed with a sweven,—²

My heart out of slough.³

I thought Gill began to croak, and travail full sad,

Well nigh at the first cock,—of a young lad,

For to mend our flock: then be I never glad.

To have two on my rock,—more than ever I had.

Ah, my head!

A house full of young tharmes,⁴

The devil knock out their harnes!⁵

Woe is he has many bairns,

And thereto little bread.

I must go home, by your leave, to Gill as I thought,

I pray you look my sleeve, that I steal nought:

I am loth you to grieve, or from you take aught.

3rd Shepherd. Go forth, ill might thou chefe,⁶ now would I we sought,

This morn,

That we had all our store.

1st Shepherd. But I will go before,
Let us meet.

¹ mad

² bellies.

³ dream.

⁴ brains.

⁵ sloth (?)

⁶ prosper.

2nd Shepherd.

Whor? ¹

3rd Shepherd. At the crooked thorn.

Mac (at his own door again). Undo this door! who is here?

How long shall I stand?

Wife. Who makes such a stir?—Now walk in the wenyand.²

Mac. Ah, Gill, what cheer?—It is I, Mac, your husband.

His Wife. Then may we be here,—the devil in a band,

Sir Gile.

Lo, he commys³ with a lot,
As he were holden in the throat,
I may not sit, work or not
A hand long while.

Mac. Will ye hear what fare she makes—to get her a glose,⁴
And do naught but lakes⁵—and close her toes.

Wife. Why, who wanders, who wakes,—who comes, who goes?

Who brews, who bakes? Who makes for me this hose?
And then
It is ruth to behold,
Now in hot, now in cold,
Full woful is the household
That wants a woman.

But what end hast thou made with the herds, Mac?

Mac. The last word that they said,—when I turned my back,
They would look that they had—their sheep all the pack.

I hope they will not be well paid,—when they their sheep lack.

Perdie!

But howso the game goes,
To me they will suppose,
And make a foul noise,
And cry out upon me.

But thou must do as thou hight,

Wife. I accord me thertylle.⁶

I shall swaddle him right in my cradle.

If it were a greater slight, yet could I help till.

I will lie down straight. Come hap me.

Mac.

I will,

Wife.

¹ where.

² lie.

³ waning moon.

⁴ plays.

⁵ comes.

⁶ thereto.

Come Coll and his marrow,
They will nip us full narrow.

Mac. But I may cry out " Harro!" ¹
The sheep if they find.

Wife. Hearken aye when they call: they will come anon.

Come and make ready all, and sing by thine own,
Sing " Lullay!" thou shall, for I must groan,
And cry out by the wall on Mary and John,
For sore.

Sing " Lullay" full fast
When thou hears at the last;
And but I play a false cast
Trust me no more.

[Re-enter the Three Shepherds.]

3rd Shepherd. Ah, Coll! good morn:—why sleepest thou not?

1st Shepherd. Alas, that ever was I born!—we have a foul blot.

A fat wether have we lorne.²

3rd Shepherd. Marry, Godys forbot!³

2nd Shepherd. Who should do us that scorn? That were a foul spot.

1st Shepherd. Some shrew.

I have sought with my dogs,
All Horbery shrogs,⁴
And of fifteen hogs
Found I but one ewe.

3rd Shepherd. Now trust me if you will;—by Saint Thomas of Kent!

Either Mac or Gill—was at that assent.

1st Shepherd. Peace, man, be still;—I saw when he went.

Thou slander'st him ill; thou ought to repent.
Good speed.

2nd Shepherd. Now as ever might I thee,
If I should even here dee,⁵
I would say it were he,
That did that same deed.

3rd Shepherd. Go we thither I rede,—and run on our feet.
May I never eat bread,—the truth till I wit.

1st Shepherd. Nor drink, in my heed,—with him till I meet.

2nd Shepherd. I will rest in no stead, till that I him greet,

² lost.

³ God forbid.

⁴ Horbery Shrubberies, near Wakefield.

⁵ die.

⁶ advise.

My brother
 One I will hight:¹
 Till I see him in sight
 Shall I never sleep one night
 There I do another.

3rd Shepherd. Will ye hear how they hack,²—Our Sire! list, how they croon!

1st Shepherd. Hard I never none crack,—so clear out of tune,
 Call on him.

2nd Shepherd. Mac! undo your door soon.

Mac. Who is it that spoke,—as it were noon?

On loft,

Who is that I say?

3rd Shepherd. Good fellows! were it day?

Mac. As far as ye may,—

Good, speak ye soft!

Over a sick woman's head,—that is ill mate ease,
 I had liefer be dead,—or she had any disease.

Wife. Go to another stead; I may not well queasse³

Each foot that ye tread—goes near make me sneeze⁴
 So he!

1st Shepherd. Tell us, Mac, if ye may,

How fare ye, I say?

Mac. But are ye in this town to-day?

Now how fare ye?

Ye have run in the mire, and are wet yit:

I shall make you a fire, if ye will sit.

A horse would I hire; think ye on it.

Well quit is my hire, my dream—this is it,

A season.

I have bairns if ye knew,

Well more than enew,⁵

But we must drink as we brew,

And that is but reason.

I would ye dined e'er ye yode:⁶ methink that ye sweat.

2nd Shepherd. Nay, neither mends our mode, drink nor meat.

Mac. Why, sir, ails you aught, but good?

3rd Shepherd. Yes, our sheep that we gat,

Are stolen as they yode.⁷ Our loss is great.

¹ call.

² "take on," make game.

³ breathe.

⁴ nose (?) The "so he" is meant for a she.

⁵ snow, enough.

⁶ went.

⁷ went, were grazing.

Mac. Sirs, drinkys!

Had I been there,

Some should have bought it full dear.

1st Shepherd. Marry, some men trows that ye were,
And that us forethinkys.¹

2nd Shepherd. Mac, some men trows that it should be ye.

3rd Shepherd. Either ye or your spouse; so say we.

Mac. Now if ye have suspouse² to Gill or to me,
Come and rip our house, and then may ye see
Who had her.

If I any sheep got,
Either cow or stot,
And Gill, my wife rose not
Here since she laid her.

As I am both true and leal, to God here I pray,
That this be the first meal, I shall eat this day.

1st Shepherd. Mac, as I have weal, arise thee, I say!

"He learned timely to steal, that could not say nay."

Wife. I swelt.³

Out thieves from my once!
Ye come to rob us for the nonce.

Mac. Hear ye not how she groans?
Your heart should melt.

Wife. Out thieves, from my bairn! Nigh him not thore.

Mac. Knew ye how she had farne,⁴ your hearts would be sore.
Ye do wrong, I you warn, that thus commys before
To a woman that has farn;⁵ but I say no more.

Wife. Ah, my middle!

I pray to God so mild,
If ever I you beguiled,
That I eat this child,
That lies in this cradle.

Mac. Peace, woman, for God's pain, and cry not so:
Thou spill'st thy brain, and mak'st me full woe.

2nd Shepherd. I know our sheep be slain, what find ye too?

3rd Shepherd. All work we in vain: as well may we go.
But hatters.⁶

I can find no flesh,
Hard nor nesh,⁷
Salt nor fresh,

² fared. ³ been in labour.

⁴ suspicion.

⁵ confound it.

⁶ swelter.

⁷ soft.

But two tome¹ platters:

No cattle but this, tame nor wild,

None, as have I bliss; as loud as he smiled.

Wife. No, so God me bliss, and give me joy of my child.

1st Shepherd. We have markēd amiss: I hold us beguiled.

2nd Shepherd. Sir, done!

Sir, our lady him save,

Is your child a knave?²

Mac. Any lord might him have

This child to his son.

When he wakens he skips, that joy is to see.

3rd Shepherd. In good time, be his steps, and happy they be!

But who was his gossips, tell now to me!

Mac. So fair fall their lips!

1st Shepherd (aside). Hark now, a lee!³

Mac. So God them thank,

Parkin, and Gibbon Waller, I say,

And gentle John Horne, in good fay,⁴

He made all the garray,⁵

With the great shank.

2nd Shepherd. Mac, friends will we be, for we are all one.

Mac. Why! now I hold for me, for help get I none.

Farewell all three: all glad were ye gone.

3rd Shepherd. Fair words may there be, but love there is none.

1st Shepherd. Gave ye the child anything?

2nd Shepherd. I trust not one farthing.

3rd Shepherd. Fast again will I fling,

Abide ye me there. [He returns to Mac's cot.]

Mac, take it to no grief, if I come to thy barn.

Mac. Nay, thou dost me great reprieve, and foul hast thou farne.⁶

3rd Shepherd. The child will it not grieve, that little day starn?⁷

Mac, with your leave, let me give your bairn,
But sixpence.

Mac. Nay, go 'way: he sleepys.

3rd Shepherd. Methink he peepys.

Mac. When he wakens he weepys.

I pray you go hence.

¹ empty.

² a boy.

³ a lie.

⁴ faith.

⁵ hub bub.

⁶ done.

⁷ day-star.

3rd Shepherd. Give me leave him to kiss, and lift up the clout.

What the devil is this? He has a long snout.

1st Shepherd. He is marked amiss. We wait ill about.

2nd Shepherd. Ill spun weft, I wis, aye cometh foul out;

Aye so:

He is like to our sheep.

3rd Shepherd. How, Gib, may I peep?

1st Shepherd. I trow, kind will creep,

Where it may not go.

2nd Shepherd. This was a quaint gaud,¹ and a far cast

It was a high fraud.

3rd Shepherd. Yea, sirs, was't.

Let burn this bawd and bind her fast.

A false skawd² hangs at the last;

So shall thou.

Will ye see how they swaddle

His four feet in the middle?

Saw I never in a cradle

A hornëd lad e'er now.

Mac. Peace bid I: what! let be your fare;

I am he that him gat, and yond woman him bare.

1st Shepherd. What devil shall he halt?³ Mac, lo, God makes air.

2nd Shepherd. Let be all that. Now God give him care!

I sagh.⁴

Wife. A pretty child is he,

As sits upon a woman's knee;

A dilly-downe, perdie!

To make a man laugh.

3rd Shepherd. I know him by the ear mark:—that is a good token.

Mac. I tell you, sirs, hark:—his nose was broken.

Since then, told me a clerk,—that he was forespoken.⁵

1st Shepherd. This is a false work.—I would fain be wroken:⁶

Get a weapon!

Wife. He was taken by an elf;⁷

I saw it myself.

When the clock struck twelve,

Was he mis-shapen.

² scold. ³ hight, be called. ⁴ say. ⁵ bewitched.

⁶ be avenged, wreak vengeance. ⁷ i.e. for a changeling.

2nd Shepherd. Ye two are right deft,—same in a stead.

3rd Shepherd. Since they maintain their theft,—let's do them to dead.

Mac. If I trespass eft, gird off my head.

With you will I be left.

1st Shepherd. Sirs, do my red

For this trespass,

We will neither ban nor flyte¹

Fight, nor chyte,²

But seize him tight,

And cast him in canvas.

[They toss Mac for his sins.

1st Shepherd (as the three return to the fold). Lord, how I am sore, in point for to tryst:

In faith I may no more, therefore will I rest.

2nd Shepherd. As a sheep of seven score, he weighed in my fist.

For to sleep anywhere, methink that I list.

3rd Shepherd. Now I pray you,

Lie down on this green.

1st Shepherd. On these thefts yet I mean.

3rd Shepherd. Whereto should ye tene?³

Do as I say you.

[Enter an Angel above, who sings "Gloria in Excelsis," then says:

Rise, hired-men, heynd,⁴ for now is he born

That shall take from the fiend, that Adam had lorn:⁵

That warlock to sheynd,⁶ this night is he born.

God is made your friend: now at this morn,

He behests;

To Bedlem go see,

There lies that free⁷

In a crib full poorly,

Betwixt two beasts.

1st Shepherd. This was a quaint steyvn⁸ that ever yet I heard.

It is a marvel to nevyn⁹ thus to be scared.

2nd Shepherd. Of God's son of heaven, he spoke up word.

All the wood like the levin,¹⁰ methought that he gard

⁶ destroy. ⁷ free, or divine, One. ⁸ voice. ⁹ name, relate. ¹⁰ lightning.

3rd Shepherd. He spoke of a bairn
In Bedlem I you warn.

1st Shepherd. That betokens yonder starn¹
Let us seek him there.

2nd Shepherd. Say, what was his song? Heard ye not how he cracked it?

Three breves to a long.²

3rd Shepherd. Yea, marry, he hacked³ it.
Was no crochet wrong, nor no thing that lacked it.

1st Shepherd. For to sing us among, right as he knacked it,
I can.

2nd Shepherd. Let us see how ye croon
Can ye bark at the moon?

3rd Shepherd. Hold your tongues, have done.

1st Shepherd. Hark after, then.

2nd Shepherd. To Bedlem he bade—that we should gang:
I am full feared—that we tarry too lang.

3rd Shepherd. Be merry and not sad: of mirth is our sang,
Everlasting glad, our road may we fang,⁴
Without noise.

1st Shepherd. Hie we thither quickly;
If we be wet and weary,
To that child and that lady
We have it not to slose.⁵

2nd Shepherd. We find by the prophecy—let be your din—
Of David and Esai, and more than I min;
They prophesied by clergy, that on a virgin
Should he light and ly, to pardon our sin

And slake it,
Our kind from woe;
For Esai said so,

Cite virgo

Concipiet a child that is naked.

3rd Shepherd. Full glad may we be,—and abide that day
That lovely to see,—that all mights may.
Lord, well for me,—for once and for aye,
Might I kneel on my knee—some word for to say
To that child.

But the angel said
In a crib was he laid;

⁴ take. ⁵ delay. ⁶ can mind.

He was poorly arrayed,
Both meaner and mild.

1st Shepherd. Patriarchs that have been,—and prophets beforn,

They desired to have seen—this child that is born.

They are gone full clean,—that have they lorn.

We shall see him, I ween,—e'er it be morn

By token

When I see him and feel,

Then know I full weel

It is true as steel

That prophets have spoken.

To so poor as we are, that he would appear,

First find, and declare by his messenger.

2nd Shepherd. Go we now, let us fare: the place is us near.

3rd Shepherd. I am ready and yare:¹ go we in fear

To that light!

Lord! if thy wills be,

We are lewd² all three,

Thou grant us of thy glee,³

To comfort thy wight.

[The Shepherds arrive at Bethlehem.]

1st Shepherd. Hail, comely and clean; hail, young child!

Hail, maker, as I mean, of a maiden so mild!

Thou hast wared, I ween, off the warlock⁴ so wild,

The false guiler of teen,⁵ now goes he beguiled.

Lo, he merry is!

Lo, he laughs, my sweeting,

A welcome meeting!

I have given my greeting

Have a bob of cherries?

2nd Shepherd. Hail, sovereign saviour, for thou hast us sought!

Hail freely, leaf and flow'r, that all thing has wrought!

Hail full of favour, that made all of nought!

Hail! I kneel and I cower. A bird have I brought

To my bairn!

Hail, little tiny mop,⁶

² worker of evil. The "he" in the next line refers to the Holy Babe again. ⁵ pate, little tiny-pate.

Of our creed thou are crop!

Little day-starn.¹

3rd Shepherd. Hail, darling dear, full of godheed!
I pray thee be near, when that I have need.
Hail! sweet is thy cheer: my heart would bleed
To see thee sit here in so poor weed,
With no pennies.
Hail! put forth thy dall!—²
I bring thee but a ball
Have and play thee with all,
And go to the tennis.

Mary. The Father of Heaven, God omnipotent,
That set all on levin,³ his son has he sent.
My name could he never,⁴ and laugh as he went.⁵
I conceived him full even, through might, as God meant;
And new is he born.
He keep you from woe:
I shall pray him so;
Tell forth as ye go,
And mind on this morn.

1st Shepherd. Farewell, lady, so fair to behold,
With thy child on thy knee.

2nd Shepherd. But he lies full cold,
Lord, well is me: now we go forth, behold!

3rd Shepherd. Forsooth, already it seems to be told Full oft.

1st Shepherd. What grace we have fun.⁶

2nd Shepherd. Come forth, now are we won,

3rd Shepherd. To sing are we bun:⁷
Let take on loft.⁸

MARY	AN ANGEL
THE THREE KINGS	TWO SOLDIERS
THE THREE SHEPHERDS	THREE WOMEN

THE COVENTRY NATIVITY PLAY

PROLOGUE

Isaiah. The sovereign that seeth every secret
He save you all and make you perfect and strong:
And give his grace with his mercy thereto meet,
For now in great misery mankind is bound.
The serpent hath given us so mortal a wound
That no creature is able us for to release
Till the right unction of Judah doth cease.

Then shall much mirth and joy increase
And the right root in Israel spring,
That shall bring forth the grain of holiness:
And out of danger he shall us bring
Into that region where he is king:
Which above all other doth abound
And that cruel Satan he shall confound.

Wherefore I come here upon this ground,
To comfort every creature of birth;
For I, Isaiah, the prophet, hath found
Many sweet matters, whereof we may make mirth
On this same wise.
For though Adam be doomed to death
With all his children, as Abel and Seth:
Yet, *Ecce virgo concipiet!*¹
Lo, where a remedy shall rise!

Behold a maid shall conceive a child,
And get us more grace than ever man had.
And her maidenhood nothing defiled:
She is deputed to bear the Son, Almighty God.
Lo, sovereignties now may you be glad,
For of this maiden all we may be fain;²
For Adam that now lies in sorrows full sad,
Her glorious birth shall redeem him again
From bondage and thrall.

² glad.

Now be merry every man,
 For this deed briefly in Israel shall be done,
 And before the Father on his throne
 That shall glad us all.

More of this matter fain would I move,
 But longer time I have not here for to dwell.
 That lord that is merciful, his mercy so in us may prove
 For to save our souls from the darkness of hell,

And to his bliss—he us bring
 As he is—both lord and king;
 And shall be everlasting
In secula seculos :¹ Amen.

[Exit.]

[Enter Gabriel to Mary.]

Gabriel. Hail! Mary, full of grace,
 Our Lord God is with thee!
 Above all women that ever was;
 Lady, blessed may thou be.

Mary. Almighty Father and King of bliss
 From all dyskes² thou save me now:
 For inwardly my spirit troubled is,
 I am amazed and know not how.

Gabriel. Dread thee nothing, maiden, of this:
 From heaven above hither am I sent,
 Of embassage from that King of bliss,
 Unto the lady and virgin reverent,
 Saluting thee here as most excellent,
 Whose virtue above all other doth abound;
 Wherefore in thee grace shall be found:
 For thou shalt conceive upon this ground
 The Second Person of God on throne;
 He will be born of thee alone,
 Without sin tho shalt him see.
 Thy grace and thy goodness will never be gone
 But ever to live in virginity.

Mary. I marvel sore how that may me:
 Man's company knew I never yet,
 Nor never to do cast I me,
 While that our Lord sendeth me my wit.

¹ for ever and ever.

² deceits, darknesses.

Gabriel. The Holy Ghost in thee shall light,
And shall endue thy soul so with virtue
From the Father that is on high:
These words, turtle, they be full true.

This child that of thee shall be born
Is the Second Person in Trinity.
He shall save that was forlorn,
And the fiend's power destroy shall he.

These words, lady, full true they be,
And further, lady, in thy own lineage,
Behold Elizabeth, thy cousin clean,
The which was barren and past all age.

And now with child she hath been
Six months and more as shall be seen;
Wherefore, discomfort thee not, Mary,
For to God impossible nothing may be.

Mary. Now and it be that Lord's will
Of my body to be born and for to be
His high pleasure for to fulfil,
As his one handmaid I submit me.

Gabriel. Now blessed be the time set
That thou wast born in thy degree:
For now is the knot surely knit
And God conceived in Trinity.

Now farewell lady of might most,
Unto the Godhead I thee beteyche.¹

Mary. That lord thee guide in every cost
And lowly he lead me and be my leech.²

[Here the Angel departeth and Joseph cometh in and saith :

Joseph. Mary, my wife so dear!
How do ye, dame, and what cheer
Is with you this tide?

Mary. Truly, husband, I am here
Our Lord's will for to abide.

Joseph. What! I trow we be all shent!³
Say, woman, who hath been here since I went
To rage with thee?

Mary. Sir, here was neither man, nor man's even,⁴
But only the sond⁵ of our Lord God in heaven.

Joseph. Say not so, woman, for shame let be:

¹ commit.

² physician, healer.

³ ruined.

⁴ equal or like.

⁵ messenger.

Ye be with child so wondrous great,
 Ye need no more thereof to treat
 Against all right.
 For sooth this child, dame, is not mine;
 Alas, that ever with my eyne¹
 I should see this sight.

Tell me, woman, whose is this child?

Mary. None but yours, husband, so mild
 And that shall be seen, I wis.

Joseph. But mine, alas! alas! why say ye so?
 Well away, woman, now may I go
 Beguiled as many another is.

Mary. Nay truly, sir, ye be not beguiled
 Nor yet with spot of sin I am not defiled;
 Trust it well, husband.

Joseph. Husband in faith, and that acold;
 Ah well away, Joseph, as thou art old!
 Like a fool now may I stand
 And truss; but in faith, Mary, thou art in sin.
 So much as I have cherished thee, dame, and all thy kin,
 Behind my back to serve me thus:

All old men example take by me,
 How I am beguiled here may you see,
 To wed so young a child.
 Now farewell, Mary, I leave thee here alone,
 Woe worth thee dame, and thy works each one!
 For I will no more be beguiled
 For friend nor foe.

Now of this deed I am so dull
 And of my life I am so full,
 No farther may I go.

Angel. Arise up, Joseph, and go home again
 Unto Mary thy wife that is so free;
 To comfort her look that thou be fain,
 For, Joseph, a clean maiden is she.
 She hath conceived without any trayne
 The Second Person in Trinity:
 Jesu shall be his name certainly,
 And all this world save shall he.
 Be not aghast.

Joseph. Now, Lord, I thank thee with heart full sad.

¹ eyes.

For of these tidings I am so glad
That all my care away is cast,
Wherfore to Mary I will in haste.

Ah, Mary, Mary, I kneel full low,
Forgive me, sweet wife, here in this land;
Mercy, Mary, for now I know
Of your good governance and how it doth stand:
Though that I did thee misname.
Mercy, Mary, while I live
Will I never, sweet wife, thee grieve,
In earnest nor in game.

Mary. Now, that Lord in Heaven, sir,—he you forgive!
And I do forgive you in his name
For evermore.

Joseph. Now truly, sweet wife, to you I say the same;
But now to Bethlehem must I wynde¹
And show myself so full of care,
And I to leave you this great behind,
God wot, the while, dame, how you should fare.

Mary. Nay hardily, husband, dread ye nothing,
For I will walk with you on the way.
I trust in God, Almighty King,
To speed right well in our journey.

Joseph. Now I thank you, Mary, of your goodness
That you my words will not blame;
And since that to Bethlehem we shall us address
Go we together in God's holy name.

[They set out on their way.

Now to Bethlehem have we leagues three,
The day is nigh spent, it draweth towards night,
Fain at your ease, dame, I would that ye should be:
For you grow all weary, it seemeth, in my sight.

Mary. God have mercy, Joseph, my spouse, so dear!
All prophets hereto do bear witness
The evry time now draweth near
That my child will be born, which is King of bliss.

Unto some place, Joseph, kindly me lead,
That I might rest me with grace in this tide,
The light of the Father over us both spread
And the grace of my son with us here abide.

Joseph. Lo, blessed Mary, here shall ye lend; ¹

Chief chosen of our Lord, and cleanest in degree:
And I for help to town, will I wend.

Is not this the best, dame, what say ye?

Mary. God have mercy! Joseph, my husband, so meek,
And I heartily pray you go now from me.

Joseph. That shall be done in haste, Mary, so sweet!
The comfort of the Holy Ghost leave I with thee.
Now to Bethlehem strait will I go,
To get some help for Mary so free,
Some help of women, God may me send!
That Mary, full of grace, pleased may be.

[Enter a Shepherd.]

1st Shepherd. Now God that art in Trinity,
Thou sawest my fellows and me;
For I know not where my sheep nor they be,
This night it is so cold,
Now is it nigh the middest of the night,
These weathers are dark and dim of light,
That of them can I have no sight,
Standing here on this wold.
But now to make their hearts light,
Now will I full right
Stand upon this loe.²
And to them cry with all my might:
Full well my voice they know,
What ho, fellows, ho, hoo, ho!

[Enter two other Shepherds.]

2nd Shepherd. Hark, Sym, hark, I hear our brother on the loe,²
This is his voice, right well I know,
Therefore towards him let us go,
And follow his voice aright,
See, Sym, see where he doth stand;
I am right glad we have him found.
Brother! where hast thou been so long,
And it is so cold this night?

1st Shepherd. Oh, friends! there came a pyrie³ of wind
With a mist suddenly,
That forth off my ways went I,
And great heaviness then made I,

¹ stay.

² hill.

³ gust.

And was full sore afeight;
 Then for to go wist I not whither,
 But travelled on this hill hither and thither.
 I was so weary of this cold weather,
 That near passed was my might.

3rd Shepherd. Brother, now we be past that fright,
 And it is far within the night:
 Full soon will spring the daylight,
 It draweth full near the tide.
 Here awhile let us rest
 And repast ourselves of the best,
 Till that the sun rise in the east,
 Let us all here abide.

[There the Shepherds draw forth their meat, and do eat and drink, and as they drink they see the star and say thus:]

Brother, look up and behold,
 What thing is yonder that shineth so bright?
 As long as ever I have watched my fold,
 Yet saw I never such a sight
 In field.

Aha! now is come the time that old fathers hath told,
 That in the winter's night so cold,
 A child of maiden born, be he would,
 In whom all prophecies shall be fulfilled.

1st Shepherd. Truth it is without nay,
 So said the prophet Isaye,
 That a child should be born of a maid so bright
 In winter nigh the shortest day,
 Or else in the middest of the night.

2nd Shepherd. Loved be God, most of might!
 That our grace is to see that sight;
 Pray we to him as it is right
 If that his will it be,
 That we may have knowledge of this signification,
 And why it appeareth on this fashion
 And ever to him let us give laudation,
 In earth, while that we be.

[There the angels sing "Gloria in Excelsis Deo."]

3rd Shepherd. Hark, they sing above in the clouds clear!
 Heard I never of so merry a choir,
 Now gentle brother draw we near

To hear their harmony?

1st Shepherd. Brother, mirth and solace is come us among
For, by the sweetness of their song;

God's Son is come, whom we have looked for long,
As signifieth this star we do see.

2nd Shepherd. Glory, Gloria in Excelsis, that was their song,
How say ye fellows! said they not thus?

1st Shepherd. That is well said, now go we hence
To worship that child of high magnificence;
And that we may sing in his presence,
Et in terra pax omnibus.

[There the Shepherds sing :]

As I out rode this enderes' night,
Of three jolly shepherds I saw a sight,
And all about their fold a star shone bright;
They sang, Terli, terlow;
So merrily the shepherds their pipes can blow.

Joseph. Now, Lord, this noise that I do hear
With this great solemnity,
Greatly amended hath my cheer,
I trust high news shortly will be.

[There the Angels sing "Gloria in Excelsis" again.]

Mary. Ah Joseph, husband, come hither anon
My child is born that is King of bliss.

Joseph. Now welcome to me, the maker of man,
With all the homage that I can;
Thy sweet mother here will I kiss.

Mary. Ah Joseph, husband, my child waxeth cold
And we have no fire to warm him with.

Joseph. Now in my arms I shall him fold,
King of all kings by field and by frith,¹
He might have had better, and himself would
Than the breathing of these beasts to warm him with.

Mary. Now, Joseph, my husband, fetch hither my child,
The maker of man, and high King of bliss.

Joseph. That shall be done, anon, Mary so mild!
For the breathing of these beasts hath warmed him,
I wis.

1st Angel. Herdmen kind, dread ye nothing,
Of this star that ye do see;

¹ wold.

For this same morn God's son is born,
In Bethlem of a maiden fre.¹

2nd Angel. Hie you hither in haste,
It is his will ye shall him see
Lying in a crib of poor repast;
Yet of David's line come is he.

1st Shepherd. Hail, maid-mother, and wife so mild!
As the angel said, so have we found,
I have nothing to present to thy child,
But my pipe; hold, hold! take it in thy hand;
Wherein much pleasure that I have found,
And now to honour thy glorious birth,
Thou shalt it have to make thee mirth.

2nd Shepherd. Now, hail be thou, child, and thy dame,
For in a poor lodging here art thou laid;
So the angel said, and told us thy name.
Hold, take thou here my hat on thy head,
And now of one thing thou art well sped;
For weather thou hast no cause to complain,
For wind, nor sun, hail, snow, and rain.

3rd Shepherd. Hail, be thou Lord over water and lands
For thy coming all we may make mirth,
Have here my mittens to put on thy hands
Other treasure have I none to present thee with.

Mary. Now, herdmen kind,
For your coming,
To my child shall I pray,
As he is heaven's king,
To grant you his blessing,
And to his bliss that ye may wynd²
At your last day.

[There the Shepherds sing again :]

Down from heaven, from heaven so high,
Of angels there came a great company,
With mirth, and joy, and great solemnity
They sang, Terli, terlow;
So merrily the shepherds their pipes can blow.

[The two prophets come in.]

1st Prophet. Novellis, novellis,³ of wonderful marvellys,⁴
Were high and sweet unto the hearing,

¹ noble.

² win.

³ News, news!

⁴ marvels.

As Scripture tellis, these strange novellis
To you I bring.

2nd Prophet. Now, heartily, sir, I desire to know,
If it would please you for to show,
Of what manner a thing?

1st Prophet. Were it mystical unto your hearing,—
Of the nativity of a king?

2nd Prophet. Of a king?
Whence should he come?

1st Prophet. From that region royal and mighty mansion,
The seed celestial and heavenly wisdom,
The Second Person, and God's one Son,
For our sake is man become.
This godly sphere, descended here,
Into a virgin clear,
She undefiled,
By whose work, obscure our frail nature
Is now beguiled.

2nd Prophet. Why, hath she a child?

1st Prophet. Ah, trust it well,
And never the less,
Yet is she a maid even as she was,
And her son the king of Israel.

2nd Prophet. A wonderful marvel, How that may be,
And far doth excel—
All our capacity,
How that the trinity,
Of so high regality,
Should joined be,
Unto our mortality.

1st Prophet. Of his one great mercy
As ye shall see the exposition,
Through whose humanity all Adam's progeny
Redeemed shall be
Out of perdition;
Sith man did offend, who should amend,
But the said man and no other;
For the which cause he,
Incarnate would be,
And live in misery
As man's one brother.

2nd Prophet. Sir, upon the Deity, I believe perfectly,

Impossible to be, there is nothing;
 Howbeit this work, unto me is dark,
 In the operation or working.

1st Prophet. What more reproof is unto belief
 Than to be doubting.

2nd Prophet. Yet doubts ofttimes hath derivation.

1st Prophet. That is by the means of communication,
 Of truths to have a due probation,—
 By the same doubts, reasoning.

2nd Prophet. Then to you, this one thing,
 Of what noble and high lineage is she,
 That might this verible prince's mother be?

1st Prophet. Undoubted she is come of high parrage,¹
 Of the house of David, and Solomon the sage,
 And one of the same line joined to her by marriage
 Of whose tribe, we do subscribe
 This child's lineage.

2nd Prophet. And why in that wise?

1st Prophet. For it was the guise
 To count the parent on the man's line,
 And not on the feminine,
 Amongst us here in Israel.

2nd Prophet. Yet can I not espy, by no wise
 How this child born should be without nature's prejudice.

1st Prophet. Nay, no prejudice unto nature I dare well say,
 For the king of nature may
 Have all his one will,
 Did not the power of God, make Aaron's rod
 Bear fruit in one day?

2nd Prophet. Truth it is indeed.

1st Prophet. Then look you and rede.²

2nd Prophet. Ah! I perceive the seed
 Whereupon that you spake,
 It was for our need
 That he frail nature did take,
 And his blood he should shed
 Amends for to make
 For our transgression,
 As it is said in prophecy, that of the line of Judæ
 Should spring a right Messië,

² give advies.

By whom all we
Should have redemption.

1st Prophet. Sir, now is the time come,
And the date thereof run
Of his Nativity.

2nd Prophet. Yet I beseech you heartily,
That ye would show me how
That this strange novelty
Were brought unto you?

1st Prophet. This other night so cold,
Hereby upon a wold,
Shepherds watching their fold
In the night so far,
To them appeared a star,
And ever it drew them near,
Which star they did behold,
Brighter they say a thousand fold
Than the sun so clear
In his midday sphere;
And they these tidings told.

2nd Prophet. What, secretly?

1st Prophet. Na, na, hardly,¹
They made there of no council,
For they sang as loud,
As ever they could,
Praising the king of Israel.

2nd Prophet. Yet do I marvel,
In what pile or castle,
These herdmen did him see.

1st Prophet. Neither in halls, nor yet in bowers,
Born would he not be,
Neither in castles, nor yet in towers,
That seemly were to see,
But at his Father's will,
The prophecy to fulfil,
Betwixt an ox and an ass
Jesu this king born he was;
Heaven he bring us till!²

2nd Prophet. Sir, ah! but when these shepherds had seen him there,
To what place did they repair?

² to.

1st Prophet. Forth they went, and glad they were;
 Going they did sing,
 With mirth and solace, they made good cheer,
 For joy of that new tiding.
 And after as I heard them tell,
 He rewarded them full well
 He granted them heaven therein to dwell.
 In age they gone with joy and mirth,
 And their song it is Noël.

[There the Prophets go forth, and Herod and the messenger (or herald) comes in.

Herald. Peace, Lord Barons of great renown!
 Peace, sir knights of noble presence!
 Peace, gentlemen companions of noble order!
 I command that all of you keep silence.
 Peace while your noble king is in presence!
 Let no person stint to pay him deference;
 Be not bold to strike, but keep your hearts in patience,
 And to your Lord keep heart of reverence,
 For he, your king, has all puissance!
 In the name of the law, I command you peace!
 And King Herod—"la grandeably vos umport."¹

Herod. Qui status in Jude et Rex Israel,²

And the mightiest conqueror that ever walked on ground;
 For I am even he that made both heaven and hell,
 And of my mighty power holdeth up this world round.
 Magog and Madroke, both them did I confound,
 And with this bright brand their bones I brake asunder,
 That all on the wide world on those rappis³ did wonder.
 I am the cause of this great light and thunder;
 It is through my fury that they such noise do make.
 My fearful countenance the clouds so doth encumber,
 That often for dread thereof the very earth doth quake.
 Look when I with malin this bright brand doth shake;
 All the whole world from the north to the south,
 I may them destroy with one word of my mouth.
 To recount unto you my innumerable substance

¹ "The devil run away with you!" The whole of this Herald's speech is in corrupt French, of which only the last speech, evidently a comic "aside," is retained.

² He that reigns, King in Judea and Israel. ³ strokes, loud blows.

That were too much for any tongue to tell;
 For all the whole Orient is under mine obedience,
 And prince am I of purgatory, and chief captain of hell.
 And those tyrannous traitors by force may I compel
 Mine enemies to vanquish, and even to dust to drive,
 And with a twinkle of mine eye not one to be left alive.
 Behold my countenance and my colour,
 Brighter than the sun in the middle of the day!
 Where can you have a more greater succour,
 Than to behold my person that is so gay;
 My falchion and my fashion with my gorgeous array?
 He that had the grace always thereon to think,
 Live they might alway without other meat or drink.
 And this my triumphant fame most highly doth abound,
 Throughout this world in all reigons abroad,
 Resembling the favour of that most mighty Mahound
 From Jupiter by descent, and cousin to the great God,
 And named the most renowned King Herod,
 Which that all princes hath under subjection,
 And all their whole power under my protection.
 And therefore my herald here called Calchas,
 Warn thou every port, that no ships arrive,
 Nor also alien stranger through my realm pass,
 But they for their truage¹ do pay marks five,
 Now speed thee forth hastily,
 For they that will the contrary,
 Upon a gallows hanged shall be;
 And, by Mahound, of me they get no gracie!

Herald. Now, lord and master! in all the haste,
 Thy worthy will it shall be wrought,
 And thy royal countries shall be past,
 In as short time as can be thought.

Herod. Now shall our regions throughout be sought
 In every place, both east and west;
 If any caitiffs to me be brought,
 It shall be nothing for their best.
 And the while that I do rest,
 Trumpets, viols, and other harmony,
 Shall bless the waking of my majesty.

[Here Herod goeth away, and the three Kings speaketh in the street.]

¹ tribute.

1st King. Now blessed be God, of his sweet sonde¹
 For yonder a bright star I do see!
 Now is he come us among
 As the prophets said that it should be.

He said there should a babe be born
 Coming of the root of Jesse,
 To save mankind that was forlorn,
 And truly come now is he.

Reverence and worship to him will I do
 As God and man, that all made of nought.
 All the prophets accorded and said even so,
 That with his precious blood mankind should be bought.

He grant me grace by yonder star that I see,
 And into that place bring me,
 That I may him worship with humility
 And see his glorious face.

2nd King. Out of my way I deem that I am
 For tokens of this country can I none see;
 Now God that on earth madest man,
 Send me some knowledge where that I be.

Yonder me thinks a fair bright star I see,
 The which betokeneth the birth of a child,
 That hither is come to make man free,
 He, born of a maid, and she nothing defiled,

To worship that child is mine intent.
 Forth now will I take my way:
 I trust some company God hath me sent,
 For yonder I see a king labour on the way,

Toward him now will I ride.
 Hark, comely king, I you pray,
 Into what coast will ye this tide,
 Or whither lies your journey?

1st King. To seek a child is mine intent,
 Of whom the prophets have meant.
 The time is come now is he sent,
 By yonder star here may you see.

2nd King. Sir, I pray you with your licence,
 To ride with you into his presence;
 To him will I offer frankincense
 For the head of the whole church shall he be.

3rd King. I ride wandering in ways wide

¹ message.

Over mountains and dales, I wot not where I am,
Now king of all kings send me such guide,
That I may have knowledge of this country's name.

Ah, yonder I see a sight be seeming all afar,
The which betokens some news as I trow,
As me thinks a child appearing in a star;
I trust he be come that shall defend us from woe.

Two kings yonder I see, and to them will I ride,
For to have their company: I trust they will me abide.¹
Hail, comely kings augent!²

Good sirs, I pray you whither are ye meant?

1st King. To seek a child is our intent,
Which betokens yonder star as ye may see.

2nd King. To him I purpose this present.

3rd King. Sirs, I pray you, and that right humbly
With you that I may ride in company;
To Almighty God now pray we,
That his precious person we may see.

[Here Herod cometh in again, and the messenger saith :
Herald. Hail, Lord! most of might!

Thy commandment is right.

Into thy land is come this night

Three kings, and with them a great company.

Herod. What make those kings in this country?

Herald. To seek a king and a child, they say.

Herod. Of what age should he be?

Herald. Scant twelve days old fully.

Herod. And was he so late born?

Herald. Eh! sir, so they show'd me this same day in the morn.

Herod. Now, in pain of death, bring them me beforne

And, therefore, herald, hie thee now, in haste,
In all speed that thou were dight,³

Or that those kings the country be past,—

Look thou bring them all three before my sight.

And in Jerusalem enquire more of that child?

But I warn thee that thy words be mild,
For there take thou heed, and craft thereto

His power to foredo,⁴

That those three kings shall be beguiled.

Herald. Lord, I am ready at your bidding,

¹ await.

² prepared.

³ (?) and gentle or noble.

⁴ undo.

To serve thee as my lord and king,
 For joy thereof, lo, how I spring,
 With light heart and fresh gambolling,
 Aloft here on this mould.

Herod. Then speed thee forth hastily,
 And look that thou bear thee evenly
 And also I pray thee heartily,
 That thou do commend me
 Both to young and old.

Herald (returning to the Three Kings). Hail, sir kings, in your degree!

Herod, king of these countries wide
 Desireth to speak with you all three,
 And for your coming he doth abide.

1st King. Sir, at his will we be right bane¹
 Hie us, brother, unto that lord's place;
 To speak with him we would be fain
 That child that we seek, he grant us of his grace.

Herald (bringing in the Kings). Hail, Lord, without peer!
 These three kings have we brought.

Herod. Now welcome, sir kings, all in fere;²
 But of my bright ble,³ sirs, abash ye nought.
 Sir kings, as I understand,
 A star hath guided you into my land;
 Wherein great harie⁴ ye have found,
 By reason of her beams bright;
 Wherefore I pray you heartily,
 The very truth that you would certify;
 How long it is surely,
 Since of that star you had first sight?

1st King. Sir king, the very truth we say.
 And to show you, as it is best,
 This same is even the twelfth day
 Since it appeared to us to be west.

Herod. Brother, then is there no more to say,
 But with heart and will keep ye your journey,
 And come home again this same way,
 Of your news that I may know.
 You shall triumph in this country,
 And with great concord banquet with me

² All in company.

³ mien, face.

⁴ trouble, or from "haro," help.

And that child myself then will I see,
And honour him also.

2nd King. Sir, your commandment we will fulfil,
And humbly obey ourselves theretilly,
He that weldeth all things at will.

The ready way us teach,
Sir king, that we may pass your land in peace.

Herod. Yes! and walk softly even at your own ease.
Your passport for a hundred days
Here shall you have of clear command;
Our realm to labour¹ any ways
Here shall you have by special grant.

3rd King. Now farewell, king of high degree,
Humbly of you our leave we take.

Herod. Then adieu, sir kings, all three,
And while I live be bold of me;
There is nothing in this country,
But for your own ye shall it take.

[Exeunt the Three Kings.]

Now these three kings are gone on their way,
Unwisely and unwittingly have they all wrought.
When they come again, they shall die that same day,
And thus these vile wretches to death shall be brought;
Such is my liking.

He that against my laws will hold,
Be he king or kaiser, never so bold,
I shall them cast into cares cold,
And to death I shall them bring.

[There Herod goeth his way, and the Three Kings come in again.]

1st King. Oh, blessed God, much is thy might!

Where is this star that gave us light?

2nd King. Now kneel we down here on this presence
By seeking that Lord of high magnificence;
That we may see his high excellence,
If that his sweet will be.

3rd King. Yonder, brother, I see the star,
Whereby I know he is not far;
Therefore, lords, go we now,
Into this poor place.

[There the Three Kings go in to the jeseyne,² Mary and her child.]

1st King. Hail, Lord, that all this world hath wrought!

¹ travel.

² childbed, or lying-in chamber.

Hail God and man together in fere.¹
 For thou hast made all thing of nought
 Albeit that thou liest poorly here.
 A cup full of gold here I have thee brought,
 In tokening thou art without peer.

2nd King. Hail be thou, Lord of high magnificence
 In tokening of priesthood, and dignity of office,
 To thee I offer a cup full of incense;
 For it behoveth thee to have such sacrifice.

3rd King. Hail be thou, Lord long looked for!
 I have brought thee myrrh for mortality;
 In tokening those shalt mankind restore
 To life by thy death upon a tree.

Mary. God have mercy, kings, of your goodness!
 By the guiding of the Godhead hither are ye sent;
 The provision of my sweet son, your ways home redress,
 And ghostly reward you for your present.

1st King. Sir kings, after our promise,
 Home by Herod, I must needs go.

2nd King. Now truly, brother, we can no less,
 But I am so far watched I wot not what to do.

3rd King. Right so am I, wherefore I you pray
 Let all us rest us awhile upon this ground.

1st King. Brother, your saying is right well unto my pay
 The grace of that sweet child save us all sound.

Angel. King of Taurus, Sir Jaspar!
 King of Araby, Sir Balthasar!
 Melchior, king of Aginara!
 To you now am I sent.
 For dread of Herod, go you west home
 In those parts when ye come down,
 Ye shall be burrid² with great renown:
 The Holy Ghost this knowledge hath sent.

1st King. Awake, sir kings, I you pray,
 For the voice of an angel I heard in my dream!

2nd King. That is full true that ye do say
 For he rehearsed our names plain.

3rd King. He bade that we should go down by west
 For dread of Herod's false betray.

1st King. So for to do it is the best,
 The child that we have sought, guide us the way!

¹ company.

² go free.

[Turning to the babe.

Now farewell, the fairest of shape so sweet,
And thanked be Jesus of his sond.¹
That we three together so suddenly should meet
That dwell so wide, and in a strange land;
And here to make our presentation
Unto this king's son cleansed so clean,
And to his mother for our salvation;
Of much mirth now may we mean,
That we so well hath done this oblation.

2nd King. Now farewell, Sir Jaspar, brother to you,
King of Taurus, the most worth;
Sir Balthasar, also to you I bow
And I thank you both of your good company,
While we together have been.
He that made us to meet on hill,
I thank him now, and ever I will;
For now may we go without ill;
And of our offering be full fain.

3rd King. Now sith that we must needly go
For dread of Herod, that is so wroth,
Now farewell brother, and brother also;
I take my leave here of you both,
This day on foot.
Now he that made us to meet on plain,
And offered to Mary in her jeseyne,²
He give us grace in heaven again,
Altogether to meet.

[Exeunt the Three Kings: Enter the Herald and King Herod.

Herald. Hail, King most worthiest in wede!³

Hail, maintainer of courtesy through all this world wide!

Hail, the most mightiest that ever bestrode a steed!

Hail, most manfullest man in armour man to abide!

Hail in thine honour!

These three kings that forth were sent

And should have come again before thee here present,

Another way, Lord, home they went

Contrary to thine honour.

Herod. Another way!—out! out!—out!

Hath those foul traitors done me this deed?

¹ summons.

² childbed.

³ raiment.

I stamp, I stare, I look all about;
 Might them I take I should them burn at a glede.¹
 I rend, I roar, and now run I wood;²
 Ah! that these villain traitors hath marred this my mood!
 They shall be hanged if I come them to.

[Here Herod rages in the pageant, and in the street also.
 Eh! and that kerne³ of Bethlehem, he shall be dead,
 And thus shall I do for his prophecy.
 How say you, sir knights, is not this the best red,⁴
 That all young children for this should be dead
 With sword to be slain?
 Then shall I, Herod, live in lede,⁵
 And all folk me doubt and dread,
 And offer to me both gold, riches, and mede,⁶
 Thereto will they be full fain.

1st Soldier. My Lord, King Herod by name,
 Thy words against my will shall be
 To see so many young children die, is shame;
 Therefore counsel thereto gettest thou none of me.

2nd. Soldier. Well said, fellow, my troth I plight;
 Sir king! perceive right well you may
 So great a murder to see of young fruit,
 Will make a rising in thine own countrey.

Herod. A rising!—out! out! out!

[There Herod rages again, and then saith thus:

Out villain wretches, hereupon you I cry,
 My will utterly, look that it be wrought,
 Or upon a gallows both you shall die,
 By Mahound, most mightiest, that me dear hath bought!

1st Soldier. Now, cruel Herod, sith we shall do this deed,
 Your will needfully in this must be wrought.
 All the children of that age, die they must need,
 Now with all my might they shall be upsought.

2nd Soldier. And I will swear here upon your bright sword,
 All the children that I find, slain they shall be;
 That make many a mother to weep, and be full sore
 afeard,

In our armour bright, when they us see.

Herod. Now you have sworn, forth that ye go

¹ fire.

⁴ rede, advice.

² mad.

⁵ fame.

³ wild countryman.

⁶ reward.

And my will that ye work both by day and night,
 And then will I for fain trip like a doe;
 But when they be dead, I warn you, bring them before my sight.

Angel. Mary and Joseph, to you I say,
 Sweet word from the Father I bring you full right;
 Out of Bethlehem into Egypt forth go ye the way
 And with you take the king, full of might,
 For dread of Herod's red.¹

Joseph. Arise up, Mary, hastily and soon!
 Our Lord's will needs must be done,
 Like as the angel bade.

Mary. Meekly, Joseph, mine own spouse,
 Toward that country let us repair,
 In Egypt,—some token of house,—
 God grant us grace safe to come there!

[Here the women come in with their children, singing them, and Mary and Joseph goeth clean away.

Lully, lulla, thou little tiny child;
 By, by, lullay, lullay, thou little tiny child;
 By, by, lully, lullay.

O sisters too! how may we do,
 For to preserve this day
 This poor youngling, for whom we do sing
 By, by, lully, lullay.

Herod, the king, in his raging,
 Charged he hath this day
 His men of might, in his own sight,
 All young children to slay.

That woe is me, poor child for thee!
 And ever morn and day,
 For thy parting neither say nor sing,
 By, by, lully, lallay.

1st Woman. I lull my child wondrously sweet,
 And in my arms I do it keep,
 Because that it should not cry.

2nd Woman. That Babe that is born, in Bethlehem so meek,
He save my child and me from villainy!

3rd Woman. Be still! be still! my little child!
That Lord of lords save both thee and me;
For Herod hath sworn with words wild
That all young children slain they shall be.

1st Soldier. Say ye whither, ye wives, whither are ye away?
What bear you in your arms needs must we see;
If they be men children, die they must this day,
For at Herod's will all things must be.

2nd Soldier. And I in hands once them hent,¹
Them for to slay nought will I spare;
We must fulfil Herod's commandment;
Else be we as traitors, and cast all in care.

1st Woman. Sir knights! of your courtesy
This day shame not your chivalry,
But on my child have pity,
For my sake in this stead;
For a simple slaughter it were to sloo²
Or to work such a child woe
That can neither speak nor go,
Nor never harm did.

2nd Woman. He that slays my child in sight,
If that my strokes on him may light,
Be he squire or knight,
I hold him but lost.
See thou false losyngere³
A stroke shalt thou bear me here
And spare you no cost.

3rd Woman. Sit he never so high in saddle,
But I shall make his brain addle,
And here with my pot ladle,
With him will I fight.
I shall lay on him as though I wode⁴ were,
With this same womanly gear;
There shall no man stir,
Whether that he be king or knight.

[The innocents are massacred.]

Of women, that their children have lost

³ slay.

⁴ mad.

And greatly rebuking chivalry
 Throughout this realm in every coast
 Which many a man's life is like to cost;
 For this great revenge that here is done,
 I fear much vengeance thereof will come

2nd Soldier. Eh! brother, such tales may we not tell,
 Wherefore to the king let us go,
 For he is like to bear the bell,
 Which was the cause that we did so;
 Yet must they all be brought him to
 With wains and waggons full freight,
 I trow there will be a careful sight.

[They come before Herod.]

1st Soldier. Lo! Herod, king! here must thou see
 How many thousands that we have slain.

2nd Soldier. And needs thy will fulfilled must be,
 There may no man say there again.¹

Herald. Herod, king! I shall thee tell,
 All thy deeds is come to nought.
 This child is gone into Egypt to dwell,
 Lo! Sir, in thine own land what wonders byn² wrought.

Herod. Into Egypt? Alas! for woe,
 Longer in land here I cannot abide.
 Saddle my palfry, for in haste will I go
 After yon traitors now will I ride
 Them for to sloo.³
 Now all men hie fast
 Into Egypt in haste:
 All that country will I tast⁴
 Till I may come them to.

FOUR TORTURERS

THE CRUCIFIXION

Pilate. Peace I bid every wight;
Stand as still as stone in wall,
Whiles ye are present in my sight,
That none of ye clatter nor call;
For if ye do, your death is dight.
I warn it you both great and small,
With this brand burnished so bright,
Therefore in peace look ye be all.

What? peace, in the devil's name!
Harlots and dastards all bedene¹
On gallows ye be made full tame.
Thieves and michers ken²
Will ye not peace when I bid you?
By Mahoun's blood! if ye me teyn,³
I shall ordain soon for you
Pains that never e'er was seen,
And that anon:
Be ye so bold beggars, I warn you,
Full boldly shall I beat you,
To hell the de'il shall draw you,
Body, back, and bone.

I am a lord that mickle is of might,
Prince of all Jewry, Sir Pilate I hight.
Next bring Herod, greatest of all,
Bow to my bidding, both great and small,
Or else be ye shent;⁴
Therefore keep your tongues, I warn you all
And unto us take tent.⁵

1st Torturer. All peace, all peace, among you all!
And hearken now what shall befall
To this false chuffer⁶ here.

² destroyed.

³ know.

⁴ heed.

⁵ vex.

⁶ boaster.

That with his false quantyse ¹
 Has made himself as God wise
 Among us many a year.
 He calls himself a prophet,
 And says that he can bales ² beat ³
 And make all things amend,
 But e'er long know we shall,
 Whether he can overcome his own bale,²
 Or 'scape out of our hand.

Was not this a wonder thing
 That he durst call himself a king
 And make so great a lie?
 But, by Mahoun! while I may live,
 Those proud words shall I never forgive,
 Till he be hanged on high.

2nd Torturer. His pride, fie, we set at nought,
 But each man reckon in his thought
 And look that we naught want;
 For I shall seek, if that I may,
 By the order of knighthood, to-day,
 To make his heart pant.

3rd Torturer. And so shall I, with all my might,
 Abate his pride this very night,
 And reckon him a crede.
 Lo! he lets on he could no ill,
 But he can aye, when he will,
 Do a full foul deed.

4th Torturer. Ye fellows, ye, as I, have rest,
 Among us all I rede ⁴ we cast
 To bring this thief to dede.⁵
 Look that we have what we need too
 For to hold strait this shrew.

1st Torturer. That was a noble rede;
 Lo, here I have a band,
 If need be, to bind his hand;
 This thong, I trow, will last.

2nd Torturer. And one to the other side,
 That shall abate his pride,
 If it be but drawn fast.

3rd Torturer. Lo, here a hammer and nails also

¹ wisdom.

² evil.

³ vanquish.

⁴ advise.

⁵ death.

For to fasten fast our foe
To this tree full soon.

4th Torturer. You are wise, withouten dread,
That so can help yourself at need
To thing that should be done.

1st Torturer. Now dare I say hardily,
He shall with all his mawmentry ¹
No longer us be-tell.

2nd Torturer. Since Pilate has him to us gi'en
Have done, quickly, let it be seen,
How we can with him mell.²

3rd Torturer. Now we are at the Mount of Calvary,
Have done, fellows, and let now see
How we can with him play.

4th Torturer. Yes, for as proud as he can look,
He would have turned another crook,
Had he the rack to-day.

1st Torturer. In faith, sir, since ye called you a king,
You must prove a worthy thing
That falls into the weir.
You must joust in tournament,
But sit you fast, else you'll be shent,³
Else down I shall you bear.

2nd Torturer. If thou be God's son, as thou tells,
Thou canst save thyself—how shouldst thou else?
Else were it marvel great;
And canst thou not, we will not trow
What thou has said, but make thee mow
When thou sitt'st in that seat.

3rd Torturer. If thou be king, we shall thanks adylle ⁴
For we shall set thee in thy sadylle ⁵
For falling be thou bold ⁶
I promise thee thou bidest a shaft
If thou sitt'st not well thou hadst better laft ⁷
The tales that thou hast told.

4th Torturer. Stand near, fellows, and let us see
How we can horse our king so free
By any craft;
Stand thou yonder on yon side,
And we shall see how he can ride.

¹ idolatry.

² meddle.

³ destroyed.

⁴ a-deal.

⁵ saddle.

⁶ i.e. Be not afraid to fall.

And how to wield a shaft.

1st Torturer. Sir, come ye hither, and have done,

And get upon your palfrey soon

For he is ready bowne:¹

If ye be bound to him be not wroth,

For be ye secure we were full loth

On any wise that ye fell down.

2nd Torturer. Knit thou a knot, with all thy strength

For to draw this arm at length

Till it come to the bore.

3rd Torturer. Thou art mad, man, by this light!

It wants, in each man's sight

Another half span, and more.

4th Torturer. Yet draw out this arm, and make it fast,

With this rope, that well will last,

And each man lay hand to.

1st Torturer. Yes, and bind thou fast that band,

We shall go to that other hand,

And look what we can do.

2nd Torturer. Do drive a nail there throughout,

And then there shall nothing doubt,

For it will not breste.²

3rd Torturer. That shall I do, so might I thrive,

For to hammer and to drive

Thereto I am full pressed;

So let it stick, for it is well.

4th Torturer. Thou sayest sooth,

There can no man mend.

1st Torturer. Hold down his knees.

2nd Torturer. That shall I do.

His nurse did never better do;

Lay on with each hand.

3rd Torturer. Draw out his limbs, let see, have at.

4th Torturer. That was well drawn out, that,

Fair befall him that so pulled!

For to have gotten it to the mark

I trow laymen nor clerk

Nothing better should!

1st Torturer. Hold it now fast there

One of you the bore shall bear,

And then it may not fail.

¹ prepared.

² burst.

2nd Torturer. That shall I do withouten dread,
As ever might I well speed
Him to mickle bale.

3rd Torturer. So, that is well, it will not brest,¹
But now, let see, who does the best
With any sleight of hand.

4th Torturer. Go we to the other ende
Fellows, fasten fast your hende,²
And pull well at the band.

1st Torturer. I counsel, fellows, by this weather
That we draw now all together,
And look how it will fare.

2nd Torturer. Now let see, and leave your din
And draw we ilka syn from syn.³
For nothing let us spare.

3rd Torturer. Nay, fellows, this is no play,
We no longer draw one way,
So mickle have I espied.

4th Torturer. No, for as I have bliss
Some can twig whoso it is
Seeks his ease on his own side.

1st Torturer. It is better, as I hope
Each by himself to draw this rope,
And then may we see
Who it is that erewhile
All his fellows can beguile
Of this company.

2nd Torturer. Since thou wilt so have, here's for me!
How draw I?—as might thou the!⁴

3rd Torturer. Men drew right well!
Have here for me, half a foot.

4th Torturer. Wema,⁵ man! thou came not to't.
Men drew it never a deal
But have for me here that I may!

1st Torturer. Well drawnēn, son, by this day!
Thou goes well to thy work.

2nd Torturer. Yet after, whilst thy hand is in Pull thereat with some engine.

3rd Torturer. Yea, and bring it to the mark.

4th Torturer. Pull, pull!

¹ burst.

² hands.

³ so may you thrive.

⁴ each sinew from sinew.

⁵ Good Lord!

1st Torturer. Have now!

2nd Torturer. Let see!

3rd Torturer. Aha!

4th Torturer. Yet, a draught!

1st Torturer. Thereto with all my might.

2nd Torturer. Aha, hold still there.¹

3rd Torturer. So, fellows, look now alive,

Which of you can best drive,

And I shall take the bore.

4th Torturer. Let me go to it, if I shall

I hope that I be the best marshal²

For to clink³ it right.

Do raise him up now when we may,

For I hope he and his palfrey

Shall not twine⁴ this night.

1st Torturer. Come hither, fellows, and have done,

And help that this tree soon

Be lift with all your sleight.

2nd Torturer. Yet let us work awhile,

And no man now the other beguile

Till it be brought on height.

3rd Torturer. Fellows, lay on all your hende⁵

For to raise this tree on ende

And lets see who is last.

4th Torturer. I rede we do as he says,

Set we the tree on the mortase,⁶

And there, will it stand fast.

1st Torturer. Up with the timber,

2nd Torturer. Ah, it holds!

For him, that all this world wields,

Put from thee, with thy hand.

3rd Torturer. Hold even! amongst us all.

4th Torturer. Yea, and let it into the mortise fall,

For then will it best stand.

1st Torturer. Go we to it, and be we strong,

And raise it, be it never so long,

Since that it is fast bound.

2nd Torturer. Up with the timber fast on ende.

3rd Torturer. Ah fellows, fair fall now your hende.

4th Torturer. So, sir, gape against the sun!

[To Christ.]

1st Torturer. Ah, fellow, wear thy crown!
 2nd Torturer. Trowest thou this timber will come down?
 3rd Torturer. Yet help, to make it fast.
 4th Torturer. Bind him well, and let us lift.
 1st Torturer. Full short shall be his thrift.
 2nd Torturer. Ah, it stands up like a mast.
 Jesus. I pray you, people, that pass me by,

That lead your life so lykandly¹

Raise up your heart on high;

Behold if ever ye saw body

Buffet² and beaten thus bloody,

Or dight thus doilefully;

In this world was never no wight

That suffered half so sair.

My mayn,³ my mode,⁴ my might

Is naught but sorrow to sight,

And comfort—none but care!

My folk, what have I done to thee

That thou all thus shall torment me?

Thy sin bear I full soon.

How have I grieved thee? answer me,

That thou thus nailest me to a tree,

And all for thine error.

Where shalt thou seek succour?

This fault how shalt thou amende

When that thou thy saviour

Drivest to this dishonour

And nail'st through feet and hende.⁵

All creatures whose kinds may be trest,⁶

Beasts and birds, they all have rest

When they are woe begone.

But God's own son, that should be best,

Has not whereon his head to rest,

But on his shoulder bone:

To whom now may I make my moan

When they thus martyr me?

And sackless⁷ will me alone,⁸

And beat me blood and bone,

That should my brethren be?

What kindness should I kythe⁹ them to?

 Made thee in my likeness?
 And thou thus rives my rest and ro¹
 And thinkest lightly on me, lo,
 Such is thy caitifness.

I have shown thee kindness, unkindly thou me 'quitest,²
 See thus thy wickedness, look how thou me despitest.
 Guiltless thus am I put to pine,
 Not for my sin, man, but for thine.

Thus am I rent on rood;
 For I that treasure would not tyne³
 That I marked and made for mine.

Thus buy I Adam's blood,
 That sunken was in sin,
 With none earthly good,
 But with my flesh and blood
 That loath was for to wyn.⁴
 My brother, that I came for to buy,
 Has hanged me here, thus hideously,

Friends find I few or none;
 Thus have they dight me drearily,
 And all be-spit me piteously,
 A helpless man in wone.⁵

But, Father, that sittest on throne,
 Forgive thou them this guilt.
 I pray to thee this boon—
 They know not what they doon,

Nor whom they thus have spoilt!⁶

1st Torturer. Yes, what we do full well we know.

2nd Torturer. Yes, that shall he find within a throw.

3rd Torturer. Now, with a mischance to his corse!

Wenys⁷ he that we give any force⁸

What evil so ever he ail?

4th Torturer. For he would tarry us all day,

Of his death to make delay,

I tell you sans fail.

1st Torturer. Lift we this tree amongst us all.

2nd Torturer. Yea, and let it into the mortise fall

And that shall make him brest.⁹

4th Torturer. And it will break each joint in him;

Let see now, who does best?

Mary. Alas, the dole I dree!¹ I droop, I go in dread.

Why hang'st thou, son, so high? my woe begins to breed,
All blemished is thy ble,² I see thy body bleed,

In the world, my son, we were never so woe, as now in weed.

My food⁴ that I have fed,

In life—longing thee led!

Full straight art thou bestead

Among these foemen fell:

Such sorrow for to see.

My dearest child, on thee,

Is more mourning to me

Than any tongue may tell.

Alas! thy holy head

Has not whereon to held⁵

Thy face with blood is red,

Was fair as flower in field;

How should I stand in stead!⁶

To see my bairn thus bleed,

Beaten as blo⁷ as lead.

And has no limb to wield?

Fastened both hands and feet,

With naly⁸ full unmeet,

His wounds all wringing wet.

Alas, my child, for care!

For all rent is thy hide,

I see on either side

Tears of blood down glide

Over all thy body bare.

Alas that ever I should bide, and see my feyr⁹ thus fare!

John. Alas, for dule, my lady dear!

All for changèd is thy cheer,

To see this prince without a peer,

Thus lappéd all in woe;

That high on tree thus hangs alone
 With body black and blo,¹ alas!
 To me and many mo,²
 A good master he was.

But, lady, since it is his will
 The prophecy to fulfil,
 That mankind in sin not spill,³
 For them to thole⁴ the pain;
 And with his death ransom to make,
 As prophets before of him spake.
 I counsel thee, thy grief to slake,
 Thy weeping may not gain
 In sorrow;
 Our boot⁵ he buys full bayne,⁶
 Us all from bale to borrow.

Mary. Alas, thine eyes as crystal clear,
 That shone as sun in sight,
 That lovely were in lyere⁷
 Lost they have their light,
 And wax all fa'ed⁸ in fear,
 All dim then are they dight;
 In pain thou hast no peer,
 That is withouten pight.⁹
 Sweet son, say me thy thought;
 What wonders hast thou wrought
 To be in pain thus brought
 Thy blessed blood to blend?
 Ah, son, think on my woe,
 Why will thou from me go?
 On earth is no man mo¹⁰
 That may my mirth amend.

John. Comely lady, good and couth,¹¹

Upon the third day should it be Full right;
 For thee, my lady sweet,
 Stint awhile to greet,¹
 Our bale then will be beat,²
 As he before has bight.³

Mary. My sorrow it is so sad,
 No solace may me save:
 Mourning makes me mad,
 No hope of help I have.
 I am redeless⁴ and afraid
 For fear that I should rave,
 Nought may make me glad,
 Till I be in my grave.
 To death my dear is driven,
 His robe is all to-riven,⁵
 That by me was him given
 And shapen with my sides.
 These Jews and he have striven
 That all the bale he bides.
 Alas! my lamb so mild,
 Why wilt thou from me go
 Among these wolvés wild,
 That work on thee this woe?
 For shame, who may thee shield,
 For friends now hast thou foe.
 Alas, my comely child,
 Why will thou from me go?
 Maidens, make your moan,
 And weep, ye wives, every one
 With me, most sad, in wone.⁶
 The child that born was best:
 My heart is stiff as stone
 That for no bale will brest.⁷

John. Ah, lady, well wot I,
 Thy heart is full of care,
 When thou thus openly
 Seest thy child thus fare;

Mary. "Alas!" may ever be my song,
While I may live in leyd,²
Methinks now that I live too long,
To see my bairn thus bleed.
Jews work with him all wrong,
Wherefore do they this deed?
Lo, so high have they him hung,
They let³ for no dread;

Why so?

No friend he has, but foe,
My frely food⁴ from me must go
What shall become of me?
Thou art warpyd⁵ all in woe,
And spread here on a tree

That see this pain on thee.

John. Dear lady, well for me
If that I might comfort thee,
For the sorrow that I see
Shears my heart in sunder;
When that I see my master hang
With bitter pains and strong;
Was never wight with⁸ wrong
Wrought so mickle wonder.

Mary. Alas, death, thou dwellest too long,
Why art thou hid from me?
Who bid thee to my child to gang?⁹
All black thou mak'st his ble;¹⁰

 To save them sore I sought;
 Therefore, mother make no mourning
 Since mankind, through my dying,
 May thus to bliss be brought.
 Woman, weep thou right nought,
 Take there, John, unto thy child,
 Mankind must needs be bought;
 And thou cast, cousin, in thy thought.¹
 John, lo, there, thy mother mild!
 Blue and bloody thus am I beat,
 Swongen with sweepys² and all a-sweat,
 Mankind, for thy misdeed.
 For my love's sake when wouldest thou let³
 And thy heart sadly set,
 Since I thus for thee have bled?
 Such life for sooth, I lead,
 That nothing may I more.
 This I suffer for thy need,
 To mark thee, man, thy meed!
 Now thirst I wonder sore.

1st Torturer. Nought but hold thy peace,
 Thou shalt have drink within a resse.⁴
 Myself shall be thy knave;
 Have here the draught that I thee hete,⁵
 And I shall warrant it is not sweet
 By all the good I have.

2nd Torturer. So, sir, say now all your will,
 For if ye could have holden you still
 Ye had not had this brade.⁶

3rd Torturer. Thou wouldest all gate⁷ be King of Jews,
 But by this I trow thou rues
 All that thou has said.

1st Torturer. Yes, as ever might I thrive,
 Soon will we this mantle rive,
 And each man take his part.

2nd Torturer. How, wouldst thou we share this cloth?

3rd Torturer. Nay, forsooth, that were I loth,
 For then it were all gate³ spoilt.

But assent thou to my saw,⁴

And let us all cut draw⁵

And then is none begylt.⁶

2nd Torturer. Howe'er befall, now I draw,
 This is mine by common law,
 Say not there again.

1st Torturer. Now since it may no better be,
 Chevithe thee with it for me;
 Methinks thou art full fain.

2nd Torturer. How, fellows, see ye not yon scraw?⁷
 It is written yonder within a thraw,
 Now since that we drew lot.

3rd Torturer. There is no man that is alive,
 Unless Pilate, as I might thrive
 That durst it there have put.

He is King of Jews, I ween.

1st Torturer. Ah, that is written wrong.

2nd Torturer. He calls himself so, but he is none.

3rd Torturer. Go we to Pilate and make our moan,

Have done, and dwell not long.

[They go to Pilate.]

Pilate, yonder is a false table,

Thereon is written naught but fable,

Of Jews he is not king,

He calls him so, but he not is,

It is falsely written, I wis,

This is a wrong-wise thing.

Pilate. Boys, I say, what melle ye yon? ¹

As it is written shall it be now,

I say certain

THE MYSTERY OF THE THREE MARIES

[Enter Mary Magdalene, and Mary, mother of James.]

Mary Magdalene. What shall I do, alas!
My Lord went to the tomb,
To-day is the third day;
Go now see indeed
If he comes and rises,
As he said to me truly.

Mary, Mother of James. I will go and see
The body of him who redeemed me with pain,
If it be risen again.
Great comfort he was to us;
That we should have seen his death!
Alas! alas!

[Enter Mary Salome.]

Mary Salome. The third day is to-day;
If the body of Christ be risen,
Go to see.
For the torment which he had
Is ever in my heart;
This sorrow does not leave me.

[Here she shall meet the other Maries.]

Mary Magdalene. Women, joy to ye!
And Mary, mother of James,
And Salome also.
Sorrow is in my heart, alas!
If the body of God himself is gone,
Where may it be found?

Mary, Mother of James. So it is with me,—

Much and great torment for him;
 If he will not, through his grace,
 Help me in a short time,
 My heart in me will break
 Very really through troubles.

Mary Salome. So with me is sorrow;
 May the Lord see my state
 After him.

As he is head of sovereignty,
 I believe that out of the tomb
 To-day he will rise.

Mary Magdalene. Oh! let us hasten at once,
 For the stone is raised
 From the tomb.

Lord, how will it be this night,
 If I know not where goes
 The head of royalty?

Mary, Mother of James. And too long we have stayed,
 My Lord is gone his way
 Out of the tomb, surely.
 Alas! my heart is sick;
 I know not indeed if I shall see him,
 Who is very God.

Mary Salome. I know truly, and I believe it,
 That he is risen up
 In this day.
 How will it be to us now,
 That we find not our Lord?
 Alas! woe! woe!

[They sing.]

[The Dirge.]

Alas! mourning I sing, mourning I call,
 Our Lord is dead that bought us all.

Mary Magdalene. Alas! it is through sorrows,
 My sweet Lord is dead
 Who was crucified.

[Mary Magdalene weeps at the tomb.
 He bore, without complaining,
 Much pain on his dear body,
 For the people of the world,

Mary, Mother of James. I cannot see the form
 Of him on any side;
 Alas! woe is me!
 I would like to speak with him,
 If it were his will,
 Very seriously.

Mary Salome. There is to me sharp longing
 In my heart always,
 And sorrow;
 Alas! my Lord Jesus,
 For thou art full of virtue,
 All mighty.

[The Dirge.]

*Alas! mourning I sing, mourning I call,
 Our Lord is dead that bought us all.*

Mary Magdalene. Jesus Christ, Lord of Heaven,
 O hear now our voice;
 Who believes not in thee, miserable he!
 He will not be saved.
 When I think of his Passion,
 There is not any joy in my heart;
 Alas! that I cannot at once
 Speak to thee.

Mary, Mother of James. Gone he is to another land,
 And with him many angels;
 Alas! now for grief
 I am sorrowful.
 I pray thee, Lord of grace,
 To send a messenger to us,
 That something we may be knowing
 How it is to thee.

Mary Salome. O Jesus, full of mercy,
 Do think of us;
 To thy kingdom when we come,
 Hear our voice.
 For desire I become very sick,
 I cannot stand on my standing,
 Alas! now what shall I do?
 O Lord of heaven!

[The Dirge.]

*Alas! mourning I sing, mourning I call,
Our Lord is dead, that bought us all.*

1st Angel. I know whom ye seek:

Jesus is not here,
For he is risen
To life in very earnest,
As I tell you,
Like as he is worthy.

Mary Magdalene. O angel, now tell me,

The body (none, equal to him),
To what place is it gone?
Like as his grace is great,
Joy to me, with my eyes
To see him yet.

2nd Angel. O Mary, go forthwith,

Say to his disciples
And to Peter,
Like as he promised to them
He will go to Galilee,
Very truly without doubt.

Mary, Mother of James. Now he is risen again indeed,

Jesus our Saviour,
Gone from the tomb.
Worship to him always;
He is Lord of heaven and earth,
Head of sovereignty.

Mary Salome. Hence go we to the city,

And let us say in every place
As we have seen:
That Jesus is risen,
And from the tomb forth gone,
To heaven really.

Mary Magdalene. Never to the city shall I go,

If I do find not my Lord,
Who was on the cross tree.
O Jesus, King of grace,
Joy to me once to see thee,
Amen, amen.

Mary, Mother of James. Mary, be with thee

All the blessings of women,
 And the blessing of Jesus Son of grace;
 Of full heart I pray him,
 Joy and grace always good to do
 To us now, from God the Father.

Mary Magdalene. My blessing on ye also,
 From Christ, as he is gone to the tomb,
 Joy to ye to do well to-day.
 Lord, give me the grace
 Once to see thy face,
 If it be thy will with thee.

Mary Salome. Amen, amen, let us seek Christ, who redeemed us in pain,
 With his flesh and with his blood;
 Much pain he suffered,
 For love of the people of the world,
 As he is the King of power.

[Here Mary, the mother of James, and Salome retire from the tomb, and sit down a little way from it.]

Mary Magdalene. He who made heaven, · as he is gone to the tomb,
 After him · great is my desire.
 Christ, hear my voice, · I pray also
 That thou be with me · at my end.

Lord Jesus, · give me the grace,
 As I may be worthy · to find a meeting,
 With thee to-day, · in some sure place,
 That I may have a view · and sight of thy face.

As thou art Creator · of heaven and earth,
 And a Redeemer · to us always,
 Christ my Saviour, · hear, if it regards thee
 Disclose to me, · what I so much desire.

Through great longing · I am quite weary,
 And my body also, · bones and back.
 Where is there to-night · any man who knows
 Where I may yet find · Christ full of sorrow.

[She goes to the garden.]

[Enter the Gardener.]

Gardener (Jesus). O woeful woman, · where goest thou?
 For grief thou prayest, · cry out thou dost.
 Weep not nor shriek, · he whom thou seekest
 Thou didst dry his feet · with thy two plaits.

Mary Magdalene. Good lord, · if thou hast chanced to see

Christ my Saviour, · where is he truly?
 To see him · I give thee my land;
 Jesus, Son of grace, · hear my desire.

Gardener. O Mary, · as I know thee to be Within this world, · one of his blood,
 If thou shouldst see him · before thee,
 Couldst thou · know him?

Mary Magdalene. Well I do, · know the form
 Of the son of Mary, · named Jesus;
 Since I see him not · in any place,
 I feel sorrow; · else I would not sing "alas!"

[And then Jesus shall shew his side to Mary Magdalene, and say:]

Gardener. Mary, see · my five wounds,
 Believe me truly · to be risen;
 To thee I give thanks · for thy desire,
 Joy in the land · there shall be truly.

Mary Magdalene. O dear Lord, · who wast on the cross tree,

To me it becomes not · to kiss thy head.
 I would pray thee · let me dare
 Now to kiss · once thy feet.

[Woman, touch me not!]

Gardener. O woeful woman, · touch me not near,
 No, it will not serve, · nor be for gain;
 The time is not come;
 Until I go · to heaven to my Father,
 And I will return · again to my country,-
 To speak with thee.

Mary Magdalene. Christ, hear my voice, · say the hour
 That thou comest from heaven · again to earth
 To speak with us.
 Thy disciples · are very sad,
 And the Jews · with violence always
 Are round about them.

Gardener. O Mary, tell them,
Truly I go to Galilee,
As I said;
And besides that, bear in memory to speak
Good comfort to Peter by me;
Much he is loved.

THE RESURRECTION OF OUR LORD
JESUS CHRIST TO THE APOSTLES

THE MYSTERY OF MARY MAGDALENE AND THE APOSTLES

[Now Mary comes to the apostles, and says to them in Galilee:

Mary Magdalene. Now, O apostles,
I will tell you news:

Jesus is risen from the tomb;

I saw him lately,

I spoke to him also,

I looked on his wounds,

Pitiful it was to see them;

To the world they bring healing.

Thomas. Silence, woman, with thy tales,

And speak truth, as I pray thee;

Christ who was cruelly slain,

To be alive I will not believe;

Waste no more words,

For lies I do not love;

Our Lord is dead;

Alas! I tell the truth.

Mary Magdalene. I speak true, Thomas,

And I, though poor, will prove it.

Lately I saw him,—

The Lord (none equal to him),

And by me he sent,

I swear to ye, as ye may know,

Like as he promised;

He named to me none but Peter.

Thomas. Silence, and speak not, woman!

I pray thee, mockery with us

Now do not make;

Stout though Castle Maudlen be,
 If thou mock, I will break thy head
 About thee from above.

Mary Magdalene. I will not be silent from fear;
 I will prove it true what I say
 Before we separate.

Like as he is King of heaven,
 He is with God the Father,
 On his right side.

Peter. Ah! Jesus Christ, happy am I
 To hear that he is risen
 Out of the tomb;
 For I know very well
 That he is son to Mary,
 And God likewise.

Thomas. Peter, peace, and leave thy mockery,
 For idle it is to say
 That he is risen.
 Never can, for the world,
 Any man be raised
 After dying.

James the Greater. Thomas, very well it may be;
 The Son of God will rise
 When he will;
 For Jesus, Son of Mary,
 He made heaven, and this world,
 And every thing that was not.

Thomas. O James, it is no use for thee;
 A man who is dead certainly
 Does not live again.
 Foolish idleness, not to leave it,
 But to go to assert
 A thing of no benefit.

John. O Thomas, thou art a fool;
 That is the belief of all:
 Jesus Christ after dying,
 To be put into the ground;
 After that to rise again

At the end of three days, and to stand up.

Thomas. O John, be not absurd,
 For my wonder,—it is great,
 That thou shouldst speak folly.

Christ through sufferings was Indeed put to death on the cross tree;
My curse on him that did it!

Bartholomew. Thomas, believe me, though I am gray;
Man could not have power
To put him to death.
For us he would die,
And go into the tomb, and rise,
To carry all Christians to heaven.

Thomas. O Bartte, thou art mad
And fond beyond all men
Who are fools.
God, without dying, might have Caused all men to be saved,
Over all the world.

Matthew. That is true, he could Destroy every thing again,
That it be no more.
But nevertheless for us,
Christ wished to go into the ground,
And to live again.

Thomas. And thou art a fool, Matthew;
If thou art wise thou wilt be silent,
And withdraw.
He lives not, through all thy words,
When I saw him, he was dead
On the cross tree.

Philip. Alas! to be so foolish!
Crooked, wilt thou not believe
The Head of sovereignty;
And he saying to us
That after dying he would rise
Out of the tomb?

Thomas. Sit silent, wilt thou, Philip,
For in faith thou swearest wrongly
About him.
Christ's limbs were bruised,
And on his body a thousand wounds;
Alas! he is not risen.

James the Greater. O do not say so,
That Jesus the best Lord
Cannot rise,

For very truly he is risen;
 To be his servant thou art not worthy,
 It appears well.

Thomas. O thou James, if he were alive
 His servant I would be Very joyfully.

But he is not alive, leave off thy noise;
 The thorn even into his brain,
 Went to his head.

Simon. Though the thorn went into his head,
 And through his heart and side
 The spear was seen,
 Nevertheless need is to believe
 Jesus Christ will rise again,
 As he is true God.

Thomas. O Simon, do not speak a word;
 Never, never, unhappily,
 He has not risen again.
 But if it were so,
 Together we should all be Exceedingly at ease.

Judah. Sir Thomas, it is so,
 He has risen again to-day
 Out of the tomb.
 For if he should not rise again,
 Never with us would there be
 Joy without end.

Thomas. O Judah, Judah, leave thy belief;
 His heart torn in pieces
 I saw.
 Notwithstanding what any man may say,
 That same body will remain;
 It has not risen.

Andrew. Peace, Thomas, and say not a word;
 Very truly our dear Lord
 Is risen again.
 Surely too much thou hast disbelieved,
 For Mary has spoken
 With him to-day.

Thomas. Thou art a fool, Andrew;
 The girl has told a lie,
 Do not think otherwise.

That he ever rose again
I will not believe it.

As long as I am alive.

Mary Magdalene. I have not said an untrue word;

For to me all his wounds
He shewed.

And to that I will Bear witness at all times,
That the tale is true.

[Here let Thomas and Mary Magdalene go down.]

Thomas. Notwithstanding vain words,

I do not believe thee; thou failest
To make me believe.

Though thou dost chatter so much,
Any thing from thee regards me not,
Though thou be busy.

Mary Magdalene. I tell thee the truth;

The angel said to us,
Surely at the tomb,
That he was risen up,
And was gone to the bright heaven,
With many angels.

Thomas. Peace, chattering woman, say no more;

I will not believe thee,
That is gone to heaven.
The body, which I saw dead,—
Great are my anxieties
After it.

Mary Magdalene. Surely Mary, mother of James,
And Mary Salome,
Will witness to me;
Like as I saw,
So I tell the tale to thee;
Do believe it.

Thomas. Never can it go into my heart,

That the body dead before us
Should rise again;
When I think on his passion,
Grief takes me immediately
For him, woe is me!

Mary Magdalene. There is to me wonder of thee,
That thy heart is so hard,

Thou believest it not.
 If thou doest not believe it,
 Never shalt thou come to the joy
 Surely which is in heaven.

Thomas. Silence thou, now, for shame;
 With Jesus thou hast no secrets:
 Surely not! I believe
 Thou art a sinner, without a mistake;
 The greatest that was in the country
 By every body thou wast called.

Mary Magdalene. I have been a sinner;
 I have sinned wondrous much;
 On Jesus I cried,
 That he would forgive me my trespass;
 And he said to me,
 Thy sin is forgiven to thee,
 Through thy faith thou art saved:
 Now no more, do not sin.
 Thomas, thou art very stupid,
 Because thou wilt not believe
 The Lord to have risen
 Easter-day morning.
 Who believes not shall not be saved,
 Nor with God shall he dwell,
 And for that, I pray thee,
 Believe in time.

Thomas. Hold thy prate, nor be busy,
 For I will not believe thee;
 The body was seen by me
 Fastened on the cross with nails;
 With a sharp spear they pierced him,
 So that it passed through the heart;
 To the earth the blood fell,
 And made him soon dead.
 That body cannot live,
 Nor rise up again,
 Surely, thou woman.
 There is not any man of this world
 Who shall make me now
 Believe otherwise.

Mary Magdalene. Thomas, thou art mad,
And in madness lost;
Evil it is with me now.
I advise thee believe,
And if thou dost not, seriously,
Thou shalt have sharp repentance.

Thomas. With you since there is no peace,
From you I will go
My ways in the country.
Are ye not now fools?
So God help me,
I love not lies.

[Then Jesus comes to the apostles, and says (in Galilee, the doors being closed, he kisses them):

Jesus. The peace of God, O apostles!
I, Christ, to rise from the tomb,
Believe well;
For certainly as many as believe it,
And are faithfully baptized,
Shall be saved.

Peter. O dear Lord, happy is my lot
To see thee risen again,
Jesus, though I denied thee.
Abundant mercy, I pray,
As the Jews are always
Here laying snares for us.
Jesus, Lord of heaven and earth,
And Saviour to us also,
Pardon me my trespass,
For great are my sorrows.
For sharp repentance falls on me
For denying thee: now
Mercy I pray at all times,
Certainly, with full heart.

Jesus. Peter, pardon thou shalt get,
For thy repentance is perfect,
Through the Holy Ghost.
Like as I redeemed thee dearly,
Strengthen also thy brethren
In full belief.

John. O Lord, I am glad

That thou wouldst come with us
Hither, for our joy;
That I will say likewise,
We are, through great longing,
After thee pining.

Jesus. From you I go to my country;
At the right side of God the Father,
I shall sit.
To strengthen you in belief,
To you the comfort of the Holy Ghost
I shall send.

James the Greater. Lord, it is wonderful;
When thou comest, Jesus powerful,
To look at us,
And to speak peace to us,
Though they were fast, thou didst open
Our doors.

[Here Jesus goes away from the apostles.
He is the Lord of power,
And he has purchased with his blood
The people of the world;
That Jesus Christ is risen again,—
A day is coming that shall tell
All them that do believe it not!]

My body shalle abyde in grave
Tille alle this dede be done.

Adam. My brether, herkyn unto me here,
More hope of helth never we had,
Four thousand and six hundred yere
Have we bene in darknes stad;¹

Now se I tokyns of solace sere,²
A gloryous gleme to make us glad,
Wherthrusthre I hope that help is nere,
That sone shalle slake³ oure sorrowes sad.

Eve. Adam, my husband heynd,⁴
This menys solace certan,
Siche lighte can on us leynd⁵
In paradyse fulle playn.

Isaias. Adam, thrugh thi syn
Here were we put to dwelle,
This wykyd place within,
The name of it is helle;

Here paynes shalle never blyn⁶
That wykyd ar and felle,
Love, that lord, withe wyn
His lyfe for us wold selle.

[Et cantent omnes "Salvator mundi," primum versum.]
Adam, thou welle understand,
I am Isaias, so Crist me kende,⁸
I speake of folk in darknes walkand,⁹
I saide a light shuld on them lende;⁵

This light is alle from Crist commande,
That he tille us has hethir sende,
Thus is my poynt proved in hand,
As I before to fold¹⁰ it kende.

² sure.

³ slake thirst, lessen (or as in "slack a fire").

⁴ gentle, gracious.

⁵ linger.

⁶ cease, leave.

⁷ And all sing, Salvator Mundi, 1st ver.

Simeon. So may I telle of farlys feytle,¹

For in the tempylle his freyndes me fande,
Me thought dayntethe² with hym to deytle,
I halsyd³ hym homely with my hand,

I saide, Lord, let thi servandes leytle⁴
Pas in peasse to lyf lastande,⁵
Now that myn eeyn has sene thyn hele⁶
No longer lyst⁷ I lyf in lande.

This light thou has purvayde
For theym that lyf in lede,⁸
That I before of the have saide
I se it is fulfillyd in dede.

Johannes Baptista. As a voice cryand I kend⁹
The wayes of Crist, as I welle can,
I baptisid hym with bothe myn hende
In the water of flume¹⁰ Jordan;

The Holy Gost from heven discende
As a white dowfe downe on me than,
The Fader voyce, oure myrthes to amende,
Was made to me lyke as a man;¹¹

“ Yond is my son,” he saide,
“ And whiche pleasses me fulle welle,”
His light is on us layde,
And commys oure karys to kele.¹²

Moyses. Now this same nyght lernyng have I,
To me, Moyses, he shewid his myght,
And also to another one, Hely,¹³
Where we stud on a hille on hyght,

As whyte as snaw was his body,
His face was like the son for bright,
No man on mold¹⁴ was so mighty
Grathiy¹⁵ durst loke agans¹⁶ that light,

Rybald. Whi, herys ⁵ thou not this ugly noyse?
 Thise lurdans ⁶ that in lymbo dwelle,
 They make menyng ⁸ of many joyse,
 And muster myrthes theym emelle.⁹

Belzabub. Myrth? nay, nay! that poynt is past,
 More hope of helthe shalle they never have.

Rybald. They cry on Crist fulle fast,
 And says he shalle thaym save.

Belzabub. Yee, though he do not, I shalle,
 For thay ar sparyd ¹⁰ in specyalle space,
 Whils I am prynce and pryncypalle,
 Thay shalle never pas out of this place;

Calle up Astarot ¹¹ and Anaballe,
 To gyf us counselle in this case;
 Belle, Berith and Bellyalle ¹²
 To mar theym that siche mastry mase;¹³

GOD'S PROMISES

A Tragedy or interlude manifesting the chief promises of God unto man by all ages in the old law, from the Fall of Adam to the Incarnation of the Lord Jesus Christ. Compiled by John Bale, (Anno Domini MDXXXVIII.).

Baleus Prolocutor. If profit may grow, most Christian audience,

By knowledge of things which are but transitory,
And here for a time, of much more congruence,
Advantage might spring, by the search of causes heavenly,

As those matters are that the gospel specify.

Without whose knowledge no man to the truth can fall,
Nor ever attain to the life perpetual,

For he that knoweth not the living God eternal
The Father, the Son and also the Holy Ghost,
And what Christ suffered for redemption of us all,
What he commanded, and taught in every coast,
And what he forbode, that man must needs be lost,
And clean secluded, from the faithful chosen sort,
In the Heavens above, to his most high discomfort.

You therefore, good friends, I lovingly exhort,
To weigh such matters as will be uttered here,
Of whom ye may look to have no trifling sport
In fantasies feigned, nor such-like gaudy gear,
But the things that shall your inward stomach cheer.
To rejoice in God for your justification,
And alone in Christ to hope for your salvation.

Yea first ye shall have the eternal generation
Of Christ, like as John in his first chapter write,
And consequently of man the first creation
The abuse and fall, through his first oversight,
And the rise-again through God's high grace and might;
By promises first which shall be declared all:
Then by his own Son, the worker principal.

After that, Adam bewaileth here his fall;
 God will shew mercy to every generation,
 And to his kingdom of his great goodness call
 His elected spouse, or faithful congregation,
 As shall appear by open protestation,
 Which from Christ's birth shall to his death conclude:
 They come, that thereof will shew the certitude.

ACT I

ADAM THE FIRST MAN

Pater Cœlestis. In the beginning before the heavens were create,

In me and of me was my Son sempiternal
 With the Holy Ghost, in one degree or estate
 Of the high Godhead, to me the Father coequal
 And this my Son was with me one God essential
 Without separation at any time from me.
 True God he is of equal dignity.
 Since the beginning my Son hath ever been Joined with his father in one essential being.
 All things were create by him in each degree,
 In heaven and earth and have their diverse working:
 Without his power, was never made any thing
 That was wrought; but through his ordinance
 Each have his strength, and whole continuance.

In him is the life and the just recoverance
 For Adam and his, which nought but death deserved.
 And this life to men is an high perseverance
 Or a light of faith, whereby they shall be saved.
 And this light shall shine among the people darkened
 With unfaithfulness. Yet shall they not with him take
 But of wilful heart his liberal grace forsake.
 Which will compel me against man for to make
 In my displeasure, and send plagues of correction
 Most grievous and sharp, his wanton lusts to slake,
 By water and fire, by sickness and infection
 Of pestilent sores, molesting his complexion;
 By troublous war, by dearth and painful scarceness,
 And after this life by an extreme heaviness.
 I will first begin with Adam for his lewdness

Which for an apple neglected my commandment.
 He shall continue in labour for his rashness,
 His only sweat shall provide his food and raiment:
 Yea, yet must he have a greater punishment,
 Most terrible death shall bring him to his end
 To teach him how he his Lord God shall offend.

[Here Adam falls headlong upon the earth and after rolling over four times, at last gets up.]

Adam. Merciful Father, thy pitiful grace extend
 To me, careful wretch, which have me sore abused
 Thy precept breaking, O Lord, I mean to amend,
 If now thy great goodness would have me excused,
 Most heavenly Maker, let me not be refused,
 Nor cast from thy sight for one poor sinful crime;
 Alas! I am frail, my whole kind is but slime.

Pater Cœlestis. I wot it is so, yet art thou no less faulty
 Than thou hadst been made of matter much more worthy.

I gave thee reason and wit to understand
 The good from the evil, and not to take on hand
 Of a brainless mind, the thing which I forbade thee.

Adam. Such heavy fortune hath chiefly chanced me
 For that I was left to mine own liberty.

Pater Cœlestis. Then thou are blameless, and the fault thou layest to me?

Adam. Nay, all I ascribe to my own imbecility.
 No fault in thee Lord but in my infirmity,
 And want of respect in such gifts as thou gavest me.

Pater Cœlestis. For that I put thee at thine own liberty,
 Thou oughtest my goodness to have in more regard.

Adam. Avoid it I cannot, thou layest it to me so hard.
 Lord, now I perceive what power is in man,
 And strength of himself, when thy sweet grace is absent,
 He must needs but fall, do he the best he can,
 And endanger himself, as appeareth evident;
 For I sinned not so long as thou wert present;
 But when thou wert gone, I fell to sin by and by,
 And thee displeased. Good Lord, I ask thee mercy.

Pater Cœlestis. Thou shalt die for it and all thy posterity.

Adam. For one fault, good Lord, avenge not thyself on me,
 Who am but a worm, or a fleshly vanity.

Pater Cœlestis. I say thou shalt die with thy whole posterity.

Adam. Yet mercy, sweet Lord, if any mercy may be.

Pater Cœlestis. I am immutable, I may change no decree.

Thou shalt die, I say, without any remedy.

Adam. Yet gracious Father, extend to me thy mercy,

And throw not away the work which thou hast create

To thine own image, but avert from me thy hate.

Pater Cœlestis. But art thou sorry from bottom of thy heart?

Adam. Thy displeasure is to me most heavy smart.

Pater Cœlestis. Then will I tell thee what thou shalt stick unto,

Life to recover, and my good favour also.

Adam. Tell it me, sweet Lord, that I may thereafter go.

Pater Cœlestis. This is my covenant to thee and all thy offspring.

For that thou hast been deceived by the serpent,
I will put hatred betwixt him for his doing

And the woman kind. They shall hereafter dissent;
His seed with her seed shall never have agreement;
Her seed shall press down his head unto the ground,
Slay his suggestions, and his whole power confound.

Cleave to this promise with all thy inward power,
Firmly enclose it in thy remembrance fast,
Fold it in thy faith with full hope, day and hour,
And thy salvation it will be at the last.

That seed shall clear thee of all thy wickedness past,
And procure thy peace, with most high grace in my sight,

See thou trust to it and hold not the matter light.

Adam. Sweet lord, the promise that thyself here hath made me,

Of thy mere goodness and not of my deserving,
In my faith I trust shall so established be,
By help of thy grace, that it shall be remaining
So long as I shall have here continuing;
And shew it I will to my posterity
That they in like case have thereby felicity.

Pater Cœlestis. For a closing up, take yet one sentence with thee.

Adam. At thy pleasure, Lord, all things might ever be.

Pater Cœlestis. For that my promise may have the deeper effect

In the faith of thee and all thy generation,

Take this sign with it, as a seal thereto connect,
 Creep shall the serpent, for his abomination,
 The woman shall sorrow in painful propagation.
 Like as thou shalt find this true in outward working,
 So think the other, though it be a hidden thing.

Adam. Incessant praising to thee most heavenly lord
 For this thy succour, and undeserved kindness,
 Thou bindest me in heart thy gracious gifts to record,
 And to bear in mind, now after my heaviness,
 The bruit of thy name, with inward joy and gladness.
 Thou disdainest not, as well appeareth this day,
 To fetch to thy fold thy first sheep going astray.

Most mighty Maker, thou castest not yet away
 Thy sinful servant, which hath done most offence.
 It is not thy mind for ever I should decay,
 But thou reservest me, of thy benevolence,
 And hast provided for me a recompence,
 By thy appointment, like as I have received
 In thy strong promise here openly pronounced.

This goodness, dear Lord, is of me undeserved,
 I so declining from thy first institution,
 At so light motions. To one that thus hath swerved,
 What a lord art thou, to give such retribution!
 I, damnable wretch, deserved execution
 Of terrible death, without all remedy,
 And to be put out of all good memory.
 I am enforced to rejoice here inwardly,
 An imp though I be of hell, death and damnation,
 Through my own working: for I consider thy mercy
 And pitiful mind for my whole generation.
 It is thou, sweet Lord, that workest my salvation,
 And my recovery. Therefore of a congruence
 From hence thou must have my heart and obedience.
 Though I be mortal, by reason of my offence,
 And shall die the death like as God hath appointed:
 Of this I am sure, through his high influence,
 At a certain day again to be revived,
 From ground of my heart this shall not be removed,
 I have it in faith and therefore I will sing
 This anthem to him that my salvation shall bring.

[Then with sonorous voice, on his bent knees, he begins an antiphon, "O Sapientia," which the chorus follows with instruments, as it removes from the stage. Or else in the same it may thus be sung in English :

O Eternal Sapience, that proceedest from the mouth of the highest, reaching forth with a great power from the beginning to the end, with heavenly sweetness disposing all creatures, come now and instruct us the true way of thy godly prudence.

ACT II

NOAH THE JUST

Pater Cœlestis. I have been moved to strike man diversely,
Since I left Adam in this same earthly mansion;
For why? He hath done to me displeasures many,
And will not amend his life in any condition:
No respect hath he to my word nor monition,
But what doth him lust, without discreet advisement,
And will in nowise take mine advertisement.

Cain hath slain Abel, his brother, an innocent,
Whose blood from the earth doth call to me for vengeance:

My children with men's so carnally consent,
That their vain working is unto me much grievance;
Mankind is but flesh in his whole dalliance.
All vice increaseth in him continually,
Nothing he regardeth to walk unto my glory.

My heart abhorreth his wilful misery,
His cancred malice, his cursed covetousness,
His lusts lecherous, his vengeable tyranny,
Unmerciful murder and other ungodliness.
I will destroy him for his outrageousness,
And not him only, but all that on earth do stir,
For it repenteth me that ever I made them here.

Noah. Most gentle Maker, with his frailness somewhat bear,
Man is thy creature, thyself cannot say nay.
Though thou punish him to put him somewhat in fear,
His fault to acknowledge, yet seek not his decay.
Thou mayest reclaim him, though he goeth now astray
And bring him again, of thy abundant grace,
To the fold of faith, he acknowledging his trespass.

Pater Cœlestis. Thou knowest I have given to him convenient space,

With lawful warnings, yet he amendeth in no place.
The natural laws, which I wrote in his heart,
He hath outraced, all goodness putting apart:
Of health the covenant, which I to Adam made,
He regardeth not, but walketh a damnable trade.

Noah. All this is true, Lord, I cannot thy words reprove,
Let his weakness yet thy merciful goodness move.

Pater Cœlestis. No weakness is it, but wilful working all,
That reigneth in man through mind diabolical.
He shall have therefore like as he hath deserved.

Noah. Lose him not yet, Lord, though he has deeply swerved.

I know thy mercy is far above his rudeness,
Being infinite, as all other things are in thee.
His folly therefore now pardon of thy goodness,
And measure it not beyond thy godly pity.
Esteem not his fault farther than help may be,
But grant him thy grace, as he offendeth so deeply,
Thee to remember, and abhor his misery.
Of all goodness, Lord, remember thy great mercy,
To Adam and Eve, breaking thy first commandment.
Them thou relievedst with thy sweet promise heavenly,
Sinful though they were, and their lives negligent.
I know that mercy with thee is permanent,
And will be ever so long as the world endure:
Then close not thy hand from man, which is thy creature.

Being thy subject he is underneath thy cure,
Correct him thou mayest and so bring him to grace.
All lieth in thy hands, to leave or to allure,
Bitter death to give, or grant most sovereign solace.
Utterly from man avert not then thy face;
But let him savour thy sweet benevolence
Somewhat, though he feel thy hand for his offence.

Pater Cœlestis. My true servant Noah, thy righteousness doth move me

Somewhat to reserve for man's posterity.
Though I drown the world, yet will I save the lives
Of thee and thy wife, thy three sons and their wives,
And of each kind two, to maintain you hereafter.

Noah. Blessed be thy name, most mighty merciful Maker,
With thee to dispute, it were inconvenient.

Pater Cœlestis. Why dost thou say so? Be bold to speak thy intent.

Noah. Shall the other die without any remedy?

Pater Cœlestis. I will drown them all, for their wilful wicked folly

That man hereafter thereby may know my power,
And fear to offend my goodness day and hour.

Noah. As thy pleasure is, so might it always be,
For my health thou art and soul's felicity.

Pater Cœlestis. After that this flood have had his raging passage

This shall be to thee my covenant everlasting.
The seas and waters so far never more shall rage,
As all flesh to drown, I will so temper their working;
This sign will I add also, to confirm the thing,
In the clouds above, as a seal or token clear,
For safeguard of man, my rainbow shall appear.

Take thou this covenant for an earnest confirmation
Of my former promise to Adam's generation.

Noah. I will, blessed Lord, with my whole heart and mind.

Pater Cœlestis. Farewell then, just Noah, here leave I thee behind,

Noah. Most mighty Maker, ere I from hence depart,
I must give thee praise from the bottom of my heart.
Whom may we thank, Lord, for our health and salvation?
But thy great mercy and goodness undeserved?
Thy promise, in faith, is our justification,
As it was Adam's when his heart therein rested,
And as it was theirs which therein also trusted.
This faith was grounded in Adam's memory,
And clearly declared in Abel's innocency.

Faith in that promise old Adam did justify,
In that promise faith made Eve to prophecy.
Faith in that promise proved Abel innocent,
In that promise faith made Seth full obedient.
That faith taught Enoch on God's name first to call,
And made Methuselah the oldest man of all.

That faith brought Enoch to so high exercise,
That God took him up with him into Paradise.
Of that faith the want made Cain to hate the good,
And all his offspring to perish in the flood.
Faith in that promise preserved both me and mine:

So will it all them which follow the same line.

Not only this gift thou hast given me, sweet Lord,
But with it also thine everlasting covenant
Of trust forever, thy rainbow bearing record,
Never more to drown the world by flood inconstant;
Alack! I cannot to thee give praise condign,
Yet will I sing here with heart meek and benign.

[Then in a great voice he begins an antiphon, "O Oriens Splendor," falling upon his knees while the chorus follows with instruments, as before.

O most orient clearness, and light shining of the sempiternal brightness! O clear sun of justice and heavenly righteousness, come hither and illuminate the prisoner sitting in the dark prison and shadow of Eternal Death.

ACT III

OF FAITHFUL ABRAHAM

Pater Cœlestis. Mine high displeasure must needs return to man,

Considering the sin that he doth day by day;
For neither kindness nor extreme handling can
Make him to know me by any faithful way,
But still in mischief he walketh to his decay.
If he do not soon his wickedness consider,
He is like, doubtless, to perish altogether.

In my sight, he is more venom¹ than the spider,
Through such abuses as he hath exercised,
From the time of Noah to this same season hither.
An uncomely act without shame Ham commysed.²
When he of his father the secret parts revealed.
In like case Nimrod against me wrought abusion
As he raised up the castle of confusion.

Mirus hath also, and all by the devil's illusion
Through image-making, up raised idolatry,
Me to dishonour. And now in the conclusion
The vile Sodomites live so unnaturally
That their sin vengeance asketh continually,
For my covenant's sake, I will not drown with water,
Yet shall I visit their sins with other matter.

¹ venomous.

² committed.

Abraham. Yet, merciful Lord, thy graciousness remember
 To Adam and Noah, both in thy word and promise:
 And lose not the souls of men in so great number
 But save thine own work, of thy most discreet goodness.
 I wot thy mercies are plentiful and earnest,
 Never can they die nor fail, thyself enduring,
 This hath faith fixed fast in my understanding.

Pater Cœlestis. Abraham my servant, for thy most faithful meaning,

Both thou and thy stock shall have my plenteous blessing.

When the unfaithful, under my curse evermore,
 For their vain working, shall rue their wickedness sore.

Abraham. Tell me, blessed Lord, where will thy great malice light?

My hope is, all flesh shall not perish in thy sight.

Pater Cœlestis. No truly, Abraham, thou chancest upon the right,

The thing I shall do I will not hide from thee,
 Whom I have blessed for thy true fidelity:
 For I know thou wilt cause both thy children and servants,

In my ways to walk, and trust unto my covenants,
 That I may perform with thee my earnest promise.

Abraham. All that I will do, by assistance of thy goodness.

Pater Cœlestis. From Sodom and Gomor the abominations call

For my great vengeance, which will upon them fall
 Wild fire and brimstone shall light upon them all.

Abraham. Pitiful Maker, though they have kindled thy fury,
 Cast not away yet the just sort with the ungodly.
 Peradventure there may be fifty righteous persons
 Within those cities, wilt thou lose them all at once,
 And not spare the place for those fifty righteous' sake?
 Be it far from thee such rigour to undertake.

I hope there is not in thee so cruel hardness,
 As to cast away the just men with the reckless,
 And so to destroy the good with the ungodly:
 In the judge of all: be never such a fury.

Pater Cœlestis. At Sodom, if I may find just persons fifty,
 The place will I spare for their sakes verily.

Abraham. I take upon me to speak here in thy presence,

More than becomes me, lord, pardon my negligence:
I am but ashes and were loth thee to offend.

Pater Cœlestis. Say forth, good Abraham, for ill dost thou not intend.

Abraham. Haply there may be five less in the same number,
For thy sake I hope thou wilt not the rest accombre.¹

Pater Cœlestis. If I among them might find but five and forty Them would I not lose for that just company.

Abraham. What if the city may forty righteous make?

Pater Cœlestis. Then will I pardon it for those same forty's sake.

Abraham. Be not angry, Lord, though I speak undiscreetly.

Pater Cœlestis. Utter thy whole mind and spare me not hardly.

Abraham. Peradventure there may be thirty found among them.

Pater Cœlestis. May I find thirty, I will nothing do unto them.

Abraham. I take upon me too much, Lord, in thy sight.

Pater Cœlestis. No, no, good Abraham, for I know thy faith is right

Abraham. No less, I suppose, than twenty can it have.

Pater Cœlestis. Could I find twenty, that city would I save.

Abraham. Once yet will I speak my mind, and then no more.

Pater Cœlestis. Spare not to utter so much as thou hast in store.

Abraham. And what if there might be ten good creatures found?

Pater Cœlestis. The rest for their sakes might so be safe and sound,

And not destroyed for their abomination.

Abraham. O merciful Maker, much is thy toleration

And sufferance of sin: I see it now indeed;

Vouchsafe yet of favour out of those cities to lead

Those that be faithful, though their flock be but small.

Pater Cœlestis. Lot and his household, I will deliver all,

For righteousness sake, which is of me and not them.

Abraham. Great are thy graces in the generation of Shem.

Pater Cœlestis. Well, Abraham, well, for thy true faithfulness

Now will I give thee my covenant or third promise.

Look thou believe it as thou covetest righteousness.

Abraham. Lord, so regard me as I receive it with gladness.

¹ overwhelm

Pater Cœlestis. Of many peoples the father I will make thee,
 All generations in thy seed shall be blessed:
 As the stars of heaven, so shall thy kindred be;
 And by the same seed the world shall be redressed
 In circumcision shall this thing be expressed,
 As in a sure seal, to prove my promise true,
 Print this in thy faith, and it shall thy soul renew.

Abraham. I will not one jot, Lord, from thy will dissent
 But to thy pleasure be always obedient,

Thy laws to fulfil, and most precious commandment.

Pater Cœlestis. Farewell, Abraham, for here in place I leave thee.

Abraham. Thanks will I render, like as it shall behove me.

Everlasting praise to thy most glorious name,
 Which savedst Adam through faith in thy sweet promise
 Of the woman's seed, and now confirmest the same
 In the seed of me. Forsooth great is thy goodness.
 I cannot perceive but that thy mercy is endless.
 To such as fear thee, in every generation,
 For it endureth without abbreviation.

This have I printed in deep consideration,
 No worldly matter can rase it out of mind.
 For once it will be the final restoration
 Of Adam and Eve, and other that hath sinned;
 Yea, the sure health and race of mankind.
 Help have the faithful thereof, though they be infect;
 They, condemnation, where as it is reject.

Merciful Maker, my crabbed voice direct,
 That it may break out in some sweet praise to thee;
 And suffer me not thy due lauds to neglect,
 But let me show forth thy commendations free.
 Stop not my windpipes, but give them liberty,
 To sound to thy name, which is most gracious,
 And in it rejoice with heart melodious.

[Then in a loud voice he begins the antiphon, "O rex gentium," the chorus following the same with instruments.

O most mighty Governor of thy people, and in heart
 most desired, the hard rock and the true corner-stone, that of two maketh one, uniting the Jews with the Gentiles in one church, come now and relieve mankind, whom thou hast formed of the vile earth.

ACT IV

MOSES SANCTUS

Pater Cœlestis. Still so increaseth the wickedness of man,
 That I am moved with plagues him to confound.
 His weakness to aid, I do the best I can,
 Yet he regardeth me no more than doth a hound,
 My word and promise in his faith taketh no ground;
 He will so long walk in his own lusts at large,
 That naught he shall find his folly to discharge.

Since Abraham's time, which was my true elect,
 Ishmael have I found both wicked, fierce and cruel:
 And Esau in mind with hateful murder infect.
 The sons of Jacob to lusts unnatural fell,
 And into Egypt did they their brother sell.
 Laban to idols gave faithful reverence,
 Dinah was corrupt through Shechem's violence.

Reuben abused his father's concubine,
 Judah got children of his own daughter-in-law:
 Yea, she in my sight went after a wicked line.
 His seed Onan spilt, his brother's name to withdraw.
 Achan lived here without all godly awe.
 And now the children of Israel abuse my power
 In so vile manner that they move me every hour.

Moses. Pacify thy wrath, sweet Lord, I thee desire,
 As thou art gentle, benign, and patient,
 Lose not that people in fierceness of thine ire
 For whom thou hast shewed such tokens evident,
 Converting this rod into a lively serpent,
 And the same serpent into this rod again,
 Thy wonderful power declaring very plain.

For their sakes also puttest Pharaoh to pain
 By ten divers plagues, as I shall here declare.
 By blood, frogs, and lice; by flies, death, botch and blain;¹ By hail, by grasshoppers, by darkness, and by care;
 By a sudden plague, all their first gotten ware,
 Thou slewest, in one night, for his fierce cruelty.
 From that thy people withhold not now thy goodness.

¹ blister.

Pater Cœlestis. I certify thee, my chosen servant Moses,
That people of mine is full of unthankfulness.

Moses. Dear Lord, I know it, alas! yet weigh their weakness,
And bear with their faults, of thy great bounteousness.
In a flaming bush having to them respect,
Thou appointedst me their passage to direct,
And through the Red Sea thy right hand did us lead
Where Pharaoh's host the flood overwhelmed indeed.

Thou wentest before them in a shining cloud all day
And in the dark night in fire thou shewedst their way.
Thou sentest them manna from heaven to be their food.
Out of the hard stone thou gavest them water good.
Thou appointedst them a land of milk and honey.
Let them not perish for want of thy great mercy.

Pater Cœlestis. Content they are not with foul nor yet with fair,

But murmur and grudge as people in despair.
As I sent manna they had it in disdain,
Thus of their welfare they many times complain.
Over Amalek I gave them the victory.

Moses. Most glorious Maker, all that is to thy glory.
Thou sentest them also a law from heaven above,
And daily shewedst them many tokens of great love.
The brazen serpent thou gavest them for their healing,
And Balaam's curse thou turnedst into a blessing.
I hope thou wilt not disdain to help them still.

Pater Cœlestis. I gave them precepts, which they will not fulfil

Nor yet acknowledge me for their God and good Lord,
So do their vile deeds with their wicked hearts accord
Whilst thou hast talked with me familiarly
On Sinai's mountain, the space but of days forty,
These sights all they have forgotten clearly,
And are turned to shameful idolatry.

For their God, they have set up a golden calf.

Moses. Let me say something, sweet Father, in their behalf.

Pater Cœlestis. I will first conclude, and then say on thy mind.

For that I have found that people so unkind,
Not one of them shall enjoy the promise of me,
For entering the land, but Caleb and Josue.¹

Moses. Thy eternal will evermore fulfilled be.

For disobedience thou slewest the sons of Aaron,
 The earth swallowed in both Dathan and Abiron.
 The adders did sting other wicked persons else,
 In wonderful number. Thus hast thou punished rebels.

Pater Cœlestis. Never will I spare the cursed iniquity.

Of idolatry, for no cause, thou mayst trust me.

Moses. Forgive them yet, Lord, for this time, if it may be.

Pater Cœlestis. Thinkest thou that I will so soon change my decree?

No, no, friend Moses, so light thou shalt not find me.

I will punish them all; Israel shall it see.

Moses. I know, thy people have wrought abomination,
 Worshipping false gods, to thy honour's derogation,
 Yet mercifully thou mayest upon them look;
 And if thou wilt not, thrust me out of thy book.

Pater Cœlestis. Those great blasphemers shall out of my book clean,

But thou shalt not so, for I know what thou dost mean,
 Conduct my people, mine angel shall assist thee,
 That sin in a day will not uncorrected be.

And for the true zeal that thou to my people hast,
 I add this covenant unto my promises past.

Raise them up I will a prophet from among them,
 Not unlike to thee, to speak my words unto them.
 Whoso heareth not that he shall speak in my name,
 I will revenge it to his perpetual shame.

The passover lamb will be a token just
 Of this strong covenant. This have I clearly discussed,
 In my appointment this hour for your deliverance.

Moses. Never shall this thing depart from my remembrance,
 Praise be for ever to thee, most merciful Lord,
 Who never withdrawest from man thy heavenly comfort,
 But from age to age thy benefits do record
 What thy goodness is, and hath been to his sort.
 As we find thy grace, so ought we to report,
 And doubtless it is to us most bounteous,
 Yea, for all our sins most ripe and plenteous.

Abraham our father found thee benevolous,¹

So did good Isaac in his distress among.

To Jacob thou wert a guide most gracious.

Joseph thou savedst from dangerous deadly wrong.

¹ benevolent.

Melchisedec and Job felt thy great goodness strong,
So did good Sarah, Rebecca, and fair Rachel,
With Zephorah my wife, the daughter of Raguel.

To praise thee, sweet Lord, my faith doth me compel
For thy covenant's sake wherein rests our salvation,
The seed of promise, all other seeds excel,
For therein remaineth our full justification.
From Adam to Noah, in Abraham's generation,
That seed procureth God's mighty grace and power;
For the same seed's sake, I will sing now this hour.

[Then he begins to sing an antiphon in a clear voice,
"O Emmanuel," which the chorus (as before) follows with instruments.

O high king Emmanuel, and our liege Lord! the long expectation of the Gentiles, and the mighty Saviour of their multitude, the health and consolation of sinners, come now to save us, as our Lord and our Redeemer.

ACT V

OF PIUS KING DAVID

Pater Cœlestis. For all the favour I have shewed Israel,
Delivering it from Pharaoh's tyranny,
And giving the land, fluentem lac et mel,¹
Yet will it not leave its old idolatry,
Nor know me for God. I abhor its misery.
Vexed it I have with battles and decays,
Still must I plague it, I see no other ways.

David. Remember yet, Lord, thy worthy servant Moses,
Walking in thy sight, without rebuke of thee.
Both Aaron, Jethro, Eleazar, and Phinees,²
Evermore feared to offend thy majesty,
Much thou acceptedst thy servant Josue.³
Caleb and Othniel sought thee with all their heart,
Aioth and Sangar for thy folk did their part.

Gideon and Tholus thy enemies put to smart,
Jair and Jephtha gave praises to thy name.
These, to leave idols, thy people did court.
Samson the strongest, for his part did the same.
Samuel and Nathan thy messages did proclaim.

What though fierce Pharaoh wrought mischief in thy sight,

He was a pagan, lay not that in our light.

I know the Benjamites abused the ways of right,
So did Eli's sons, and the sons of Samuel.

Saul in his office was slothful day and night,
Wicked was Shimei, so was Ahitophel.

Measure not by them the faults of Israel,
Whom thou hast loved of long time so entirely,
But of thy great grace remit its wicked folly.

Pater Cœlestis. I cannot abide the vice of idolatry,
Though I should suffer all other villany.

When Joshua was dead, that sort from me did fall
To the worshipping of Ashteroth and Baal,
Full unclean idols, and monsters bestial.

David. For it they have had thy righteous punishment,
And forasmuch as they did wickedly consent
To the Philistines and Canaanites ungodly
Idolaters, taking to them in matrimony,
Thou threwest them under the King of Mesopotamy,
After thou subduedst them for their idolatry.

Eighteen years to Eglon, the King of Moabites,
And twenty years to Jabin, the King of Canaanites,
Oppressed they were seven years by the Midianites,
And eighteen years vexed by the cruel Ammonites.
In three great battles, of three score thousand and five,
Of this thy people, not one was left alive.

Have mercy now, Lord, and call them to repentance.

Pater Cœlestis. So long as they sin, so long shall they have grievance.

David my servant, something must I say to thee,
For that thou lately hast wrought such vanity.

David. Spare not, blessed Lord, but say thy pleasure to me.

Pater Cœlestis. Of late days thou hast misused Bathsheba,
The wife of Uriah, and slain him in the field.

David. Mercy, Lord, mercy; for doubtless I am defiled.

Pater Cœlestis. I constitute thee a king over Israel,
And thee preserved from Saul, who was thine enemy.
Yea, in my favour, so much thou didst excel,
That of thine enemies I gave thee victory.
Philistines and Syrians to thee came tributary.
Why hast thou then wrought such folly in my sight.

Despising my word, against all godly right?

David. I have sinned, Lord, I beseech thee, pardon me,

Pater Cœlestis. Thou shalt not die, David, for this iniquity,

For thy repentance; but thy son by Bathsheba

Shall die, forasmuch as my name is blasphemed

Among my enemies, and thou the worse esteeined.

From thy house for this the sword shall not depart.

David. I am sorry, Lord, from the bottom of my heart.

Pater Cœlestis. To further anger thou dost me yet compel.

David. For what matter, Lord? I beseech thy goodness tell.

Pater Cœlestis. Why didst thou number the children of Israel?

Supposest in thy mind therein thou hast done well?

David. I cannot say nay, but I have done indiscreetly

To forget thy grace for a human policy.

Pater Cœlestis. Thou shalt of these three choose which plague thou wilt have,

For that sinful act, that I thy soul may save.

A scarceness seven years, or else three months' exile,

If not, for three days a pestilence most vile,

For one thou must have, there is no remedy.

David. Lord, at thy pleasure, for thou art full of mercy.

Pater Cœlestis. Of a pestilence then, three score thousand and ten,

In three days shall die of thy most puissant men.

David. O Lord, it is I who have offended thy grace,

Spare them and not me, for I have done the trespace.¹

Pater Cœlestis. Though thy sins be great, thine inward heart's contribution

Doth move my stomach in wonderful condition.

I find thee a man according to my heart;

Wherefore this promise I make thee, ere I depart.

A fruit there shall come forth issuing from thy body,
Whom I will advance upon thy seat for ever.

His throne shall become a seat of heavenly glory

His worthy sceptre from right will not dissever,

His happy kingdom, of faith shall perish never.

Of heaven and of earth he was author principal,

And will continue, though they do perish all.

This sign shalt thou have for a token special,

That thou mayst believe my words unfeignedly,

Where thou hast minded, for my memorial,

¹ trespass.

To build a temple, thou shalt not finish it truly;
 But Solomon thy son shall do that action worthy,
 In token that Christ must finish everything
 That I have begun, to my praise everlasting.

David. Immortal glory to thee, most heavenly King,
 For that thou hast given continual victory
 To me thy servant, ever since my anointing,
 And also before, by many conquests worthy.
 A bear and lion I slew through thy strength only.
 I slew Goliath, who was six cubits long.
 Against thine enemies thou madest me ever strong.

My fleshly frailness made me do deadly wrong,
 And clean to forget thy laws of righteousness.
 And though thou visitedst my sinfulness among,
 With pestilent plagues, and other unquietness;
 Yet never tookst thou from me thy plenteousness
 Of thy godly spir't, which thou in me didst plant.
 I having remorse, thy grace could never want.

For in conclusion, thy everlasting covenant
 Thou gavest unto me for all my wicked sin;
 And hast promised here by protestation constant,
 That one of my seed shall such high fortune win,
 As never did man since this world did begin.
 By his power he shall put Satan from his hold,
 In rejoice whereof to sing will I be bold.

*[Then he begins in a musical voice an antiphon,
 "O Adonai," which the chorus (as before) follows with instruments.]*

O Lord God Adonai, and guide of the faithful house of Israel, who sometime appearedst in the flaming bush to Moses, and to him didst give a law on Mount Sinai, come now to redeem us in the strength of thy right hand.

ACT VI OF THE PROPHET ESAIAS

Pater Cœlestis. I brought up children from their first infancy,
 Who now despise all my godly instructions.
 An ox knoweth its lord, an ass its master's duty,
 But Israel will not know me, nor my conditions.
 Oh, froward people, given all to superstitions,

Unnatural children, expert in blasphemies,
Provoke me into hate, by their idolatries.

Take heed to my words, ye tyrants of Sodoma,
In vain ye offer your sacrifice to me.

Discontent I am with you beasts of Gomorrah
And have no pleasure when I your offerings see.

I abhor your fasts and your solemnity,

For your traditions my ways ye set apart,

Your works are in vain, I hate them from the heart.

Esaias. Thy city, sweet Lord, is now become unfaithful,
And her conditions are turned upside down.

Her life is unchaste, her acts be very hurtful,

Her murder and theft have darkened her renown.

Covetous rewards do so their conscience drown,

That the fatherless they will not help to right,

The poor widow's cause comes not before their sight.

Thy peaceable paths seek they neither day nor night;
But walk wicked ways after their fantasy.

Convert their hearts, Lord, and give them thy true light,
That they may perceive their customable folly:

Leave them not helpless in so deep misery,

But call them from it of thy most special grace,

By thy true prophets, to their souls' health and solace.

Pater Cœlestis. First they had fathers, then had they patriarchs,

Then dukes, then judges for their guides and monarchs:

Now have they stout kings, yet are they wicked still,

And will in no wise my pleasant laws fulfil.

Always they apply to idols' worshipping,

From the vile beggar to the appointed king.

Esaias. For that cause thou hast in two divided them,
In Samaria the one, the other in Jerusalem.

The king of Judah in Jerusalem did dwell,

And in Samaria the king of Israel.

Ten of the twelve tribes became Samaritans,

And the other two were Hierosolymitans.¹

In both these countries, according to their doings,
Thou permittedst them to have most cruel kings.

The first of Judah was wicked king Roboam,

Of Israel the first was that cruel Jeroboam;

Abiah then followed, and in the other Nadab,

Then Bassa, then Helah, then Zambri, Jehoram and Ahab.

Then Ochesius, then Athaliah, then Joas;¹

On the other part was Jonathan and Achaz.

To rehearse all them that have done wretchedly

In the sight of thee, it were long verily.

Pater Cœlestis. For the wicked sin of filthy idolatry,
Which the ten tribes did in the land of Samarie,
In space of one day fifty thousand men I slew,
Three of their cities also I overthrew,
And left the people in such captivity,
That in all the world they knew not whither to flee.

The other two tribes, when they from me went back
To idolatry, I left in the hand of Shishak,
The king of Egypt, who took away their treasure,
Conveyed their cattle, and slew them without measure.
In time of Ahaz, a hundred thousand and twenty
Were slain at one time for their idolatry.

Two hundred thousand from thence were captive led,
Their goods dispersed, and they with penury fed,
Seldom they fail it, but either the Egyptians
Have them in bondage, or else the Assyrians.

Esaias. Well, yet blessed Lord, relieve them with thy mercy.
Though they have been ill other princes' days,
Yet good Hezekiah hath taught them goodly ways.
When the prince is good, the people are the better;
And as he is nought, their vices are the greater.
Heavenly Lord, therefore send them the consolation,
Which thou hast covenanted with every generation.

Open thou the heavens, and let the lamb come hither,
Who will deliver thy people altogether.

Ye planets and clouds, cast down your dews and rain,
That the earth may bear out healthful savour plain.

Pater Cœlestis. May the wife forget the child of her own body?

Esaias. Nay, that she can not in any wise verily.

Pater Cœlestis. No more can I them who will do my commandments,

But must preserve them from all inconvenience.

Esaias. Blessed art thou, Lord, in all thy acts and judgments.

Pater Cœlestis. Well, Esaias, for this thy fidelity,

A covenant of health thou shalt have also of me,

¹ Joash.

For Zion's sake now I will not hold my peace,
 And for Jerusalem, to speak will I not cease
 Till that righteous Lord become as a sunbeam bright,
 And their just saviour as a lamp extend his light.

A rod shall shoot forth from the old stock of Jesse,
 And a bright blossom from that root will arise,
 Upon whom always the spir't of the Lord shall be,
 The spir't of wisdom, the spir't of heavenly practice,
 And the spir't that will all godliness devise.

Take this for a sign, a maid of Israel
 Shall conceive and bear that Lord Emmanuel.

Esaias. Thy praises condign no mortal tongue can tell,
 Most worthy maker and king of heavenly glory,
 For all capacities thy goodness doth excel,
 Thy plenteous graces no brain can compass truly,
 No wit can conceive the greatness of thy mercy,
 Declared of late in David thy true servant,
 And now confirmed in this thy later covenant.

Of goodness thou madest Solomon of wit more pregnant,
 Asa and Josaphat, with good king Hezechiah,
 In thy sight to do that was to thee right pleasant.
 To quench idolatry thou raisedst up Elijah
 Jehu, Elisha, Micah, and Obdiah,
 The Syrian Naaman thou purgedst of a lepry ¹
 Thy works wonderful who can but magnify?

Arise, Jerusalem, and take faith by and by,²
 For the very light that shall save thee is coming.
 The Son of the Lord appear will evidently,
 When he shall resort, see that no joy be wanting.
 He is thy saviour, and thy life everlasting,
 Thy release from sin, and thy whole righteousness,
 Help me in this song t' acknowledge his great goodness.

[Then in a tuneful voice he begins an antiphon, "O radix Jesse," which the chorus follows with instruments.

O fruitful root of Jesse, that shall be set as a sign among people, against the worldly rulers shall fiercely open their mouths, whom the Gentiles worship as their heavenly Lord. Come now to deliver us, and delay the time no longer.

¹ leprosy.

² immediately.

ACT VII
OF JOHN THE BAPTIST.

Pater Cœlestis. I have with fierceness mankind oft-times corrected,

And again I have allured him by sweet promise.
I have sent sore plagues, when he hath me neglected,
And then by and by, most comfortable sweetness.
To win him to grace, both mercy and righteousness
I have exercised, yet will he not amend.
Shall I now lose him, or shall I him defend?

In his most mischief, most high grace will I send
To overcome him by favour, if it may be.
With his abuses no longer will I contend
But now accomplish my first will and decree.
My word being flesh, from hence shall set him free,
Him teaching a way of perfect righteousness,
That he shall not need to perish in his weakness.

John the Baptist. Manasseh is past, who turned from thee his heart.

Ahaz and Ammon have now no more ado,
Jechoniah with others who did themselves avert
From thee to idols, may now no farther go.
The two false judges, and Baal's wicked priests also,
Phassur and Semaiah, with Nebuchadnosor,
Antiochus and Triphon, shall thee displease no more.

Three score years and ten, thy people into Babylon
Were captive and thrall for idols' worshipping.
Jerusalem was lost, and left void of dominion,
Burnt was their temple, so was their other building,
Their high priests were slain, their treasure came to nothing;

The strength and beauty of thine own heritage,
Thus didst thou leave them in miserable bondage.

Oft had they warnings, sometimes by Ezekiel
And other prophets, as Isay and Jeremy,
Sometimes by Daniel, sometimes by Hosea and Joel,
By Amos and Abdiah, by Jonah and Sophonya,¹
By Nahuin and Micah, Haggai and by Zachary
By Malachias, and also by Habakkuk,

¹ Zephaniah.

By Olda the widow, and by the prophet Baruch.

Remember Josiah, who took the abomination
From the people, then restoring the laws again.
Of Rahab consider the faithful generation,
Whom to wine drinking no friendship might constrain.
Remember Abimelech, the friend of truth certain,
Zerubabel the prince, who did repair the temple,
And Jesus Josedech, of virtue the example.

Consider Nehemiah, and Esdras the good scribe,
Merciful Tobias, and constant Mardocheus;¹
Judith and Queen Esther, of the same godly tribe,
Devout Matthias and Judas Maccabæus.
Have mind of Eleazer, and then Joannes Hircanus,
Weigh the earnest faith of this godly company,
Though the other clean fall from thy memory.

Pater Cœlestis. I will John, I will, for as I said before,
Rigour and hardness I have now set apart,
Minding from henceforth to win man evermore
By wonderful kindness to break his stubborn heart,
And change it from sin. For Christ shall suffer smart,
In man's frail nature for his iniquity,
This to make open, my messenger shalt thou be.

John the Baptist. As thy pleasure is, so blessed Lord appoint me,
For my health thou art, and my soul's felicity.

Pater Cœlestis. Long ere I made thee, I the predestinate,
Before thou wert born I thee endued with grace.
In thy mother's womb wert thou sanctificate
By my godly gift, and so confirmed in place,
A prophet, to shew a way before the face
Of my most dear son, who will come: then until
Apply thee apace thine office to fulfil.

Preach to the people, rebuking their negligence,
Dip them in water, acknowledging their offence;
And say unto them, The kingdom of God doth come.

John the Baptist. Unmeet, Lord, I am, *Quia puer ego sum.*²
And other than that, alas, I have no science
Fit for that office, neither yet clean eloquence.

Pater Cœlestis. Thou shalt not say so, for I have given thee
grace,

Eloquence and age, to speak in desert place.

Thou must do therefore as I shall thee advise,

¹ Mordecai.

² Because I am a youth.

My appointed pleasure forth utter in any wise;
 My strong mighty words put I into thy mouth,
 Spare not, but speak them to east, west, north and south.

[God stretching out his hand, touches John's lips with his finger and confers upon him a golden tongue.]

Go now thy way forth, I shall thee never fail,
 The spir't of Elijah have I given thee already.
 Persuade the people, that they their sins bewail;
 And if they repent their customizable folly,
 Long shall it not be ere they have remedy.
 Open thou their hearts: tell them their health is coming
 As a voice in a desert; see thou declare the thing.

I promise thee sure, thou shalt wash him among them
 In Jordan, a flood not far from Jerusalem.

John the Baptist. Shew me yet, good Lord, whereby shall I know that man,

In the multitude which will resort to Jordan.

Pater Cœlestis. In thy mother's womb of him hadst thou cognition.

Have thou no fear John, him shalt thou know full well,
 And one special token afore will I thee tell.

Super quem videris spiritum descendenter et manentem

Super eum, hic est qui baptizat spiritu sancto :

Among all other whom thou shalt baptise there
 Upon whom thou seest the Holy Ghost descend
 In shape of a dove, resting upon his shoulder,
 Hold him for the same, that shall the world amend,
 By baptism of spirit, and also to man extend
 Most special grace. For he must repair his fall,
 Restoring again the justice original.

Take now thy journey, and do as I thee advise,
 First preach repentance, and then the people baptise.

John the Baptist. High honour, worship, and glory be unto thee,

My God eternal, and patron of all purity.

Repent good people, for sins that now are past,
 The kingdom of heaven is at hand very nigh.
 The promised light to you approacheth fast,
 Have faith, and apply now to receive him boldly.
 I am not the light, but to bear testimony
 Of him am sent, that all men may believe,
 That his blood he will for their redemption give.

He is such a light as all men doth illumine,
 That ever were here, or shall be after this.
 All the world he made by his mighty power divine,
 And yet that rude world will not know what he is.
 His own he entering, is not regarded of his.
 They that receive him, are God's true children plain,
 In spir't regenerate, and all grace shall attain.

Many do reckon, that I John Baptist am he,
 Deceived are they, and that will appear in space.
 Though he come after, yet he was long afore me.
 We are weak vessels, he is the well of grace,
 Of his great goodness all that we have we purchase.
 By him are we like to have a better increase
 Than ever we had by the laws of Moses.

For Moses' hard law we had not else but darkness,
 Figure and shadow, all was not else but night,
 Punishment for sin, much rigour, pain, and roughness,
 An high charge is there, where all is turned to light,
 Grace and remission anon will shine full bright.
 Never man lived that ever saw God afore,
 Which now in our kind man's ruin will restore.

Help me to give thanks to that Lord evermore,
 Which am unto Christ a crier in the desert,
 To prepare the paths and high ways him before
 For his delight is on the poor, simple heart.

That innocent lamb from such will never depart,
 As will faithfully receive him with good mind.
 Let our voice then sound in some sweet musical kind.

[Then in a resounding voice he begins an antiphon,
 “O clavis David,” which the chorus follows with instruments, as before.

O perfect key of David, and high sceptre of the kindred of Jacob, which openest and no man sperith,¹ thou speakest and no man openeth; come and deliver thy servant mankind, bound in prison, sitting in the darkness of sin and bitter damnation.

¹ asks.

EPILOGUE

Baleus Prolocutor. The matters are such as we have uttered here,

As ought not to slide from your memorial;
 For they have opened such comfortable gear,
 As is to the health of this kind universal,
 Graces of the Lord and promises liberal,
 Which he given to man for every age,
 To knit him to Christ, and so clear him of bondage.

As St. Paul doth write unto the Corinthes¹ plain,
 Our forefathers were under the cloud of darkness,
 And unto Christ's days did in the shadow remain;
 Yet were they not left, for of him they had promise
 All they received one spiritual feeding doubtless.
 They drank of the rock which them to life refreshed,
 For one saving health, in Christ, all they confessed.

In the woman's seed was Adam first justified,
 So was faithful Noah, so was just Abraham;
 The faith in that seed in Moses forth multiplied,
 Likewise in David and Esaye² that after came,
 And in John Baptist, which shewed the very Lamb.
 Though they so afar, yet all they had one justice
 One mass, as they call it, and in Christ one sacrifice.

A man cannot here to God do better service,
 Than on this to ground his faith and understanding.
 For all the world's sin alone Christ payed the price,
 In his only death was man's life always resting,
 And not in will—works, nor yet in men's deserving,
 The light of our faith makes this thing evident,
 And not the practice of other experiment.

Where is now free will, which the hypocrites comment?
 Whereby they report they may at their own pleasure
 Do good of themselves, though grace and faith be absent,
 And have good intents their madness with to measure.
 The will of the flesh is proved here small treasure,

¹ Corinthians.

² Esaias.

And so is man's will, for the grace of God doth all.
More of this matter conclude hereafter we shall.

Thus endeth this tragedy or interlude, manifesting the chief promises of God unto Man by all ages in the old law, from the fall of Adam to the incarnation of the Lord Jesus Christ. Compiled by John Bayle. Anno Domini 1538.

APPENDIX A

"ST. GEORGE AND THE DRAGON" A MODERN CORNISH CHRISTMAS PLAY

CHARACTERS

SAINT GEORGE
THE DRAGON
FATHER CHRISTMAS
THE DOCTOR

KING OF EGYPT
TURKISH KNIGHT
THE GIANT TURPIN

Enter the Turkish Knight.

Open your doors, and let me in,
I hope your favours I shall win;
Whether I rise or whether I fall,
I'll do my best to please you all.
St. George is here, and swears he will come in,
And, if he does, I know he'll pierce my skin.
If you will not believe what I do say,
Let Father Christmas come in—clear the way. [Retires.]

Enter Father Christmas.

Here come I, old Father Christmas,
Welcome, or welcome not,
I hope old Father Christmas
Will never be forgot.

I am not come here to laugh or to jeer,
But for a pocketfull of money, and a skinfull of beer,
If you will not believe what I do say,
Come in, the King of Egypt!—clear the way!

Enter the King of Egypt.

Here I, the King of Egypt, boldly do appear,
St. George, St. George, walk in, my only son and heir.
Walk in, my son St. George, and boldly act thy part,
That all the people here may see thy wond'rous art.

Enter Saint George.

Here come I, St. George, from Britain did I spring,
I'll fight the Dragon bold, my wonders to begin.

I'll clip his wings, he shall not fly;
I'll cut him down, or else I die.

Enter the Dragon.

Who's he that seeks the Dragon's blood,
And calls so angry, and so loud?
That English dog, will he before me stand?
I'll cut him down with my courageous hand.
With my long teeth, and scurvy jaw,
Of such I'd break up half a score,
And stay my stomach, till I'd more.

[St. George and the Dragon fight, the latter is killed.

Father Christmas. Is there a doctor to be found
All ready, near at hand,
To cure a deep and deadly wound,
And make the champion stand.

Enter Doctor.

Oh! yes, there is a doctor to be found
All ready, near at hand,
To cure a deep and deadly wound,
And make the champion stand.

Father Christmas. What can you cure?

Doctor. All sorts of diseases,
Whatever you pleases,
The phthisic, the palsy, and the gout;
If the devil's in, I'll blow him out.

Father Christmas. What is your fee?

Doctor. Fifteen pound, it is my fee,
The money to lay down.
But, as 'tis such a rogue as thee,
I cure for ten pound.

I carry a little bottle of alicumpane;
Here Jack, take a little of my flip flop,
Pour it down thy tip top;
Rise up and fight again.

[*The Doctor performs his cure, the fight is renewed,
and the Dragon again killed.*

Saint George. Here am I, St. George,
That worthy champion bold,
And with my sword and spear
I won three crowns of gold.

I fought the fiery dragon,
And brought him to the slaughter;
By that I won fair Sabra,
The King of Egypt's daughter.
Where is the man, that now will me defy?
I'll cut his giblets full of holes, and make his buttons fly.

The Turkish Knight advances.

Here come I, the Turkish Knight,
Come from the Turkish land to fight.
I'll fight St. George, who is my foe,
I'll make him yield before I go;
He brags to such a high degree,
He thinks there's none can do the like of he.

Saint George. Where is the Turk, that will before me stand?
I'll cut him down with my courageous hand.

[They fight, the Knight is overcome, and falls on one knee.
Turkish Knight. Oh! pardon me, St. George, pardon of thee
I crave,

Oh! pardon me this night, and I will be thy slave.

Saint George. No pardon shalt thou have, while I have foot to stand,

So rise thee up again, and fight out sword in hand.

[They fight again, and the Knight is killed. Father Christmas calls for the Doctor, with whom the same dialogue occurs as before, and the cure is performed.

Enter the Giant Turpin.

Here come I, the Giant, bold Turpin is my name,
And all the nations round do tremble at my fame.
Where'er I go, they tremble at my sight,
No lord or champion long with me would fight.

Saint George. Here's one that dares to look thee in the face,
And soon will send thee to another place.

[They fight, and the Giant is killed; medical aid is called in as before, and the cure performed by the Doctor, to whom then is given a basin of girdy grout and a kick, and driven out.

Father Christmas. Now, ladies and gentlemen, your sport is most ended,
So prepare for the hat, which is highly commended.
The hat it would speak, if it had but a tongue;
Come throw in your money, and think it no wrong.

APPENDIX B

FROM THE CORNISH MYSTERY OF THE CRUCIFIXION

Jesus. Woman, seest thou thy son?

A thousand times your arms have borne him
With tenderness.

And John, behold thy mother;
Thus keep her, without denial,
As long as ye live.

Mary. Alas! alas! oh! sad, sad!

In my heart is sorrow,
When I see my son Jesus,
About his head a crown of thorns;
He is Son of God in every way,
And with that truly a King;
Feet and hands on every side
Fast fixed with nails of iron.

Alas!

That one shall have on the day of judgment
Heavy doom, flesh and blood,
Who hath sold him.

John. O sweet mother, do not bear sorrow,
For always, in every way
I will be prepared for thee:
The will of thy Son is so,
For to save so much as is good,
Since Adam was created.

Jesus. O Father, Eli, Eloy, · lama sabacthani?
Thou art my dear God,
Why hast thou left me · a moment alone
In any manner?

1st Executioner. He is calling Elias;
Watch now diligently
If he comes to save him.

If he delivers him, really
We will believe in him,
And worship him ever.

[Here a sponge is made ready, with gall and vinegar.
And then the Centurion stands in his tent, and says:

Centurion. I will go to see
How it is with dear Jesus:
It were a pity on a good man
So much contumely to be cast,
If he were a bad man, his fellow
Could not in any way
Truly have such great grace,
To save men by one word.

[The Centurion goes down.

2nd Executioner. It is not Elias whom he called,
Thirst surely on him there is,
He finds it an evil thing. [He holds out a sponge.
Behold here I have me ready,
Gall and hyssop mixed;
Wassail, if there is great thirst.

Jesus. Thirst on me there is.

3rd Executioner. See, a drink for thee here;
Why dost thou not drink it?
Rather shouldst thou a wonder work!
Now, come down from the cross,
And we will worship thee.

Jesus. O Father, into thy hands
I commit my spirit;
By thy will take it to thee,
As thou sent it into the world.

[Then Jesus shall die. Here the sun is darkened.

¹ Though this is called the Ludus Coventriæ, there is no evidence that the cycle ever was played at Coventry, or that at any time more than ten pageants were produced there by the town guilds. The Coventry Nativity Play that we print (from the text of Robert Croo, 1534) is one of the ten. It was played by the "Company of Shearmen and Tailors."

II.—THE CHESTER "BANNES" OR BANS

Reverende lordes and ladyes all,
That at this time here assembled bee,
By this messuage understande you shall,

That sometymes there was mayor of this citie,
 Sir John Arnway, Knyghte, who most worthilye
 Contented himselfe to set out an playe
 The devise of one Done Randali, moonke of Chester Abbey.

" This moonke, moonke-like, in scriptures well seene,
 In storyes travelled with the best sorte;
 In pagentes set fourth, apparently to all eyne,
 The Olde and Newe Testament with livelye comforthe;
 Intermynghinge therewith, onely to make sporte,
 Some things not warranted by any writt,
 Which to gladd the hearers he woulde men to take yt.

" This matter he abrevited into playes twenty-foure,
 And every playe of the matter gave but a taste,
 Leavinge for better learninges circumstances to accomplishe,
 For his proceedinges maye appeare to be in haste:
 Yet all together unprofitable his labour he did not waste,
 For at this daye, and ever, he deserveth the fame
 Which all moonkes deserve professinge that name.

" This worthy Knyghte Arnway, then mayor of this citie,
 This order toke, as declare to you I shall,
 That by twenty-fower occupations, artes, crafte~~s~~, or misteries,
 These pagentes shoulde be played after breeffe rehearsall;
 For every pagente a cariage to be provyded withall,
 In which sorte we purpose this Whitsontyde,
 Our pagentes into three partes to devyde.

" Now you worshippful TANNERS that of custume olde
 The fall of Lucifer did set out,
 Some writers awarrante your matter, therefore be boulde
 Lustelye to playe the same to all the rowtte;
 And yf any thereof stand in any doubte,
 Your author his author hath, your shewe let bee,
 Good speech, fyne players, with apparill comelye.

The good symple water-leaders and drawers of deey,
 See that your Arke in all poyntes be prepared;
 Of Noy and his children the wholl storye,
 And of the universall floude, by you shalbe played.

" The Sacrifice that faithfull Abraham of his sonne should make,
 You barbers and waxe-chaundlers of Aunciente tyme,
 In the fourth pageante with paines you doe take,
 In decente sorte set out—the storie is ffine—
 The offeringe of Melchesedecke of breade and wine,
 And the presentacion therof set in your playe,
 Suffer you not in any poynte the storye to decaye.

III.—CORNISH MIRACLE PLAYS

[From Norris's "Ancient Cornish Drama"]

We have no notice of the performance of the Cornish plays earlier than that of Richard Carew, whose survey of Cornwall was first printed in 1602. In his time they even played in regular amphitheatres, and the account he gives is well worth extracting, as it affords a vivid picture by one who was in all probability an eye-witness, nearly three centuries ago. "The quasy miracle, in English, a miracle play, is a kinde of interlude, compiled in Cornish out of some Scripture history, with that grossenes which accompanied the Romanes vetus Comedia. For representing it, they raise an earthen amphitheatre in some open field, having the Diameter of his enclosed playne some 40 or 50 foot. The Country people flock from all sides, many miles off to hear and see it; for they have therein devils and devices, to delight as well the eye as the eare; the players conne not their parts without booke, but are prompted by one called the Ordinary, who followeth at their back with the booke in his hand, and telleth them softly what they must pronounce aloud."

Writing a century and a half later than Carew, Dr. Borlase describes the amphitheatres in which these Cornish plays were given; more particularly one in the parish of St. Just near the Land's End. This round as it was popularly called, was "an exact circle of 126 feet in diameter; the perpendicular height of the bank, from the area within, now seven feet; but the height from the bottom of the ditch without, ten feet at present, formerly more. The seats consist of six steps, fourteen inches wide, and one foot high, with one on the top of all, when the rampart is about seven feet wide." Another round or amphitheatre was described by Dr. Borlase as a perfectly level area 130 feet across, and surrounded by an earthen mound eight feet high.

In such magnificent surroundings of open-air, picturesque country, sea, and sky, were these curious plays given to instruct and edify a multitude drawn at large from the country-side, which often must remain camped for two or three days in the neighbourhood to see the performances out.

IV.—FROM "THE CORNISH DRAMA," BY HENRY JENNER
(Celtic Review, April 1907)

"The trilogy known as the Ordinalia consists of:—(a) Origo Mundi, which begins with the Creation of the World, . . . and ends with the building of Solomon's Temple; (b) Passio Domini, which represents the Temptation of Christ and the events from the Entry into Jerusalem to the Entombment; (c) Resurrectio Domini, which gives the story of the Harrowing of Hell, . . . the Resurrection, and the events between the Resurrection and the Ascension with which it ends. Interpolated in the middle is the Legend of St. Veronica, and Tiberius, and the Death of Pilate. Running through all three is the old legend of the Origin of the Wood of the Cross." (Our two Mysteries are from "C").

V.—CONTEMPORARY ACCOUNT OF SIR DAVID LINDSAY'S
"SATIRE OF THE THREE ESTATES"

(From a Letter Written by Sir Wm. Eure, 26th Jan. 1540)

"In the feast of Ephipane at Lightgowe, before the king, queene, and the whole counsaile, spirituall and temporall.—In the firste entres come in SOLACE (whose parte was but to make mery, sing ballets with his fellowes, and drink at the interluydes of the play), whoe showed firste to all the audience the play to be played. Next come in a king, who passed to his throne, having nae speche to thende of the play, and then to ratify and approve, as in Parliament, all things done by the rest of the players, which represented THE THREE ESTATES. With him came his cortiers, PLACEBO, PICTHANK, and FLATTERYE, and sic alike gard: one swering he was the lustiest, starkest, best proportionit, and most valeyant man that ever was; and ane other swore he was the beste with long-bowe, crosse-bowe, and culverin, and so fourth. Thairafter there come a man armed in harness, with a swerde drawn in his hande, a BUSHOP, a BURGESS-MAN, and EXPERIENCE, clede like a DOCTOR; who set them all down on the deis under the KING. After them come a POOR MAN, who did go up and down the scaffolde, making a hevie complainte that he was hereyet, throw the courtiers taking his fewe in one place, and his tackes in another; wherthrough he had sceyld his house, his wyfe and childrene beggyng thair brede, and so of many thousands in Scotland; saying thair was no remedy to be gotten, as he was neither acquainted with controller nor treasurer. And then he looked to the King, and said he was not king in Scotland, fore there was ane other king in Scotland that hanged JOHNE ARMSTRANG, with his fellowes, SYM THE LAIRD, and mony other mae; but he had lefte ane thing undone. Then he made a long narracione of the oppression of the poor, by the taking of the corse-presaunte beists, and of the herryng of poor men by the consistorye lawe, and of many other abusions of the SPIRITUALITIE and Church. Then the BUSHOP raise and rebuked him. Then the MAN OF ARMES alledged the contraire, and commanded the poor man to go on. The poor man proceeds with a long list of the bushop's evil practices, the vices of cloisters, etc. This proved by EXPERIENCE, who, from a New Testament, shows the office of a bushop. The MAN OF ARMES and the BURGES approve of all that was said against the clergy, and alledge the expediency of a reform, with the consent of Parliament. The BUSHOP dissents. The MAN OF ARMES and the BURGES said they were two, and he but one, wherefore their voice should have most effect. Thereafter the King, in the play, ratified, approved, and confirmed all that was rehearsed."

EVERYMAN'S LIBRARY

By ERNEST RHYS

VICTOR HUGO said a Library was 'an act of faith,' and another writer spoke of one so beautiful, so perfect, so harmonious in all its parts, that he who made it was smitten with a passion. In that faith Everyman's Library was planned out originally on a large scale; and the idea was to make it conform as far as possible to a perfect scheme. However, perfection is a thing to be aimed at and not to be achieved in this difficult world; and since the first volumes appeared there have been many interruptions, chief among them Wars, during which even the City of Books feels the great commotion. But the series always gets back into its old stride.

One of the practical expedients in the original plan was to divide the volumes into separate sections, as Biography, Fiction, History, Belles-lettres, Poetry, Philosophy, Romance, and so forth; with a shelf for Young People. The largest slice of this huge provision of nearly a thousand volumes is, as a matter of course, given to the tyrannous demands of fiction. But in carrying out the scheme, publishers and editors contrived to keep in mind that books, like men and women, have their elective affinities. The present volume, for instance, will be found to have its companion books, both in the same class and not less significantly in other sections. With that idea too, novels like Walter Scott's Ivanhoe and Fortunes of Nigel, Lytton's Harold, and Dickens's Tale of Two Cities, have been used as pioneers of history and treated as a sort of holiday history books. For in our day history is tending to grow more documentary and less literary; and 'the historian who is a stylist,' as one of our contributors, the late Thomas Seccombe, said, 'will soon be regarded as a kind of Phoenix.'

As for history, Everyman's Library has been eclectic enough to choose its historians from every school in turn, including Gibbon, Grote, Finlay, Macaulay, Motley, and Prescott, while among earlier books may be found the Venerable Bede and the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle. On the classic shelf too, there is a Livy in an admirable translation by Canon Roberts, and Caesar, Tacitus, Thucydides, and Herodotus are not forgotten.

'You only, O Books,' said Richard de Bury, 'are liberal and independent; you give to all who ask.' The variety of authors, old and new, the wisdom and the wit at the disposal of Everyman in his own Library, may even, at times, seem all but embarrassing. In the Essays, for instance, he may turn to Dick Steele in The Spectator and learn how Cleomira dances, when the elegance of her motion is unimaginable and 'her eyes are chastised with the simplicity and innocence of her thoughts.' Or he may take A Century of Essays, as a key to a whole roomful of the English Essayists, from Bacon to Addison, Elia to Augustine Birrell. These are the golden gossips of literature, the writers who learnt the delightful art of talking on paper. Or again, the reader who has the right spirit and looks on all literature as a great adventure may dive back into the classics, and in Plato's Phaedrus read how every soul is divided into three parts (like Caesar's Gaul). The poets next, and he may turn to the finest critic of Victorian times, Matthew Arnold, as their showman, and find in his essay on Maurice de Guerin a clue to the 'magical power of poetry,' as in Shakespeare, with his daffodils

That come before the swallow dares, and take
The winds of March with beauty.

Hazlitt's Table Talk may help us again to discover the relationship of author to author, which is another form of the Friendship of Books. His incomparable essay, 'On Going a Journey,' is a capital prelude to Coleridge's Biographia Literaria; and so throughout the long labyrinth of the Library shelves one can follow the magic clue in prose or verse that leads to the hidden treasury. In that way a reader becomes his own critic and Doctor of Letters, and may turn to the Byron review in Macaulay's Essays as a prelude to the three volumes of Byron's own poems, remembering that the poet whom Europe loved more than England did was, as Macaulay said, 'the beginning, the middle and the end of all his own poetry.' This brings us to the provoking reflection that it is the obvious authors and the books most easy to reprint which have been the signal successes out of the many hundreds in the series, for Everyman is distinctly proverbial in his tastes. He likes best of all an old author who has worn well or a comparatively new author who has gained something like newspaper notoriety. In attempting to lead him on from the good books that are known to those that are less known, the publishers may have at times been even too adventurous. But the elect reader is or ought to be a party to this conspiracy of books and bookmen. He can make it possible, by his help and his co-operative zest, to add still more authors, old and new. 'Infinite riches in a little room,' as the saying is, will be the reward of every citizen who helps year by year to build the City of Books. With such a belief in its possibilities the old Chief (J. M. Dent) threw himself into the enterprise. With the zeal of a tt book-lover, he thought that books might be alive and p ductive as dragons' teeth, which, being 'sown up and doo the land, might chance to spring up armed men.' That ii great idea, and it means a fighting campaign in which ev new reader who buys a volume, counts as a recruit.

To him all books which lay
Their sure foundation in the heart of man . . .
From Homer the great Thunderer, to the voice
That roars along the bed of Jewish song . . .
Shall speak as Powers for ever to be hallowed!
